HEAD OFF AL SMITH, DRYS CRY

TEN INDICTED BY FRAUD JURY; ONE POLICEMAN

Loesch Declares War on Perjury.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Harry N. Russell, assault to rob [illegible], sentenced to 1 to 14 years on [illegible] charge in the penitentiary by Judge [illegible] F. McGoorty.

Fourteen new indictments, bringing the charges against terrorists who helped to carry the bloody 20th ward for the "America First" ticket on primary day, were presented by the special grand jury yesterday to Chief Justice William V. Brothers of the criminal court.

One indictment named a city policeman, George Hartigan of the Maxwell street station, who was charged with perjury. He had given false testimony before the grand jury, "wickedly devising and intending the due course of justice to pervert," the indictment charged.

Warning to Other Witnesses.

Commenting on this indictment, Frank J. Loesch, chief of the prosecuting staff named by Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, stated the jury was determined to demonstrate that any witnesses who attempted to foist a framed up story on the jury must face trial for perjury.

"The criminals we are dragging to the bar of justice are past masters in the art of the frameup," Mr. Loesch added. "In the past they have manufactured alibis, they have produced fake eye witnesses to confute the true testimony of the state, and they have corrupted the actual witnesses to crimes, forcing them to testify falsely.

"That is their chief weapon of defense, and we propose to break it before it can be used. Witnesses who deliberately perjure themselves had better be prepared to go to jail."

Five More Defendants Named.

Five new defendants were named in the indictments, and five others, who already were under indictment in other cases, were renamed in the new bills. The total so far indicted by the special grand jury is fifteen.

One of the new indictments, naming two defendants as yet unmentioned in the inquiry, was suppressed, and the names of the defendants withheld pending their arrest. F. Edson White, foreman of the jury, told Judge Brothers that he believed the men would flee from the city before they could be arrested, if their names became known.

Policeman Hartigan was called to verify the testimony of Attorney C. Ray Hansen and Russell Sampson, official watchers of the primary at a polling place at 1069 West Polk street, who had declared they were ordered from the polling place by armed gunmen who dragged them out by force, placed them in an automobile and kidnaped them, all the while pointing revolvers at them. The two watchers said Hartigan stood by while this went on.

May Indict Another Policeman.

Hartigan denied every point of the watchers' testimony, and insisted that he had seen nothing at all out of the way. The jury was convinced he lied, and decided on his indictment. Reports have it that another policeman who has given testimony also faces indictment.

Six of the new indictments charge identical offenses charged in the previous batch of indictments, the only difference being that a new defendant, Joe Silverman, alias Silva, is named in all of them. In the old indictments only Sammy Kaplan and Benny Zion, alias Yanger, were named. These indictments charge assault to murder and kidnaping, the complainants being David B. Tanner, Ronald B. Walling and Edwin Riend. The same three defendants are charged in two other new indictments with assaulting and kidnaping John C. Gilbert.

Sam Bardin, Joe Breclav, and Eddie Bernstein, all indicted in other cases, are charged in a new bill with an assault to murder Paumpy Cornelius. Johnny Armondo, held without bail for the murder of Octavius C. Granady, primary opponent of Morris Eller for ward committeeman, is indicted for an assault on George W. Dowell, wounded Deneen worker. Sammy Kaplan is indicted twice on charges of assaulting Willie Brown in one case and Henry Watts in the other. Bonds in all the assault cases were fixed at $20,000, in the kidnaping cases at $15,000, and in the perjury case against Hartigan at $2,500.

Bare Huge Chicago Dry Graft Plot

Rum Diversion Trial Leads to Expose.

Evidence of systematic graft on a large scale among the Chicago prohibition enforcement staff was being uncovered last night by government officials led by Assistant District Attorney Daniel Anderson. The graft was said to involve payments of sums totaling more than $100,000 to thirty prohibition agents and to include indications that a large percentage of Chicago dry agents may be guilty of taking money for winking at liquor violations.

The system began to come to light yesterday with the conviction of Samuel Weinberg and Roy C. Swanson, officials of the Shirley laboratories, before Federal Judge Fred L. Wham. The two were found guilty by a jury of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law in connection with the diversion of some 100,000 gallons of alcohol received from the government under permit for the ostensible purpose of manufacturing perfumes and hair tonics.

Reveals "Little Black Book."

Swanson, secretary of the tonic company, facing a two years' sentence in federal prison, revealed that he has in a vault a "little black book" in which he has a complete record of every graft transaction in which his company ever figured.

He said it contains the names of the agents to whom the payments were made, the time and place of each payment, the amount, the denomination of the bank notes—it was always in cash—and the identity of the agent or inspector of permits with whom the man who got the actual cash had to split the money.

The evidence in the trial of Swanson and Weinberg revealed phases of their deals with the prohibition men and it was stated that only the details written down in black and white in the "little black book" are needed to make complete a case of conspiracy.

Reported in Fear of Death.

Swanson's conviction was said to have put him in the mind to help the government against the shakedown system. Two weeks ago, it was learned last evening, he first made known the existence of the evidence in his hands, he told government officials he would not live 24 hours if he gave it up or even hinted at being willing to give it up.

Swanson, it was pointed out, has less than a week to make his arrangements with the government. He and the others involved in the alcohol diversion conspiracy case will go before the court for sentence on Thursday.

Evidence Given at Trial.

The trial of the two tonic men established officially that Ben Black, alcohol recooker, purchased from the Shirley laboratories about 40,000 gallons of alcohol. The government men say they could have proved it really was 100,000 gallons and that he paid $250,000 for it.

Robert Laurie, chief recooker for Black who had a chain of south side stills in which the poison put in the alcohol by the government was taken out, testified for the government. So also did Dorothy Zwick, former sweetheart of Black. And it was a lover's quarrel between Miss Zwick and Black that first brought the matter to the attention of the government.

Splitup of Money Known.

The government knows, according to its attorneys, that dry agents collected $1 for each of the 100,000 gallons of alcohol diverted, and it knows also how that money was split up among the agents and inspectors.

The government's present evidence accounts for 80 cents of each dollar collected, Assistant District Attorney Anderson said. There is some evidence, which it is hoped may be strengthened, that the other 20 cents went to "take care" of "officials both in Chicago and in Washington." It is presumed that dry officials are meant.

One point which is considered significant is that the government investigators have established that Swanson, facing prison, and despite all his efforts to make money by diversion of alcohol, is destitute.

"He hasn't a penny left—the grafting agents got it all," it was stated.

Much of the evidence now held by the government has been obtained by Alexander Jamie, former chief deputy prohibition administrator under E. C. Yellowley and now a member of the special unit in charge of George E. Golding.

SOCRATES WANTS NO HEMLOCK, BUT CAN USE PANTS

Socrates Kopulos, 5612 West Madison street, was in a cell at the Central police station last evening. He was despondent.

"Would you like some hemlock, like that other Socrates that bumped himself off?" inquired Lockup Keeper John Burns, who knows his classics.

"No hemlocks," replied Socrates, "but maybe some lockstitches or even some hemstitches, just so they are on some pants."

Socrates had been arrested for stealing a pair of trousers from the tailor shop of Isadore Kaufman, 151 North State street. His mistake was in wearing them back into the same shop. Kaufman seized him, called the police, and after he had reached the station took the stolen pants away from the thief. Later the tailor relented enough to take Socrates a pair of his own trousers, which he had left in the shop to be cleaned.

D. A. R. EXPELS MRS. BAILIE FOR "BLACKLIST" ROW

Washington, D. C., June 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Tufts Bailie of Cambridge, Mass., was expelled today from the Daughters of the American Revolution for circulating statements injurious to the organization.

The expulsion of Mrs. Bailie was ordered in a unanimous decision by the national board of management it was made public tonight. The charges against the Cambridge woman, which grew out of the publication of an alleged D. A. R. "blacklist" of radical speakers, were aired before the board yesterday in an executive hearing.

The testimony of Mrs. Bailie, however, eliminated the so-called "blacklist" from any connection with the national society, officials of the D. A. R. said today, and the charges which were acted upon today were that Mrs. Bailie had been disturbing the "harmony of the society."

MARINE HOPS AT WASHINGTON FOR NICARAGUA

Maj. Lutz planned to land at Miami, Fla., en route on his 2,000 mile air voyage. Previous plans for a nonstop flight were disapproved by the navy department.

Family of Five Killed as Train Crushes Auto

A family of five, preparing for the start of a vacation today, was wiped out yesterday by a fast Pennsylvania passenger train on a grade crossing in Hobart, Ind., near Gary. The victims were Edward Traeger, 37 years old, an employé of the Hobart Light company, his wife, Rachael, 27 years old, their two daughters, 7 and 5 years of age, and their son, aged 2.

Two weeks ago the Traegers purchased a small sedan. Yesterday they had done their final shopping for the vacation motor trip. On the way home they ran into a rainstorm.

At "cemetery crossing," near a graveyard, Traeger put on his brakes. He could see only a few yards, so he started cautiously across the tracks. Sixty miles an hour out of the rain the locomotive raced down on the car and demolished it.

Dwyer Sought After Crash.

John Dwyer, 34 years old, 4754 Dover street, son of the late Leo J. Dwyer Sr., millionaire realty operator, was sought last night in connection with an early morning crash in which his automobile was wrecked and Mrs. Andrew Weisburg, 35 years old, wife of the owner of the Oliver hotel of South Bend, Ind., was seriously injured.

Mr. Weisburg arrived in Chicago last night and said his wife had been stopping at the Blackstone hotel while spending a few days shopping. He said Mr. Dwyer was a friend of the family.

Mr. Dwyer, after crashing his new automobile into a post under the railroad viaduct at Clybourn avenue and Terra Cotta place took the woman to the Columbus hospital in a taxicab and then disappeared, so far as his family or the police were concerned.

One Death in County.

One death from an automobile accident in Cook county was reported during the day, raising the 1928 motor toll to 433.

Mrs. Josephine Claire, 70 years old, 4249 West 21st street, died from injuries received a week ago when she was struck at 22d street and 47th avenue, Cicero, by an automobile driven by John Donnelly of De Kalb, Ill.

George Fish, 16 months old, of Detroit, died from injuries received Thursday in a bus-auto collision near Beecher, Ill., which also took the lives of Mrs. Herbert Myers of East Chicago, Ind., and her two small children. The baby's mother, Mrs. Anna Fish, is in a critical condition.

Three golf fans, two women and a man, were injured when their automobile overturned into a creek on the Volmer road beside the Olympia Fields Country club. The car was backed off a bridge and fell six feet upside down in two feet of water. Those injured are Mrs. L. B. Cannon, 6916 South Park avenue; Mrs. J. Seinwenth, 8026 South Maryland avenue, and Jack Sherry, 6034 South Troy street.

YOUTH MAKING CANNON CRACKER LOSES A HAND

Everett Miller, 18, of 928 North Lorel avenue, lost his left hand yesterday after his home-made Fourth of July fireworks compound exploded in the basement of his home. Robert Knight Jr., 18, of 924 North Lorel avenue; Miller's 9 year old brother, Lawrence, and William Larsen, 7, of 5410 Iowa street, also were hurt.

Everett's left hand was so torn physicians at the West Suburban hospital amputated it. The other boys were burned on their faces and arms and cut by flying glass.

The smaller boys had asked Everett, who is a student at the Austin high school, to make a cannon cracker. He was mingling phosphorus and sulphur together in a glass jar when the blast occurred.

Rescue Flyers See Nobile's Dog at Play

[Copyright: 1928: By the Associated Press.]

KING'S BAY, Spitzbergen, June 22.—(AP)—Titina, the little terrier which sailed with Gen. Umberto Nobile across the top of the world in 1926, has emerged in safety from the wreck of the dirigible Italia.

This word was brought back by Majors Maddalena and Penzo, who today flew over the camp of the refugees, not only dropping additional stores but taking moving pictures of the place. They said that if the films are successful they will show the little dog racing around on the ice, chasing the shadows of the planes and leaping about her master.

Will Search for 7 Others.

They intend to devote tomorrow to flights in search of the seven men who were carried away with the bag of the Italia when the dirigible was wrecked on May 25. En route to the vicinity where this party is thought to be they will have opportunity to search some of the littoral of North East Land for traces of Roald Amundsen, whose rescue expedition disappeared after they departed from Bergen in a French seaplane last Sunday.

The Norwegian ice breaker Braganza was off North cape tonight with the planes of Capt. Riiser-Larsen and Lieut. Holm. A message from her was understood to mean that the floes had closed in and were holding her fast.

The Russian ice breaker Maligin is also meeting difficulties in penetrating the pack to the southeast of the archipelago. The messages from her were not entirely clear, either, but they seemed to indicate that she had been unable to get past Hope island, which is east of South cape, and was, therefore, turning farther eastward in an attempt to reach the vicinity of Foyn island by way of the passage between North East Land and Franz Josef Land.

A sealing vessel which arrived here today from Tromsoe followed closely the track which the Amundsen party was supposed to fly over, but saw no trace of the big French machine.

Still Hope for Amundsen.

Despite the seeming gravity of Amundsen's situation there is a feeling of optimism respecting him among the Arctic experts here. They recall the times in the past when he disappeared into the icy wastes of the Arctic and Antarctic, only to come out safely when hope for him had reached its lowest ebb. Particularly they mention his sudden change of direction in 1910 when he started for the north pole, but switched his plans in midocean and won a four nation race to the south pole.

The hope that he might have landed at Advent bay with the idea of establishing an independent base there was shattered when the steamer Svalbard visited that place today.

TWO AMERICANS HELD FOR RANSOM BY MEXICAN BAND

MEXICO CITY, June 23.—(AP)—The newspaper Exalsior today said that two Americans were kidnaped and held for ransom by insurgents yesterday in the town of San Rafael, about fifteen miles from Guadalajara, state of Jalisco.

The Americans were en route to mines in Zacatecas when captured. One of them was described as the manager of the Mex-Quital Del Oro Mining company, with holdings in that state. The insurgents numbered about fifty men and were being pushed by a federal detachment when they entered the town of San Rafael.

Held for $9,000 Ransom.

Los Angeles, June 23.—(AP)—A dispatch printed today by the Times from Mexico City reported that two Americans, W. M. Mitchell and a Mr. Cooper, had been kidnaped by a band of fifty rebels near Guadalajara and are being held for 18,000 pesos [about $9,000], ransom. The dispatch said the rebel chief had threatened further action unless the money is paid.

HOLDS UP TRAIN, LOOTS EXPRESS CAR OF $50,000

Blissfield, Mich., June 23.—(AP)—One bandit held up the express car of the Detroit-Toledo New York Central passenger train tonight and escaped with a money shipment estimated at $50,000, according to reports to the officials here.

The robber, who is believed to have boarded the train at Adrian, hurled the bound express messenger on to the station platform as the train slowed down here, and then leaped off the train himself and boarded a waiting automobile.

The holdup occurred between Monroe and Blissfield. When the train pulled in here at 10:30 p. m. the expressmen reported the holdup to authorities and asked that officers at Toledo be notified.

REED TO LEAD BITTER ENDERS AT CONVENTION

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Houston, Tex., June 22.—[Special.]—Developments tonight on the eve of the Democratic national convention signalized the beginning of a general offensive against the nomination of Al Smith for President.

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri arrived in Houston to lead the anti-Smith forces in their last stand against the New York governor with the hope of getting himself nominated in the end.

Adopt Warlike Attitude.

The southern drys adopted a warlike attitude against a platform plank proposing modification of the prohibition law, which, they said, is threatened by Smith's reaffirmation of his belief that the Volstead act should be liberalized to permit states to define intoxicating liquor.

The drys are marshalling their forces to fight for a plank dryer than that adopted by the Republicans at Kansas City. They aim to commit the Democratic party irrevocably to the 18th amendment and the Volstead act.

Their move is being interpreted as an effort to force through a platform that Smith would refuse to stand on.

Hull Creates Flurry.

A flurry was created late tonight when it was noised about that Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, a favorite son candidate for the presidential nomination who is boomed for running mate for Al Smith, had gone to the anti-Smith forces. He had issued a statement in which he said:

"I am decidedly opposed to any modification or weakening of the present federal prohibition measures. Whether this effort takes the form of an attempt to commit our party to modification or whether it takes the form of a demand for congressional action, I am against it."

At Variance with Smith.

It appears, however, that the statement was issued to counteract an impression created earlier in the day when Hull declined to throw in his lot with the ultra-drys, who are demanding a bone dry plank. He was accused of deserting the prohibition cause and his statement met the accusation by reciting his support of all prohibition legislation.

Senator Reed reached Houston at 7:30 o'clock. Refusing to talk for publication, he went into conference with his chief lieutenants, E. J. Villmoare, and F. J. Prince, who submitted their survey of the delegate strength upon which they believe they can rely to thwart Smith of the nomination.

It transpires that the Reed leaders credit Smith with not more than 650 delegates, which would be 84 short of the two-thirds majority necessary to nominate. They calculate that there are 450 delegates who will stand to the last ditch against the nomination of the New York governor. About half of these are instructed for various of the favorite sons while the other half are uninstructed delegates, chiefly from the politically dry and anti-Catholic south to which Smith, a wet and a Roman Catholic, is a special abomination.

Hope to Repeat Bryan Coup.

One of the plans of battle under consideration in the Reed camp is that the senator shall appear in the convention and in one of those eloquent speeches for which he is famous make an appeal for the framing of a platform and nomination of a ticket that will insure Democratic success in the election. His admirers are confident that he would be able to deliver himself of a "cross of gold and crown of thorns" speech that would stampede the convention into nominating him, as that famous utterance precipitated the nomination of Bryan in 1896.

Reed is not a delegate to the convention, as Bryan was, and would be able to gain the floor only on the proxy of a qualified member of the body, but his managers say that is a detail easily arranged.

Find Strategy's Weak Point.

The only weakness in the strategy of the Reed camp, as it is viewed even by anti-Smith leaders, is that it is founded on two assumptions, both of them violent. One is that the supporters of the favorite sons and all of the politically dry Catholic haters from the solid south will stand like a stone wall for many ballots against the nomination of Al Smith. The other is that the drys will support Reed, who is known to be as wet as Smith, despite his soft pedaling of the issue ever since he became a candidate.

The fact is that there are not more than 200 out of the 1,100 delegates who can be rated as last ditch anti-Smith men. The delegations of such favorite sons as Congressman Hull of Tennessee, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, former Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska and Evans Woollen of Indiana, all of whom are credited with aspirations to the nomination for Vice President, are honeycombed with men known to be favorable to Smith.

These men will flock to the New Yorker's banner at the moment deemed most propitious to acquire merit for their respective favorite sons with Gov. Smith, whose wishes with respect to the vice presidential nomination will be consulted.

Kansans Favorable to Al.

A majority of the Kansas delegation which is instructed for Congressman Ayres, is known to be favorable to Smith. The Arkansas delegation is largely pro-Smith, a circumstance that takes on additional significance in view of the booming of Senator Robinson for running mate for the New York governor.

What with the momentum of the Smith candidacy and the inchoate, leaderless condition of the anti-Smith forces, the nomination of the New York governor is now almost universally regarded a foregone conclusion.

Efforts are being made by some of the anti-Smith men to effect a coalition under a unified command, but so far to no avail. George Milton, the Chattanooga editor, is trying to rally the old McAdoo following and is putting forward Dan Roper, McAdoo leader in 1920 and 1924, as the Moses of their cause at Houston.

George Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, arrived today exuding enthusiasm for the Smith candidacy.

"We are going to nominate a Lincoln who has come up from the sidewalks of New York, and he is going to sweep the country in November," was the oracular pronouncement of the Tammany leader.

With that, however, Mr. Olvany subsided and sought sanctuary at the country house of a friend. It was gathered from his attitude that the Tammany Tiger is not going to show its claws in this convention. It is going to purr as softly as any kitten. There is to be no unseemly pressing for the nomination of Smith on the first ballot.

No Fight for Wet Plank.

Nor is Tammany going to fight for a wet plank in the platform. The Tiger is just going to lie low and lick its chops over any kind of a prohibition plank, provided, of course, it is not so all fired dry that Al couldn't stand on it without stultifying and discrediting himself. Mr. Olvany said definitely that Tammany would make no effort to obtain the sort of wet plank Smith is known to favor.

Now that excitement has evaporated from the contest over the presidential nomination by virtue of the general belief that Smith's choice is a certainty, attention is veering to the platform plank on prohibition. It is not unlikely that the framing of this plank will furnish the most exciting development of the convention.

Drys Mass Forces.

The Oliver W. Stewart flying squadron of drys has reached the scene of the battle and begun operations. The Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, chairman of the committee of 22 dry organizations which dictated the plank at Kansas City, is here directing a similar onslaught on the Democratic party. The Rev. Scott McBride and other representatives of the Anti-Saloon league are hourly expected.

Gov. Dan Moody of Texas is "rarin" to get into the fight over the prohibition plank. Intelligence from Austin today was that Moody will appear here not later than Monday, prepared to take charge of the fight for a bone-dry declaration, even dryer than the Kansas City one. Moody is a die-hard, anti-Smith Democrat and is bent on the production of a prohibition plank that will disqualify Smith for the nomination.

Moody is making overtures in all directions for support of a plank glorifying the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act as boons to the human race that shall ever remain unchangeable and unchanged. He has met with some significant rebuffs, however. Congressman Hull refused to go along with Moody on this proposition. He is keeping to the middle of the road where his friends hope he will appear as acceptable to the Smith wets as to the anti-Smith drys for the vice presidential nomination. Senator Pat Harrison, who also has vice presidential aspirations, likewise declined to join hands with Brother Moody.

Smith May Speak Views.

Of course, if the drys should succeed in putting over a plank too dry for Smith to stand on he undoubtedly would speak his mind as effectually as did Judge Parker in his gold telegram in 1904 which caused the Democratic convention hastily to put itself in accord with his views.

The hullabaloo of the last few days over the statement of National Committeeman Mack of New York to the effect that Smith favors prohibition modification has about died down. The anti-Smith people gleefully shrieked that Mack had spilled the beans. Of course Mack had said nothing that was not already known. And when Smith was shown the Mack statement he said he had not changed his view that the Volstead act should be modified.

That, however, does not mean that Smith cannot stand on a law enforcement plank such as the last Democratic platform contained or even one as dry as that of the Republicans. He has declared himself for rigid enforcement of the prohibition law so long as it is the law, while advocating its modification in the manner provided by law.

Women Are Bitter Foes.

The women of the dry organizations and of the national Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement league, which is headed by Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson of Maryland, a candidate for the nomination for Vice President, are omnipresent in the agitation against Smith and against a plank betraying the slightest moisture. Also active in the women's anti-Smith movement is Mrs. Clem Shaver, wife of the chairman of the Democratic national committee.

DEMOCRATIC SPECIAL MISSES CALIFORNIA WOMEN'S DRY PLANK

Los Angeles, Cal., June 22.—[Special.]—Passengers on the special train bearing California and other coast state delegations to Houston, where most of the delegates are pledged for Al Smith, failed to look in on the spirited meeting of the Women's Democratic League of Southern California during the one day stop-off here.

The Democratic Woman's club passed a resolution for a strong dry plank in the party platform and sent it to Houston. Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Douglas presided at the women's meeting.

Justus S. Wardell, 1927 candidate of the Democrats for governor on a wet platform, acted as spokesman for the far west convention delegation. Wardell and other speakers at a midday dinner prophesied that Hoover would have trouble keeping his home state in the G. O. P. column if Smith was harmoniously nominated.

RUM PLANK FIT FOR WET OR DRY GOING TO TEXAS

Senator King Author of "Safe" Proposal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—A prohibition plank upon which he believes the Democratic party and its presidential candidate, wet or dry, can stand with security and consistency, is to be submitted at Houston by Senator W. H. King [Dem., Utah], who left Washington for the Texas city this afternoon.

The senator declared his proposal would bind the Democratic party to the principle that "all constitutional laws must be faithfully and vigorously enforced," and pledge the appointment of competent enforcing officers.

The plank, he says, does not mention the 18th amendment specifically but it does include sharp criticism of the Harding and Coolidge administrations for their "political appointments" in connection with the enforcement of the Volstead act.

King a "State Rights Dry."

Senator King, although dry himself, has contended that prohibition is a question for determination by the states rather than by the federal government, and he goes to the Houston convention admittedly favoring the nomination of Gov. Al Smith, who has declared himself as committed to strict enforcement of prohibition as long as it remains the law.

Among several other platform proposals which the senator intends to submit, are planks favoring the entry of the United States into the world court and condemning the Coolidge administration's Latin-American and Chinese policies.

The latter plank would pledge immediate withdrawal of marines from Nicaragua and Haiti, and the abrogation of unequal treaties with China.

The senator said he was not prepared to submit a farm relief plank, but asserted his confidence that "one, complete in scope, and dealing satisfactorily with the present plight of the farmers" will be nailed into the Houston platform.

Wets Plan Battle.

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—There will be a knockdown and drag out fight against prohibition at the Democratic national convention at Houston. This information came today on the heels of Gov. Al Smith's admission last night that he had not changed his views on this issue, an admission into which he was provoked by the statement of Norman E. Mack at Houston in gratuitously announcing that the governor would stand before the country as a "wet," without any soft pedaling.

The fight, it is understood here, is to be instigated by an eastern delegation other than New York, so that onus for it will not fall upon the governor's immediate backers. This report drew no comment from the governor today. Nor would he amplify his declaration of last night, that he was for an amendment to the present prohibition law.

Battle Largely Vocal.

It can be said that those closest to the governor are not greatly concerned over the prohibition fight, and that for all the bellicose attitude they will display when they come to grips with the "drys," they will be more than willing to agree to an innocuous declaration for "law enforcement."

The supposition is that such a plank will be agreeable to the governor, but that as soon as the campaign opens he will make it plain in a carefully prepared speech that he favors such modification of the Volstead act as will permit each state to declare for itself what alcholic content it will allow within its borders.

Coming within the traditional Democratic idea of state rights, the governor's friends are unafraid of that outcome.

SIX INDICTED FOR HOUSTON LYNCHING; GET A CONFESSION

The indictments named John Kent, 27, ambulance driver; Charles Oldham, 24; F. T. Shuck, 33; Howard Minton, T. J. Reese, and Allen M. Kent. With the exception of Allen Kent, all are under arrest.

A. B. Wheeler, 36, boilermaker, who made a statement to the police admitting he participated in the lynching and naming the others, was not indicted.

The Negro was taken from a hospital, where he was being treated for wounds received in a gun fight with the slain officer, and hanged from a bridge outside the city early last Wednesday.

Wheeler in his statement said the Negro was not killed when he was first dropped from the bridge with a rope about his neck. Powell was put back on the bridge, the rope shortened and thrown off a second time, the fall dislocating his neck.

Norfolk, Neb., June 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles Tillotson, Nebraska's first woman aviatrix, was instantly killed tonight when the plane she was piloting alone went into a tail spin.

HOOVER URGED TO CENTER FIGHT IN NEW YORK

Washington, D. C., June 22.—[Special.]—New York is bound to be the major battleground of the forthcoming presidential campaign, according to every political prophet who visited Herbert Hoover, the Republican candidate, today.

Senator Moses [Rep., N. H.], who presided over the Kansas City convention, assured the commerce secretary that the Hoover-Curtis ticket will sweep every New England state in November. Representative Newton of Minnesota was equally certain that the middle west and the northwest, in spite of rumored farmer revolts, will swing overwhelmingly to the Hoover candidacy. Likewise, Clarence C. Hamlin, Republican national committeeman in Colorado, claimed his own state and most of the far west for Hoover.

Moses Sees Victory Sure.

Senator Moses, as he left Mr. Hoover's office, asserted that every statement emanating from the "Smith-Van Namee-Mack combination" to clarify Gov. Al Smith's prohibition stand, tended to make Republican victory more certain.

"For every wet Republican that Smith will gain, he will lose two dry Democratic women," declared the senator. "I have always been skeptical about Smith's ability to carry his own state in a presidential election. His ability to carry New York in a gubernatorial election is something entirely different."

Work Perfects Plans.

While these and other leaders were urging Secretary Hoover to center the fight mainly in New York and other eastern states, Dr. Hubert L. Work, the new chairman of the Republican national committee, went on with plans for a nation wide campaign which will carry the fight actively into every state in the union down to the moment the polls open on Nov. 6.

Dr. Work spent most of the day inspecting proposed quarters for the Washington campaign headquarters and conferring on the selection of managers for the New York and Chicago headquarters.

Mrs. Dunne's Will Leaves Estate to Ex-Governor

The will of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Dunne, who died May 23, leaves all of her property to her widower, Edward F. Dunne, former governor. The estate is estimated at $100,000. The final testament was filed yesterday before Edward S. Scheffler, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. The will provides that after the death of the former governor Mrs. Dunne's estate will be shared equally by their eight children.

SERBIA SEETHES AS 4 MORE MEET DEATH IN RIOTS

40,000 Croats View Slain Deputies' Bodies.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, June 22.—(AP)—Jugo-Slavia is seething with excitement. The riots at Zagreb, Croatia, stronghold of the peasants, which followed the slaying of two Croatian deputies and four others in the Jugo-Slav parliament at Belgrade proved even more sanguinary than at first thought. Four persons were killed, six are believed to be dying, and nearly 100 were wounded.

Public indignation, which had been smoldering over the policy of the government in favor of a treaty with Italy and other matters has reached fever heat. Belgrade and Zagreb resemble besieged cities, with military forces everywhere. The removal of the bodies of the two assassinated deputies, Paul Raditch and Dr. Basaritchek to Zagreb brought together great crowds of angry peasants along the funeral route; they were kept under restraint only by the military.

Sees Stormy Times Ahead.

The government newspaper Edinstvo declared today that stormy times were ahead for Jugo-Slavia. The severest censorship is being applied to all telephone and telegraph lines. Newspapers appear with great blank spaces.

The opposition newspapers are savage in their denunciation of the great tragedy. They charge that the murders were not accidental, but were deliberately planned, for the purpose of exterminating the government's chief opponents and obstructionists.

King Appeals for Peace.

King Alexander tonight appealed to the people of Jugo-Slavia to end their factional difficulties. He made his appeal through leaders of the Peasant-Democratic coalition party, the organization to which the victims of the shooting in parliament belonged.

The king's plea was echoed from the hospital bed of Stefan Raditch, the wounded leader of the party, whose nephew was one of the two slain. He asked members of the inner council of the party to be sure to convey the king's wish to the people of Zagreb.

The party leaders who visited Raditch at the hospital said that he was improving.

40,000 View Assassin's Victims.

ZAGREB, Croatia, Jugo-Slavia, June 22.—(AP)—Forty thousand persons packed the streets here today as the bodies of Paul Raditch and Dr. Basaritchek, killed in the chamber of deputies at Belgrade, were born from the railroad station. The coffins were carried to the headquarters of the Democratic Peasants' party where they lay in state while long lines of men, women and children filed past them.

The fatal rioting of yesterday and last night gave way to sorrow. Augmented forces of troops were on hand to preserve order but there was little need for their services. For the time, at least, the angered adherents of the slain deputies seemed inclined to follow the wish of Raditch's widow and let his life be the last sacrificed in the pacification of this three nationed kingdom.

What will happen, however, after the funerals tomorrow is a matter of dread and foreboding. There were plenty of muttered imprecations today against the government.

party—to force the resignation of the cabinet and new elections throughout the kingdom.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 22.—Secret messages received in Berlin today by Jugo-Slav adherents of the taxi driver prince, Alexander Dabischa Kotromanics, pretender to the thrones of Bosnia and Croatia, reveal that the shooting in the Serbian national assembly and riots at Agram were

Telegrams which escaped the rigorous censorship of Jugo-Slav authorities, in secret code, report that the words which cost the life of the Croatian, Paul Raditch, and that of his closest friend, and endangered the lives of the leader, Stephan Raditch, and others, were:

"The government has steadily misled the Croatian people by denying the existence of direct male descendants of the Kotromanics dynasty. The government lied knowingly. It is no secret that such a descendant exists and that he has established irrefutable documentary evidence. Prince Alexander Kotromanics in our opinion is the rightful——" and here a bullet cut his fateful sentence short.

M'ANDREW GRANTED WRIT FOR REVIEW OF SCHOOL TRIAL

William McAndrew, former school superintendent, yesterday won the right to a court review of his school board trial. Superior Judge William N. Gemmill issued a writ of certiorari for the transcript of the board proceedings that found the school head guilty on Mayor Thompson's charge that he was in league with King George.

McAndrew has contended that the school board trial was a farce, because his judges were his accusers, members of the board. He was not in court yesterday, being out of the city on a lecture tour.

Attorneys Angus Roy Shannon and Francis X. Busch, counsel for the former superintendent, argued before the court that a review was important to McAndrew for the sake of his reputation as an educator. Attorney Frank Righeimer, representing the board, opposed the issuance of the writ with an argument that even if the review would reverse the board's findings McAndrew would not be reinstated, because his contract had expired.

BIG POWERS WILL NOT PERMIT WAR, MUSSOLINI SAYS

Duce Warns Balkans to Keep Peace.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Copyright: 1928: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, June 22.—With a dangerous situation in the Balkans, as a result of the shootings in the Jugo-Slav parliament, Benito Mussolini, Italy's dictator, addressing the first congress of the Fascist national confederation of industry, today proclaimed again his desire for peace, both political and social.

He said the great western powers, "who guide the world in civilization, will not allow the peace among them to be disturbed." He obviously was referring to the Balkans, since he recalled that the Russians, Poles, Greeks, and Turks had embroiled Europe with wars since the world war.

Sees Era of Success Ahead.

While developing his theories of political and social peace for Europe, Il Duce painted an attractive picture to the industrial leaders of the corporative state of the accomplishments of Fascism. He said Fascism had united laborers and bosses in harmony, whereas socialism and the pre-war theories had been thoroughly exploded both in doctrine and in practice.

Premier Mussolini promised a great era of success for Fascistized industry. He held out the early prospect of good markets in India, China, and Russia, and promised there would be no further taxes. He said agriculture is making great strides this season.

Lire to Remain Stabilized.

The premier hinted that further cuts in wages might be necessary. He said: "If it is necessary to reduce wages to a point indispensable for meeting a crisis, the workingmen are promised that when the crisis has passed they will be recompensed later for the reduction."

The lire will remain stabilized where it is now (5.26 cents), Il Duce said, who ended by describing Fascism as a "national society of 42,000,000 people organized in the state and for the state."

PRINCIPALS' SECRET SESSION RUNS BEEBE FOR SCHOOLS' CHIEF

A group of Chicago public school principals met secretly yesterday to forward the candidacy of Daniel J. Beebe, former president of the Principals' club, for the superintendency of schools, it was learned last night. Mr. Beebe, principal of the Oglesby school, 7646 South Green street, has been mentioned as a possible successor to William McAndrew since McAndrew's suspension last August.

According to yesterday's discussion, Mr. Beebe's supporters await the meeting of the board of education next Wednesday. Then the first formal action toward the selection of a superintendent is expected. The principals backing Beebe's candidacy regard Ernest E. Cole, principal of the Field school, as a strong candidate and anticipate a deadlock among the trustees over Mr. Cole and William J. Bogan, acting superintendent. Unless a choice is made next Wednesday the principals plan to start a boom for Mr. Beebe, it was learned.

H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board, said yesterday the trustees have before them the records of 25 candidates for the superintendency. First formal discussion of their respective merits will be had Wednesday morning, he said.

LEADERS CALL BUSINESS GOOD, OUTLOOK SAME

See No Presidential Year Vagaries.

Business is good, business leaders reported to the Chicago Association of Commerce which sent out questionnaires concerning the first six months of 1928 and the outlook for the rest of the year.

"How is business and how does it look ahead?" the association wanted to know. "New legislation affecting business has been passed by congress. A national election with several issues is ahead. Do these or other factors have any effect on plans which business executives make for future business? If not, is the outlook encouraging?"

Reports Steel Trade Good.

"From my viewpoint, business at present is good," came the response from E. J. Buffington, president of the Illinois Steel company. "Encouraged by availability of supplies and by good transportation service customers continue a policy of providing for immediate needs only and restricting inventories to small volume. Fundamental conditions surrounding business appear to be sound; credit is readily available for all legitimate needs and labor is fairly well employed at good wages."

Eugene M. Stevens, president of the Illinois Merchants Trust company, said a distorted view of business conditions may have been drawn from stock market activties.

"The first half of 1928 has been in most lines of business fully as satisfactory as could have been expected," he said. "I see few reasons why the balance of the year should not give a satisfactory account."

Prefers Autos to Jewelry.

De Forest Hulburd, president of the Elgin National Watch company, said business conditions are good, but there has not been as much buying of jewelry this year. People are buying more automobiles and radios than jewelry, he said.

C. J. Whipple, president of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., said their business is about on a level with 1927. Crop conditions will govern the rest of the year, but he predicts it will be the same as last year.

George W. Young, vice president of Marshall Field & Co., said present sales are on a par with last year and the prospects for the rest of the year are good.

W. Frank McClure, vice president of Albert Frank & Co., said from the standpoint of the advertising man the outlook is encouraging.

C. L. Speed of Hart Schaffner & Marx, said clothing business seems to be going to the merchants who are going after it.

Ernest H. Burgess, vice president Edward Hines Lumber company, said the building program in Chicago for large buildings is enormous.

Leo Steele of Steele-Wedeles replied: "Business backed by preparation, perspiration, persistency, and initiative is better than ever and will be so in the future."

E. J. Edwards of S. Karpen & Bros., said business in 1928 should have been better than in 1927, but it isn't, but is holding its own and he predicts that 1929 will be a boom year.

CAPTIVE VASSALS OF PRINCE ARTHUR AWAIT WORD OF TWO COURTS

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday took under advisement the release from jail of Joseph Keil and Frank Schadeck, pending word from the Supreme court. The men were election officials of the Forty-second ward and they were sentenced to imprisonment for one year for offenses which they now say were due to orders of "Prince" Arthur Quinn, who forced them at a gun's point to make a false count of ballots.

Special State's Attorney Charles Center Case said he was convinced the men were innocent and they were prevented from making a proper defense and telling the truth, because Quinn had threatened to kill them in court if they blamed him. The proceedings before Judge Jarecki were to nullify the order of commitment.

"They have an appeal pending before the Supreme court," Mr. Case said, "and it is but courtesy to the Supreme court to let it know of these proceedings. Judge Jarecki has a perfect right to rescind the sentence, but we wish to avoid any embarrassment to either court."

The recount Judge Jarecki is having made of the Republican primary ballots resulted in few changes yesterday. "The America First" Thompson-Crowe candidates continued to have slight losses and the Deneen candidates slight gains, but no nominations have as yet been upset or endangered.

YOUTH HELD ON GIRL'S CHARGE.

Albert Cacini, 19, of 7304 Lowe avenue, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $5,000 yesterday by Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt in the delinquency court on charges made by a 14 year old school girl.

THIRTEEN KILLED IN BELGIUM AS TANK EXPLODES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, June 22.—An oxygen tank blew up at Bruges today, killing eight adults and five children, and injuring forty. Many American tourists, for whom the town is a picturesque paradise, witnessed the catastrophe, seeing the violent deaths, roofs blown off and windows shattered. The entire section of the town was wiped out and the repercussion was heard in towns within a radius of miles.

CLEAVER SENT BACK TO JAIL IN AMBULANCE

Charles Cleaver, indicted as the leader in the $133,000 Evergreen Park mail robbery on Feb. 25 was returned yesterday to the Wheaton jail from which he escaped nearly two weeks ago with four other desperadoes.

Cleaver was taken to the jail from the Bridewell hospital in an ambulance. He is recovering from eleven bullet wounds received in the Melrose Park gun battle with police that resulted in his capture. Joseph Farino, also wounded with Cleaver, is still in the hospital.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO PUBLISH ALL TAX LEVIES

Also Gives State Right to Order Reassessment.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—[Special.]—Dormant energy among the Illinois solons forced an outlet today in oratory about Al Smith, Herbert Hoover, Len Small, and others which added a touch of color in the closing moments of a drab third special session.

The state senate, as per schedule and with votes to spare, passed its six bills, three intended to help out the Cook county tax situation and three appropriating $24,000 for the five days' deliberations. The session may thereupon have passed out of existence, as its job was finished and the lower house had adopted the sine die adjournment resolution.

But there was no hurry, none of the getaway trains being scheduled to leave for some time, so there began tributes to some of the members whose faces won't be seen in the next regular session.

Republican Lauds Smith.

Senator Herbert Hicks of Rockford, whose Stanford university association with Herbert Hoover led him into a discussion of the fine qualities of the Republican nominee for President. Then, although a Republican, Senator Harold C. Kessinger of Aurora delivered a tribute to the wonderful rise in life of Al Smith.

Two of the three tax law bills passed are intended to remove all question of the power of the state tax commission to order a county reassessment of real estate such as it issued recently in reference to Cook county.

Third Is Most Effective.

The third of this group of bills is considered the most effective against tax inequalities. It requires the publication of the quadrennial real estate tax list by street addresses. This is expected to give the taxpayer his first apportunity to learn without expert assistance what taxes his neighbors pay.

The close of the session also was marked by an informal discussion of the latest John B. Fergus suit to force reapportionment of the state, quo warranto proceedings that are to be heard before Judge Hugo Pam in Chicago. The confab resulted in naming Senator Jesse L. Deck of Decatur to get in touch with the court proceeding and act on behalf of the downstaters opposed to compliance with the constitution.

Trial of Haffa on Rum Charge Set for July 9

Trial of Ald. Titus A. Haffa, Crowe-Thompson committeeman of the 43d ward, and five others on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, was set yesterday for July 9 by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham. The government contends that Ald. Haffa headed a north side bootleg syndicate that did an annual business of $1,000,000.

MALONE READY TO ORDER NEW TAX ASSESSMENT

Will Act When Small Signs Legislation.

Chairman William H. Malone of the Illinois tax commission is expected to issue another order for a new quadrennial assessment in Cook county as soon as Gov. Len Small attaches his signature to the tax bills passed yesterday by the special session of the legislature.

Mr. Malone a few weeks ago in a letter to the governor urging him to call the extra session asserted that gross inequalities in the 1927 revaluation necessitated a revision of the work. Before that the tax commission chairman had ordered a new assessment, but the attorney general ruled the commission was without authority to enforce this order. Yesterday's legislation is intended, among other things, to give the commission this authority.

Board Will Follow Order.

John E. Conroy, chairman of the board of assessors, said his board will follow legal orders. In regard to the new law requiring publication of real estate assessments by street and number, the assessors have been engaged in preparing the data for the printers for the last two months. This work has been with figures from the 1927 revaluation that the Illinois tax commission would revise.

Whether the county will go ahead with the printing or wait for the proposed new reassessment was a debated question yesterday. This is a problem that will have to be ironed out as soon as the new legislation becomes law.

CHICAGO GOOD WILL FLYERS CUT SCHEDULE AND REACH CHAMPAIGN

Champaign, Ill., June 22.—[Special.]—The Illinois chamber of commerce good will aerocade changed its itinerary hastily today and, instead of arriving in Champaign tomorrow, arrived here late this afternoon. Due to heavy rain the several stops at Carbondale and Marion were eliminated, and consequently most of the planes arrived here around four o'clock, and the remainder within two hours.

The fifty business men, pilots, newspaper men and others in the party were given a dinner at the Champaign Country club tonight. The last leg of the state tour will start tomorrow at eight o'clock for Danville, and thence to Kankakee, en route to Chicago.

The planes left Springfield this morning for East St. Louis and Belleville. They left Belleville this afternoon between two and three o'clock, and over half a dozen of them made the 150 miles to this place in an hour and a half. Several storms were avoided by altitude.

MA-IN-LAW OF 2 PEERS SCORNS CURFEW; JAILED

London Club Hostess Gets Six Months.

BY PAUL SHINKMAN.
[Copyright: 1928: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, June 22.—A gay rally of London's snappy night club colony was plunged into grief at the Bow street police station this afternoon. Kate Merrick, cabaret queen and the "Tex Guinan" of Soho and mother-in-law of two peers, was sent to prison for six months and fined $300 and costs as a result of an after-hour liquor raid last month on her jazzy Cecil club, formerly the Forty-three club, in Soho.

Kate, who became tied up with nobility when she married off her two daughters to the Earl of Kinnoul and Lord de Clifford, appeared in court this afternoon in a classy fawn velvet coat and blue hat, confidently expecting her sixty years of age, as well as her classy clientele, to "get her by" with a gentle reprimand and fine as usual.

All Pleas Fail.

She was dissolved in tears when the pietous pleas of her hand-picked counsel failed to exonerate her, as well as twenty-two of her clients, who were fined $5 to $25 and costs.

The defending counsel gently reminded the court of Kate's contribution to the gaiety of London's night life, declaring her clients generally were London holiday-makers expecting to find a phase of London life on which they might reminisce, all of which constituted a great temptation for Kate to break the law. Moreover, she was suffering from insomnia, heart trouble and a general rundown, and was prepared to make a solemp promise to be good.

Magistrate Unmoved.

The magistrate was obdurate and the sentence was passed amidst the indignant flutter of swell [illegible] are "dancing partners" [illegible] clubs, and who had tripped [illegible] the muddy Covent Garden [illegible] order to be present at the [illegible]

$2.12 IN PAVING REPAIR TO COST $5, SUIT CLAIMS

Charges Contract Waste Approaches Fraud.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Miss Mertle N. Elsenau, whose taxes on her Lake View property were jumped from $1,928 last year to $3,350 this year, has petitioned the Circuit court to investigate the money being spent for street repairs by private contract. Her plea is scheduled for hearing next Monday before Judge Hugo Friend.

He is the judge who decided last Wednesday that there was a conspiracy to defraud the city of $1,732,279 in real estate expert fees and that Mayor Thompson and other defendants must make full restitution.

Charges Waste Equals Fraud.

Miss Elsenau now charges there is so much waste in the contract awarded the White Paving company for repair of all thoroughfares north of Madison street that it is the equivalent of fraud. For brick repairs she says that the city has contracted to pay $5 a square yard, in the face of the fact that the city did this sort of repair work for $2.12 last year, $1.91 in 1926, and $1.86 in 1925.

Another charge of the complainant, recited in THE TRIBUNE last Wednesday, is that the city has contracted to pay the White concern $8 a square yard for asphalt repairs which the city itself did last year for $1.88, for [illegible] cents in 1926, and $1.86 in 1925.

Figures on Half of Work.

Last year when the city was doing its own work 599,487 square yards of asphalt repairs were made without surface heaters or portable heaters. The yardage of brick repairs for the same period was 144,432.

In awarding this year's street repair contract for all the area north of Madison street to White it was the intention to give him half the city streets to work on. Basing estimates on half the amount of work done annually by the city, it would cost $[illegible] under the terms of the White contract, Miss Elsenau's suit alleges, for what the city last paid out $[illegible] in asphalt repairs. The brick repairs which cost the city $[illegible] last year, would cost $361,080 under the White contract, according to the figures in the bill.

Possible Profit Reckoned.

In other words, one-half of the brick and asphalt repairs of last year cost $[illegible], while the same amount and kind of repairs this year under the White contract would cost $2,758,024, according to unit price reckoning in Miss Elsenau's bill. Under such duplicate yardage, the profit to the White company—assuming the city's last year cost is a fair price—would be $[illegible].

It is not charged in the bill that this is the profit made by the White company, but it is cited to give an approximate idea of the meaning of the difference between the contract unit prices this year and the city's report of the unit costs last year.

The cost assumed for brick repairs in the above estimates is higher than is reasonable, the complainant asserts. She charges "that the fair and reasonable price of item 3A, for repairs of streets with brick where such repairs consist of laying of a new brick wearing surface, shown in said proposal and contract at $5 a square yard, is not to exceed the sum of $2 per square yard, and that the cost to the city of Chicago for such brick repairs done in the year of 1926 with its own plant, equipment and personnel, was the sum of $1.91 per square yard," and in 1927 was $2.12.

Relatives feared they had been drowned. The four are Robert Sayre, 7, and Eleanor, 5 years old, and Peter Micknis, 10, and his sister, Alvina, 12.

JUDGES MOVE ELLER TO CIVIL COURT BENCH

J. J. Sullivan Named New Chief Justice.

Judge Emanuel Eller, accused by the Chicago crime commission of paltering with crime, was yesterday transferred from the criminal to the civil branch of the Superior court, effective Sept. 1. He had requested the change.

Judge John J. Sullivan, at the same annual meeting of the Circuit and Superior court judges, was elected chief justice of the Criminal court, also effective at the opening of the fall term.

Judge Michael Feinberg was chosen chief justice of the Circuit court. The honor came on his first anniversary as a jurist.

Loesch Urges Changes.

The Circuit court will not make its assignments to the criminal branch until after the first of the month, so it has not been decided whether Judges Otto Kerner and Stanley Klarkowski, who are accused with Judge Eller, will remain trying indictments.

Frank J. Loesch, president of the crime commission, in his public charges against the three judges, urged that the trio quit the criminal bench or that they be transferred by the executive committee to civil calendars.

The Circuit court judges, in addition to naming a chief justice, selected the other two members of their executive committee for the coming year. They are Judge Victor Arnold, retiring chief justice, and Judge Philip L. Sullivan. Judges Feinberg and Sullivan take the places of Judges Harry Fisher and John Caverly on the committee.

Sullivan Heads Chancery.

In the Superior court the term of Judge Joseph Sabath as chief justice does not expire until December. Judge Denis E. Sullivan was reëlected head of the chancery division and Judge Hugo M. Pam head of the law section.

The Circuit judges also named members of the important committee on help, which fixes the number of employés in the county's various fee offices. They are Judges Feinberg, Kerner, and David M. Brothers. Judge Kerner will be the new member of the committee, taking the place of Judge Thomas Lynch.

Judge Sabath, it was decided, will retain his assignment hearing divorce cases. Next year will be his eighth in that work. In the seven years, he has heard 28,000 divorces, more than any other jurist in the world. Judge William N. Gemmill will take over the Divorce court where Judge John J. Sullivan has been presiding.

The new chief justice, on assuming his duties in September, will be faced by an unprecedented problem. There are now 1,400 indictments awaiting trial and, with the vacation period approaching, this total will probably grow to 2,000 by fall. This is more than three times as many indictments as are usually pending.

The eight judges hearing the crime commission's charges against the three Criminal court judges announced yesterday that they will submit their report within ten days. The report, according to rumors, will assert that fifty judges would be required to try indictments if the felony waiver would be prohibited, as recommended by the commission.

Judge Eller yesterday replied to charges made by President Loesch of the crime commission regarding the judge's qualifications to sit on the bench. The jurist pointed out only twenty-one of his decisions have been appealed and only three reversed by higher tribunals.

Frank Lake Gets Ninth Delay as Carrier of Gun

Frank Lake, dapper beer merchant, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, obtained the ninth continuance of his trial yesterday when arraigned before Municipal Judge Daniel P. Trude. Judge Trude first denied the continuance, but granted a change of venue to the court of Judge Theodore Ehler. A little later Judge Trude learned the case could not be tried by that judge yesterday. He then rescinded the change of venue and put the case over to Tuesday.

Will Offer 40 Year Grant as Way Out of Transit Fog

A forty year franchise with a plan for full amortization of invested capital in that period probably will be the objective in the renewed negotiations this summer, Ald. E. I. Frankhauser [49th] indicated yesterday.

Ald. Frankhauser heads the city council subcommittee which, under an agreement reached with transit officials Thursday, will draft the ordinance for submission at a referendum in November. Enabling legislation will be sought later.

Like Ordinance of 1925.

"I am opposed and I believe the public is opposed to an unrestricted terminable permit," Ald. Frankhauser said. "Twenty years may be too short for financing, but forty years is long enough. My plan would be similar to that of the 1925 ordinance—a forty year permit with amortization features."

Throughout the proceedings, it is generally conceded, the length of the franchise likely probably will be the chief issue. No indications thus far have come from the companies that they will be receptive to anything except an indeterminate permit, often called a terminable permit, for which they have fought.

Ald. Frankhauser said that the aldermen and the companies seem to be in accord on other fundamentals. Both sides want unification of surface, elevated, and bus lines, universal transfers, and subways, he said. He added that the companies are willing to accept rule by a local commission. An ordinance with those provisions should be drafted without conflict, he believes.

Lisman Proposal Included.

"Will the subcommittee deal with the F. J. Lisman plan?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied. "We are empowered, as I understand it, to draft an ordinance without regard to who gets it."

Mr. Lisman offers to give title to the surface lines to the city at once, amortize the investment in thirty years, and later, if desirable, to merge the properties in a surface-elevated-bus-subway consolidation. His attorney, John Maynard Harlan, declares that Lisman "will be in at the finish," whatever the result of the negotiations.

Ald. Frankhauser announced that he will call a meeting of the subcommittee shortly after the Democratic national convention.

SURFACE LINES IN NEW YORK ASK FOR 7 CENT FARE

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—New York's transit companies reopened the 7 cent fare fight today on a brand new front.

The Third Avenue railroad company filed a revised tariff schedule on behalf of its subsidiary, the Dry Dock, East Broadway and Battery Railroad company, which operates trolleys over eight miles of tracks on the lower east side. The new move is believed to presage a fight for high fares on all surface lines of the city.

SMITH AT HOUSTON.

The Democrats are gathering now in Houston for what seems in advance something about to become an unusual convention even for a party which has had many such. The Democracy has small use for the prim and sometimes stale decorum of its great opponents, the Republicans. The Democratic instincts are for something louder, more vivid, more controversial, and when there is no sign of a good fight in sight the delegates usually can fabricate one.

In advance it seems that Al Smith has the nomination. Apparently it is the judgment of the party management that it is perfectly useless to nominate any one else for two reasons, one, that no one else would run well enough even if the party did not go to pieces behind him, and, two, that if Gov. Smith should be rejected by the convention for any of the obvious reasons advanced by the opposition to him the party probably would blow up.

Whatever either of these reasons may be worth, they are accepted as controlling the situation, leaving the question either Smith or a high dive from the end of the pier. Smith knows little of the party in its national aspects. The party knows little of Smith from contact and experience. He is a state figure with a national reputation based almost exclusively on political astuteness and administrative ability demonstrated in state politics and state office, and nowhere else. Frequently this is enough for a successful candidacy, but Smith knows less of the country than the ordinary man in politics. He is almost the legendary New Yorker who never has been west of the Hudson. He fits urban, industrial Democracy like a glove on the hand, but the qualities that do this make him also a theoretical misfit for rural Democracy.

The politicians of the south want him because they think he is the only Democrat with a chance to win. That consideration for them is enough to obliterate all other factors. The politicians are tired of the wayside and want to get into the barn. But the south has had considerable church organization control. The clergyman is more of a power in many southern states than he is any longer in New England. Theocracy has a stronger hold in the south than it has even in the midwest and the west. Southern politics has been obedient to it, and Smith is not a candidate who could be offered the southern clergyman by any plausible theory of acceptability. For a year the murmurs and the outcries against his candidacy have been arising from ministerial associations and church gatherings.

There is, of course, the possibility that when the south has the fact of his nomination before it there may be a split in the party, as there was when Bryan was nominated the first time. The suggestion that the south might go Republican is discounted. The Negro issue is more profound than any presented by Smith. But it is conceivable that a dissenting wing of the party in the south might withdraw to its own deliberations and present its dry, Protestant views by nominating, say, Senator Glass or Senator Swanson of Virginia, and Senator George of Georgia. Unlikely, we'll say, but it would remove the dilemma of Smith or a Republican and it would be something more than the passive resistance of merely staying at home election day.

The incongruities and confusion of doctrines, hopes, practical politics, and visions of advantages, prejudices, and moralities indicate the prospect of a most unusual convention in which a collision of irreconcilable ideas may produce a nomination without a compromise.

SOMETHING TO BE PASTED IN THE ALDERMANIC HAT.

Representatives of the street car and elevated lines met on Thursday with aldermen and bankers and laid out a general plan of action toward a traction settlement. It was decided to draw an ordinance to be submitted to the voters next November. If the ordinance is approved and enabling legislation is required to legalize its terms, the legislature will then be requested to pass the needed laws.

The spokesmen for both surface and elevated lines said they wanted a consolidation of the companies as a condition to the settlement. That was not the city's request. It makes little or no difference to the people of Chicago what the corporate structure of the companies is. All that the city government is interested in as spokesman for the car riders is the kind of service and its cost. To the aldermen, then, it is of no great importance whether the service is to be provided by one corporation or by ten of them, provided there are enough cars, that they are rapid, clean and comfortable, and that the fares are reasonable.

Corporate reorganization itself is often expensive and consolidation frequently is the hose with which securities are watered. These are facts which the aldermen must bear in mind. They should also keep in mind the further fact that, as the companies and not the city have requested consolidation, the city need make no concessions to get it. Indeed, if there are any concessions to be made because consolidation is in the ordinance, the companies should make them.

THE FERGUS FIGHT FOR FRANCHISE RIGHTS.

John B. Fergus has caused a petition to be filed in the court of Superior Judge Hugo Pam asking permission to start quo warranto proceedings to determine by what right each member of the legislature holds his place in the general assembly. Mr. Fergus is unremitting in his search for a legal remedy for the injury done Cook county by the refusal of the assembly to obey the constitution and redistrict the state. Back of the present effort is the contention that the legislators cannot have legal title to their seats because the districts from which they are elected do not conform to the requirements of the constitution, but are in violation of it.

By this nullification representative government has ceased to exist constitutionally and equitably in this state. Its principles have been discarded and citizens of Chicago are deprived of representation on a basis of equality with the rest of the state. The question is whether there is a remedy for this political injury which partly disfranchises Chicago citizens. They are unable to get their rights from the general assembly. Are they then deprived of such rights without redress in the American form of government or is there a cure for this political ill? Mr. Fergus is devoting himself to an attempt to get the answer, a useful citizen of Chicago.

THE UNDERWORLD STRIKES BACK.

The slugging of Mr. Epstein, an attorney assisting Mr. Loesch in the election frauds cases, the attempts to intimidate or to murder James Huff, one of the witnesses of the murder of Octavius Granady, show the underworld in operation. There have been times and places in this country when that sort of thing would have raised a vigilance committee and put an undesirable citizen or two swinging in the wind. Chicago needn't resort to such measures and will not. But its decent citizenship is awake at last and the alliance of corrupt politics and crime is going to be smashed. Gunmen and thugs, and their employers, are now dealing with something they haven't had to meet of late—the law, organized and backed by an effective public opinion. It is not going to be terrorized. It is going to do some terrorizing. Witnesses will be protected. Crooks and murderers, in or out of politics, are going to find that Chicago is a city and not a den.

Mr. Loesch and the present grand jury have made a good beginning. Their work will go on. Unfortunately, there seem to be technical legal objections to the continuance of the present grand jury, the term of which expires with the month. It would be useful if the same jurymen could hear the whole case against the system of corruption and violence in elections, and follow out its ramifications. Perhaps the law needs some amendment to permit this in future emergencies. But as it is desirable that no legal doubts of the proceedings should be permitted, it may be assumed Judge Brothers will adopt the safe course and call another special grand jury for the next term. The inquiry will go on without check till a thorough cleanup of the situation is accomplished.

A STREAM OF INFECTION.

Two hundred aliens were brought to Ellis island the other day from various places in America. They are to be deported. Many of them, says the report, come from penitentiaries and jails and some from asylums. Two hundred are not many among the 120 millions of sane and fairly law abiding citizens, but they represent a considerable stream of infection which has been flowing into this country for many years. No other nation has had to meet an invasion of this kind to the extent America has, and it is to be hoped there will be no relaxation of whatever checks we are able to apply. Our problem, because of the great length of our frontier and even more because of the political pressure which can be brought to bear upon official machinery to relax regulations, is the most difficult any government has to deal with year in and year out. The press and public must realize this and watch the situation as faithfully as is practicable.

Editorial of the Day

[New York World.]

It gratifies us more than we can say to learn that Mr. Del Staigers, virtuoso of the cornet, is with us again this summer as soloist at the Goldman band concerts. And we are not the less gratified because Mr. Staigers, to judge from the performances he has given so far, intends to stick to the old, tried and true type of selection for his instrument, and will refrain from trying to make it play Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms. No doubt you know the type of selection we mean. It is usually called "Fantasia," and it may fantasticate anything from the third act of "Il Trovatore" to the whistles of the ferry boats in the harbor, for the basic thematic material is really of little importance. What matters is the embellishment which is furnished by the performer himself.

For example, let us suppose that tonight's selection were called "Fantasia: The Nicaraguan Front." It would open with the stirring strains of "The United States Marines," played by the full band. Then, at the end of this, would come a peal from the solo cornet that would swell, fade, and then break into a cascade of glittering notes, moving downward. Then would come little fountains of notes moving upward, until presently they came to rest on a leading tone. Then would come the first series of variations, which would be a simple restatement of "From the Halls of Montezuma," played in triplets.

Then an ominous chord from the brass, played against the rolling of the snare drum. Again the solo cornet takes the lead, this time with a breath taking rendition of "Reveille," better known as "I Can't Get 'Em Up." At once things begin to happen. The bass drum hits up a quickstep, the brasses blare, the fifes strike up a jig. A battle is in progress. Ever and anon the solo cornet sounds snatches of "To the Colors!" showing that our boys are hard pressed. But in a moment comes "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," and it is obvious that victory is ours. But wait! . . . "What Price Glory?" . . . The gay music ceases and the solo cornet is rendering "Taps." The victory was not won without losses.

As "Taps" dies away there is another great chord, and the solo cornet breaks into a joyous trumpeting. Now comes the second series of variations. They are on anything at all: "Home, Sweet Home," "Boola Boola," "Smiles," or what you will, and they move so swiftly that you become dizzy listening. And they are no sooner done than there is a return to the original tune, "The United States Marines," with the solo cornet performing a magnificent obbligato an octave above the band, and the piece presently coming to an end in a grand, crashing finale.

That is our idea of music. We hope Mr. Staigers will give us plenty of it. And if we know him, he will.

THEORY VS. PRACTICE OF HEALTH HABITS.

THE more people know about habits which make for health the less they follow them. This is the opinion of Dr. W. R. P. Emerson. Let us quote him exactly: "The higher the intellectual attainments in the subjects of health and disease, the lower the health intelligence. In other words, the greater the student's theoretical knowledge of health, the poorer his practice."

For some years Dr. Emerson has been specializing in the health of college students. Incidentally, he has been gathering information as to methods of teaching health to students in college. His opinion is that the methods generally used are greatly at fault in that they put too much stress on book work and too little on practice. Here are his words:

"Although health education is rated of first importance in our educational system, any study of its application may well raise the question whether it is not at present the very last in efficiency. . . . Theoretical teaching should be supplemented by clinical instruction."

In his study Emerson found that women's colleges were much inferior to men's colleges. He compared specifically one woman's college with a man's college. In the freshman class of the woman's college only 23 per cent of the students were the victims of bad health habits, whereas the percentage of seniors with such bad habits was about 29 per cent. On the other hand, in the men's college the percentage of students under the influence of bad habits dropped 6 per cent between the freshman and the senior years.

In scoring colleges Emerson makes use of twenty groups of health habits or conditions, as follows: 1. Uncorrected removable physical defects; 2, habits injurious to health; 3, irregular habits of living; 4, uncontrolled likes or dislikes; 5, worry and fretfulness; 6, irregular bedtime; 7, no rest periods; 8, overdoing at work or play; 9, eating when overtired; 10, inadequate vacations or weekly rest; 11, finicky about food; 12, habitual overeating or undereating; 13, fast eating or washing down food; 14, irregular meal times; 15, candy or sweets between meals; 16, working in poor air above 68 degrees; 17, sleeping with windows closed; 18, irregular time of bowel movement; 19, insufficient exercise or out of door sunlight; 20, excessive tea, coffee or tobacco.

Dr. Emerson asks: Is college life a factor in out of door living? He does not think it is. Nor does he think it trains students in organizing their programs into a balance between work and rest.

Finally he says: "Good health habits result in good health and bad habits in poor health. A change of habits one way or the other leads to a better or worse condition of health."

INGROWING TOENAIL.

C. D. B., D. D. S., writes: After washing and drying I apply a generous piece of adhesive tape, clipping edges so it will adhere better, and leaving it in place several days, when it is removed and nail trimmed; another may be applied and left some time, say a week, when the parts are usually restored to normal.

ITCHES AFTER BATHING.

J. K. writes: Will you please tell me what causes my arms and legs to itch after I wash them? They itch for at least half an hour, and it is the same whether or not I use soap. I am in good health in every respect, am 21 years old, and my weight is 172 pounds. This itch is especially annoying when I bathe and it makes me feel like committing suicide. If you don't want to lose a faithful reader, please give me some advice before the next bath day.

REPLY.

Don't do it. If all the folks who have itch should die we could never get them buried. Stop bathing, if necessary, but suicide—never. Use cold cream instead of soap and water.

Maywood, Ill., June 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A rented a flat to B, who is now more than a month behind in the rent. Should B try sneaking away without paying, could A hold his household goods? What can be done?

Yes, he can, by appropriate legal proceedings.

The ordinary course is to place the claim in the hands of an attorney for collection.

WHO GETS WIFE'S EARNINGS?

Chicago, June 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Both my wife and I are working. My wife claims that I have no right to the money she earns at her work. Do you think she is right in taking this stand? What is the law about it, if any?

O. G.

Roughly, it would seem equitable that each of you should contribute reasonably to the family expenses and each keep separately what each one earns.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

IT IS SO.

Chicago, June 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We were out hunting last winter for pheasants and rabbits. The game warden told us that we could hunt rabbits or pheasants any time of the day or night, as a pheasant was not a water fowl. Is that the truth?

R. J. W.

He was right. Section 17 [c] of the state game code prohibits night hunting of migratory birds, but pheasants do not so classify.

SON WANTS A CAR.

Chicago, June 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a young man nearly 20 years old and am contemplating purchasing a used car. My father, however, objects, saying he is responsible for what may happen, since I am under 21 years of age. Is this true?

E. R.

He would not be liable merely because of being your father, but it is often the case that a son takes trips for family purposes and the father might be liable for what happened on such a trip.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

IN a booklet, yellowed with age, sent us by Helper B. F. B., appear these remarks and figures under the subtitle, "Lake Commerce of 1856."

Chicago is, of course, largely interested in the navigation of the northwestern lakes. Although subjected to every possible discouragement from the apathy and criminal neglect of the general government to provide suitable harbors for the accommodation of commerce and for the protection of property and of life, necessity, ambition, and enterprise equally combine to yearly strengthen this important arm of her prosperity and to sustain its struggles against numerous and what in most cases would prove ruinous embarrassments. The day cannot be far distant when the voice of the west will be heard in reference to this matter of lake navigation improvement in tones which will command respect and attention.

Dear Wake-Line: In the years 1864-'65 a double frame house stood on the north side of Randolph, at the east corner of the alley between State and Wabash. In front were two large trees. It was used as a soldiers' house for the sick. When barracks were erected on the lake front, extending from Washington nearly to Madison, numerous ill rebel prisoners were transferred there from Camp Douglas.

Unfortunately, perhaps, our idea of an attractive bout does not coincide in many instances with that of a majority of fight spectators. We prefer cleverness with clean hitting to a shoving pushing affair, or even a slugging session without science. Hudkins, we are told, in previous appearances stood off and exchanged punches. Against Walker it was constant boring in, and to us uninteresting to that extent. He apparently knows both tactics. We offer no criticism, therefore, for his strategy was to win if possible, and he adopted the method best suited to thwart the champion. Which probably is about all, or more, than followers of this niche care to read about pugilism.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 23, 1863.

HARRISBURG.—From all information obtained here it is believed the whole rebel force this side of the Potomac is advancing in this direction. The enemy occupied Greencastle at noon today with cavalry, infantry and artillery, and is believed to be in strong force. The troops at Chambersburg are under Gen. Knipe.

NEW YORK.—A Baltimore letter says Lee has massed his army so that the left wing rests in Maryland, and to get supplies he has invaded Pennsylvania. Hooker has pushed his army up so that the right wing rests on Poolesville. The advance into Maryland must be made before the rebel army can give battle. A special dispatch to the Philadelphia Inquirer says the rebels are advancing on Gettysburg with 40,000 men and eighteen pieces of artillery.

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.—The following gratifying dispatch, dated Aldie, June 21, has just been received: "Pleasonton attacked Stuart's rebel force this morning at Middleburg and a severe fight has been going on all day. We have driven the rebels with severe loss beyond Upperville, into Ashby's Gap, a distance of eight miles. Success throughout the day has been uniformly on our side."

ST. PAUL.—Maj. Hatch of this city has been authorized by the war department to organize a cavalry force to move against the hostile Indians. He will take 1,000 men, mostly Chippewa Indians and Red river half-breeds.

CHICAGO.—George Ingersoll and Miss Mary A. Eaton were married on June 17 by the Rev. James Dixon.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 23, 1898.

OFF SANTIAGO, via Port Antonio, Jamaica.—Gen. Shafter began to disembark a large portion of his army at noon yesterday at Baiquiri, Juragua bay, and the Bay of Baconao, twelve and fifteen miles east of Santiago. While the troops were being landed Admiral Sampson's ships bombarded several points simultaneously to confuse the Spaniards. The Cuban forces and the battleships Texas made a joint land and water attack on Mimanima, a few miles westward of Santiago, at the same time to create a diversion.

NEW YORK.—A dispatch to the Journal from Washington says President McKinley was notified at a quarter to 12 o'clock last night that Gen. Shafter and his army of 16,000 men were landed on Cuban soil.

CHICAGO.—Edward S. Dreyer, former banker, was convicted by a jury in Judge Abner Smith's court last night and his punishment fixed at indeterminate imprisonment in the penitentiary. The charge on which the conviction was secured was failure to pay over funds of the west park board.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 23, 1918.

CHICAGO.—Sixty-one employés of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus were killed and 179 injured when Alonzo K. Sargent, a Michigan Central engineer, drove his locomotive through four gayly painted coaches of the circus train near Gary, Ind. Sargent fled from the scene of the catastrophe, but was arrested in Kalamazoo and charged with manslaughter. It was the most frightful wreck tragedy this section of the country has known for years.

ITALIAN WAR NEWS.—Blocked in their advance across the Piave river by the Italian and British forces, and with their line of communications threatened by the rising waters of that stream, the Austro-Hungarians apparently have closed the first phase of their offensive against Italy.

BERLIN.—The official report tonight says: "Franco-American attacks northwest of Chateau Thierry were repulsed with great slaughter."

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE.—There have been lively machine gun and rifle fire actions with intermittent artillery fire in the northern section of Belleau wood, where the Americans are gradually smoking out the remnants of the German machine gun nests.

PROBATION HERE AND IN ENGLAND.

Chicago, June 21.—In this morning's TRIBUNE you print an editorial quoted from the Burlington, Ia., Post. This purports to tell the story of a great decline in the prison population of England and to give a reason therefor. So far as the story of a decrease in the prison population of England is concerned it is substantially true, but the reasons given for such a decrease are not true. One would get the impression from this article that the decrease in the number of prisoners in English jails is due to a stricter enforcement of the criminal laws, when the fact is that England, more than any other civilized country, puts its prisoners on probation after their conviction rather than to commit them to prison.

I have before me the latest English statistics published by authority of the English government, which shows that in 1926 668,344 prisoners were arraigned in England and Wales. Of this number 493,325 were fined and only 14,542 of this number were sent to jail in default of the payment of the fines. Only 27,268 of the above number were sent to prison and 84,580 were placed on probation. The official record of the Criminal courts in England shows that more than fifty per cent of all the people convicted of serious crimes in England are placed on probation. Year by year since the world war England has used the system of probation more and more. During the last three years in Chicago and Cook county substantially twenty-five per cent of all the persons convicted of both indictable and nonindictable offenses have been placed on probation.

If the prison population of the United States is taken into account today it will be found that the increase in our prisons has not at all kept pace with the increase in our population. Hundreds of prisons have gone out of business entirely in certain parts of the country, although many new crimes have been created by legislation. This is due not primarily to less crime, but to the greater use of the office of probation.

ADVICE FROM A DEMOCRAT.

Chicago, June 19.—I have been a Democrat for over forty years and I have a bright idea to suggest to the party. I see no hope for Al Smith to succeed as a candidate, much as I would like to see him in the White House as a representative of true liberalism. Why not nominate Herbert Hoover on the Democratic ticket also, and make it unanimous. I don't like his looks nor the principles he stands for, but he will be elected anyhow, and why not help him to remember he has always been honored by the Democratic party, even if he did deprive us of sugar and desert us when we really needed him. He thought it was necessary. Then let us have Smith for Vice President and follow the original intention of our constitution to have both great parties represented in those two offices.

LIGHTNING KILLS ONE AS STORM SWEEPS CHICAGO

Homes Flooded on North and West Sides.

A severe electrical storm that swept over Chicago and the suburbs late yesterday afternoon caused the death of one man, struck by lightning near Hinsdale, and the temporary disruption of light and telephone service in some sections.

The storm was accompanied by a heavy rain, which flooded basements and streets on the north and west sides, where reports indicated the downpour was heaviest. The official rainfall, registered at the University of Chicago, was a quarter of an inch. Today and tomorrow, according to the weather bureau forecast, more showers may be expected.

Driver and Horse Killed.

Charles Schmidt, 65 years old, of Hinsdale, was the lightning victim. He was driving a team belonging to a construction company and was near the county line and Jackson street, Hinsdale, when he was struck. One of his horses also was killed. An unsuccessful effort to revive Schmidt with a pulmotor was made at the Hinsdale sanitarium.

In Evanston several trees were struck by lightning and water poured into cellars of many residents. Lights were out for a time in Wilmette, Winnetka and a part of Evanston.

Air Mail Pilot Killed.

Showers were general over almost the entire United States yesterday and in Kansas winds of tornado force were reported. In one of the windstorms a mail plane was hurled to the ground near Lebo, Kan., twenty miles from Emporia, and the pilot, Wayne G. Neville, of Dallas, Tex., was killed.

Apparently the tornado struck the plane with such force that Neville had no chance to take to a parachute. He was said to have been the first flyer killed on the Kansas City-Dallas mail line since it was started two years ago.

MEXICAN REBELS BEATEN; BATTLE RAGES 8 HOURS

32 Killed in Struggle in State of Jalisco.

MEXICO CITY, June 22.—(AP)—Guadalajara dispatches to Excelsior say ten federal soldiers and twenty-two insurgents were killed Wednesday in an eight hour battle near Las Huertas in the state of Jalisco.

Thirty federal soldiers were wounded in the battle while the number of insurgents founded could not be determined. The insurgents finally were dispersed.

The battle, described as one of the hardest fought of the two years of irregular warfare in the state of Jalisco, brought a federal force of 300 men into a clash with almost 400 insurgents. Of the federal troops killed, two were officers.

Rebel Leaders Escape.

The dispatch to Excelsior said the insurgents were commanded by Pedroza y Vega, described as a priest, and Rodolfo Loza, who, with the surviving insurgents, escaped.

Previous dispatches had reported that a federal force of about 100 men was sorely pressed and almost defeated by a band of insurgents near Atotonilco.

Latest dispatches from Jalisco failed to clarify the developments, but it appeared that both the federal troops and the insurgents had received reinforcements and again joined battle near Las Huertas, in the Los Altos region, fighting most of Wednesday.

The dispatch said that, although the federal troops were outnumbered and were in poorer positions than the insurgents, they had succeeded in driving the latter off.

Troop Train Derailed.

AGUASCALIENTES, Mex., June 22.—(AP)—A troop train, presumably carrying federal reinforcements to the regions of insurgent activities in the state of Jalisco, was derailed near this city today. The tracks had been torn up and military authorities assume this was the work of insurgents. No soldiers were hurt, but several members of the train crew were injured.

MEXICO CITY, June 22.—Gen. Adalberto Reyes Gil, candidate for congress from the oil districts in the state of Oaxaca, was arrested and indicted today for faking a telegram bearing the name of Gen. Joaquin Amaro, minister of war, which caused the summary execution of the mayor and four other officials of the town of Huautla. He, too, probably will face a firing squad.

CITY'S BEACHES TO OPEN TODAY; PARKS' TOMORROW

All of Chicago's municipal bathing beaches will be opened to the public this morning at nine o'clock. Wednesday is the day set for opening the bathing beaches of the Lincoln and south park systems.

The following city beaches will open today: Clarendon, at Clarendon and Wilson avenues; Rainbow, at the foot of East 76th stret; Rocky Ledge, East 79th street; Rogers Park, at Touhy avenue.

Life guards will also be stationed at all street ends where the beaches are suitable for bathing, Walter Wright, commissioner of city parks and playgrounds, declared.

JUDGE THOMPSON IS EXPECTED TO RESIGN JULY 1

Springfield, Ill., June 22.—[Special.]—Although Gov. Small has not received the resignation of Justice Floyd Thompson as a member of the Illinois Supreme bench, candidates for the vacancy which will be caused by his retirement are under discussion at the capital.

When Justice Thompson left Springfield last Tuesday his farewell to those in the Supreme court building was accepted as a final leave taking. He was up with his work, and it was assumed that he would have his resignation ready to take effect July 1. The present term of court will be adjourned tomorrow, but the justices do not receive their salary vouchers until the first of the month.

BANK DEFAULTER TAKES OWN LIFE WHEN EXPOSED

While Poison Works He Writes Out Confession.

Noblesville, Ind., June 22.—[Special.]—The Citizens State bank, one of the oldest in central Indiana, doing business here since 1869 was closed today by the state banking department, the result of a shortage of $147,100 in the accounts of Omar G. Patterson, head bookkeeper in the institution for twenty-eight years. When the discovery of the shortage was made Patterson left the bank, went to his room in a hotel, and committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid and swallowing arsenic.

He drank the acid in capsules and the poison did not become effective for several hours. Asked about his shortage, Patterson wrote out and signed the following statement:

"For several years I have been taking money, until the total sum so taken by me is $147,100. I have covered up this shortage by making false daily statements from the ledgers which were in my charge. I make this statement in order that the public may know of the bank's present financial difficulties."

How Bank Was Deceived.

Thomas Barr of the state banking department said Patterson kept his shortage a secret by removing some of the account sheets from the daily statement books, so that the deposits and ledgers would agree with the statement.

Today the bank examiners, J. W. Parrett and T. G. Enwood, started to work on the daily balance sheets. Patterson is said to have insisted that they start on book No. 1, as was the custom, instead of on book No. 3, which Enwood picked up.

When Enwood remained firm in his stand, Patterson is said to have put on his hat, walked out of the bank, bought poison at three local drug stores, went to his room and took it.

Death Dismisses Warrant.

Before his death a warrant was issued for Patterson's arrest and his bond fixed by the court at $25,000. This matter was dismissed following his death.

The directors of the Citizens State bank this afternoon started to reorganize with a capital stock of $100,000. Half of this stock was subscribed at the meeting. The bank had assets of $1,000,000.

The Softest Gingerbread.

It is a pleasant trick to be able to bake a nice pan of gingerbread. Men like it. A young man who was in service somewhere ten years ago could buy for 5 cents a square of gingerbread, the like of which he has not been able to find since. His wife told me about it three months ago, and also wrote charmingly of the needs of her small family, as well as with delightful appreciation of my efforts. Therefore, I have been intending all this time to get out my enormous folder of gingerbread recipes, and consider, and study, and really "bone" on the question of gingerbread.

Some notes in that folder attached to a group of recipes, all with the same formula, determined me to test anew a recipe that was used by many women during war times in widely separated states. A good many women sent the recipe to me (prize contest), and some included but the barest formula. More emphasized the fact that the main idea was to add the eggs last, and a few emphasized the fact that the batter made by this formula was the thinnest ever, and what you could do because it was. No pancake batter is thinner than that this formula makes:

One-half cup of sugar (may be brown or white), one cup molasses or sorghum, one-half cup of butter or substitute, two teaspoons of soda dissolved in a cup of boiling water, one teaspoon each powdered cloves, cinnamon and ginger, two cups and a half of flour—some women sifted it three times, and some not at all—two well beaten eggs. Some people used half a cup of raisins and some more or up to one-half cup, and some added nuts as well.

I baked this for forty minutes at 350 degrees, in a pan 12x7½x2, and got a fine thick sheet. A larger pan would be good, and the time might be then shortened to one-half hour. The one who can manage her oven so as to get a flat top for her sheet of gingerbread will then have something best to ice.

But here is what has been done with this: One woman said eat it with sauce, as a dessert. (A hard sauce or a foamy would be fine, but plain butter is excellent.) Another said serve it with ice cream. One said cover it with icing while hot. One called it a famous gingerbread, and I have tried to find its origin with no success. One called it "boss gingerbread."

In putting it together, work to get out all lumps of flour, because a lump of raw flour in a gingerbread is hateful. Remember, eggs last.

VICTIMS FORGET, JURY CONVICTS THREE AS THIEVES

A jury in Judge Frank Comerford's criminal court yesterday quickly returned guilty verdicts against three as gunmen, convicting them of having held up 22 patrons of the Chauffeurs' club, 312 South Clark street, several months ago. The prosecution's witnesses during the trial suddenly seemed to have a lapse of memory, failing to identify the 3 as robbers.

After the holdup, however, 20 out of the 22 victims were reported by the police to have identified the defendants, Sam Newman, 25; Pat English, 25, and Walter Tracy, 23, who were caught in the club building. After confessing, the 3 later repudiated their statements and claimed to have been victims of the holdup.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne, however, made the most of the fact that the police found $127.53 on the defendants while all the other victims were cleaned of money.

Fog Forces Lindy to Land in Field; Railmen's Gues

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 22.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, forced by fog to land at Duryea, near Coxton, about 7:30 p. m. today, became the unexpected guest of the Lehigh Valley railroad at the Y. M. C. A. building at Coxton yards, three miles north of Pittston. He said he would resume his flight to New York early tomorrow morning.

Col. Lindbergh ran into fog a few miles above Duryea and succeeded in landing in a field near the junction of the Lackawanna and Susquehanna rivers.

SENATORS HERE FOR POLITICAL FUND QUIZ TODAY

Presidential campaign expenditures in Wisconsin and Minnesota will be the subject of an investigation here today following the arrival yesterday of Senator Frederick Steiwer [Rep., Ore.], chairman of the senate committee on presidential campaign funds. He and Sen. William H. McMaster [Rep., S. Dak.] will represent the committee at the hearing.

Among those to be questioned will be A. B. Fontaine of Green Bay, Wis., former chairman of the Republican state executive committee, and the Hoover and Lowden managers in the two states and the directors of the Wisconsin Progressive campaign.

"The investigation will be concerned principally with where the money of the various candidates was spent in the preconvention campaign," Senator Steiwer said. "There are no charges of exorbitant or illegal expenditures."

'New' Barbecue Is Really Old as the Hills

Picnic Meat Feast Has Always Been Liked.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

The barbecue of today is a revival of a sort of great picnic party, and of a sort of cooking that characterizes such an assembling. As a picnic it may be a gathering of business men in a redwood grove in California, numbering 2,000. It was numbers that made the old type of barbecue, while it is privileged sociability that often makes it today, though with our lightning quick adoption of what may seem new, this will not long be true. In fact, already as a summer outing it threatens to rival the movies.

A new feature is the wayside barbecue sandwich shop, which is multiplying by leaps and bounds. The barbecue oven of these shops, in some cases, looks like a European wayside shrine, and roof and all, but not isolated like them, for next, or near to it, is the eating shop and usually big signs to call a halt to hungry motorist, and to the curious, for in many cases the community—a wide one today—is drawn hither to see great pieces of meat roasting on a revolving spit, and to eat a sandwich filled with a cut from it, seasoned with what is sometimes called a "come back" sauce, but which in reality few people really like, even once. In my experience a few drops of meat juice with a good deal of water seasoned with a good deal of pepper, mustard, pickles and vinegar is made to go a long way in these sauces, which are thin and generally much too hot stuff.

Started as a Revolt.

In spite of the fact that commercially barbecuing has spread so enormously, this sort of cooking has always been going on somewhere and the present seeming revival, I believe, started as a hobby and perhaps as a revolt on the part of men who want meat and want it strong, we might say. The idea has perhaps won out as a revolt against the endless tearooms, where cold or twice cooked meats—if any at all—are the only ones to be served, and these often but lifeless comforts. The privileged movie people have, some of them, built meat grills for barbecuing on their estates, and even the daintiest of the "queens" cook barbecued steaks with their own hands for their guests.

There is a whole world of fascinating lights glowing over this ancient method of cooking—once it was always whole creatures—over out of doors fires. We might even go to historic Persia, and find how this method of cooking went on in the garden of Eden region. I have been in one of the most famous towns in England where this sort of cooking has been done once a year since 1200 A. D. and probably long before, at a great gathering of the people.

Popular in Southland.

But we need go no further than our own southern states, where this sort of cooking has—in many of them been really indigenous and is yet practiced—to get ideas, but no exact recipes for barbecue sauce. The barbecued shoat of Old Dominion Virginia—beloved old colored men did the cooking—the political rally meats of Kentucky and Tennessee, the pit cooked viands of great hospitality stunts in Georgia and Florida and Texas, in which latter state Spanish influences undoubtedly affect the work, and the specialties of Louisiana, where the barbecue is described as a "ritual," have been as picturesquely prepared foods as any in the world.

It is said that the colored man revels in this type of cooking, and many pretty things have been written of his work. Irvin S. Cobb, born in old Kentucky, in his "guyed" to North Carolina, tells how at a hunting lodge of a man of wealth in that state he found "the best barbecue cook on earth," and says: "What he could do with a young shoat and an open trench fire and bastings of barbecue sauce made by his own private recipe!"

Has Place in Literature.

This private recipe is the theme of no end of descriptions of barbecues to be found scattered through books for the last fifty years. The description to be found of barbecues of fifty years back, in "Dishes and Beverages of the Old South," by Martha McCulloch Williams, does give a recipe, but there is a secret about it. She tells how various meats were cooked for twelve hours over an often renewed trench of coals, and basted steadily with salted water, and adds: "All this sounds simple—dead easy. Try it. It really is an art. The plantation barbecuer was a person of consequence—moreover, few plantations could show a master of the art. For one thing, they never found out the exact secret of 'dipney,' the sauce that savored the meat when it was crisply tender, brown all over, but free from the least scorching.

Barbecue Sauce.

This is what she gives as the sauce made on "their" plantation: Two pounds sweet lard, melted in a brass kettle, with one pound of beaten (not ground) black pepper, a pint of small fiery red peppers, nubbed and stewed soft in water barely to cover, a spoonful of herbs in powder—he would never tell what they were—and a quart and a pint of the strongest apple vinegar and a little salt.

"These were simmered together for half an hour, as the barbecue was getting done. Then a fresh, clean mop was dabbed lightly in the mixture, and as lightly smeared over the upper sides of the carcasses. Not a drop was permitted to fall on the coals—it would have sent up a smoke and films of light ashes. Then, tables being set, the meat was laid, hissing hot, within clean, tight wooden trays, deeply gashed upon the side that had been next the fire, and deluged with the sauce."

And the sort of thing they felt after eating it is, perhaps, what makes it impossible for me to do much with barbecue sauces. I have tried using only half the peppery things and mustard prescribed, but the sauce secured was as poor as a poor lobster thermidor and hot beyond reason. My own opinion is that for nice work melted butter, lightly and yet positively seasoned with peppers and hot sauces, and with a bit of vinegar or other acid, should be the sauce.

Judge from her words whether the one she gives is reasonable: "Hot! After eating it one wanted to lie down at the spring side and let the water of it flow down the mouth. But of a flavor, a savor, a tastiness, nothing else earthly approaches," and so forth. She says the proper accompaniment of a barbecue are sliced tomatoes, sliced cucumbers, a great plenty of salt rising bread—and a greater plenty of cool, ripe watermelons. In many places today green corn is considered indispensable, and most vegetables worth while.

Barbecued Pork Chops.

A southern colored cook in 1914 gave me the following recipe as one for a successful number on the menu of a nice restaurant where she had been cook: To half a dozen inch thick pork chops—you will have to ask for them special today for they are no more common than the two inch mutton chop—add salt and pepper to taste, one-half cup of tomato catsup, one little bay leaf, one-half teaspoon of dry mustard, one tablespoon of flour, one scant teaspoon of celery seed, one-half teaspoon cloves.

Spread the chops out in a pan and cover them with the spices mixed smooth in a half cup of vinegar, then bake for one hour.

One could make a barbecue sauce from that recipe, using some butter in addition, or up to one-half cup.

SPRIGHTLINESS WITH DIGNITY

The owner of this table has combined with a most pleasing effect several of her nice bits of china and glassware. Without sacrificing a continuity, she has achieved perfection without using a complete set of one kind or another. The solidity of the fruit centerpiece is relieved by the bowls of gay little summer flowers.

Care in Buying Tableware Is Its Own Reward

China, Glass, and Silver Should Harmonize.

BY SALLY LUNN.

Do you have a clutching in your solar plexus every time you entertain? Is there a shadowy fear that the service and appointments will not be perfect because your glassware doesn't happen to be all of the same pattern, or your flat silver of matching contours? If so, you are in the same boat with thousands of other women.

There is a certain satisfaction in being able to afford several dinner services, and in having them match one's sets of china. But the hostess who is thus fortunate has to pay for her luck by missing the keen joy experienced by her less wealthy sisters, who wait for years to possess one perfect dinner service, one set of crystal or Venetian glass, or one set of Point de Venice lace.

No Cause for Fear.

There really is no reason, however, for Mrs. Average Housewife to have fears and wonderments lest her well laid plans end up in a medley of color combinations, with no effect whatsoever. Even though one possesses but one fine set of glassware, if one looks ahead in buying there is no reason why one cannot synchronize what one inherited from one's mother, one's bridal china, and one's recently acquired "company set." Of course, if there is indiscriminate buying, with no eye to what's at home on the pantry shelf, there is no one to blame but oneself. But that does not have to be.

Take, for example, the problem of a certain rich woman [it's always nice to know they have problems]. Her dining room, which was an institution in the town, because it had survived many periods of changing decorative fashion, was distinctive, but purely Italian, having as its colors Venetian red, blue and dull gold. When designing the room this woman thought herself wise in having three colors to choose from, and thought she would never grow weary of the effect, either separately, or in combination.

But the day came when she wanted something entirely different. It took some time, but she managed to fit into this colorful and fairly somber room a table decoration and glass service of the Directoire period, in cut crystal and dull silver. The change brightened the room and gave a certain lightness which was charming yet which did not detract from the original motif. This just proves that it is a fairly simple matter to depart from a set style of decoration if the varied pieces to be used together give a satisfying whole.

Combining Old and New.

The most dangerous type of table decoration with which we have to deal is the modernistic. It has been said that it is impossible to combine the angular and startling contours of this new fashion with anything one has used before, no matter how handsome. That is rather an inelastic rule, and there really is more latitude here than some of the decrees allow. There are some bits of the less extreme styles in modern ware which combine delightfully with one's old silver, or one's Spode or Minturn.

It is an easy matter to avoid the super angular or "Skyscraper" designs in silver services, glass or china. Conservatism in all things leads one into the channels of good taste and helps avoid the shoals of incongruity messiness in decoration.

FLY THEA'S PLANE AWAY TO FOIL SUIT TO HALT SEA HOP

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—While lawyers were arguing over an application for a permanent injunction to restrain Miss Thea Rasche from flying across the ocean under any management save that of Harold V. Harwell, Mrs. James A. Stillman, who has become Miss Rasche's financial backer, visited Curtiss field and conferred with William Winston, Curtiss pilot, and Ben Zeborn, pilot and chief mechanic for Miss Rasche. Justice Valente reserved decision and later it was learned that the pilots had flown Miss Rasche's ship to Hadley field, New Jersey, out of the jurisdiction of the New York state court.

GREEN BAY HOPES MR. SOVETSKY IS IN FOR LONG STAY

'Millionaire Fence' Is Held to Grand Jury.

John Sovetsky, known as the "millionaire fence," was arrested by the police yesterday and held on four charges of receiving stolen property. Bonds were fixed at $23,000 and this caused Sovetsky a slight yawn of annoyance, but as usual, he supplied them without apparent difficulty.

The city of Green Bay, Wis., is waiting for the outcome and a celebration is promised there if the unexpected should happen and Sovetsky finally goes to jail. The Green Bay people have never had the opportunity of entertaining Mr. Sovetsky personally but they say he is the man who almost bankrupted some of their townsmen and forced the citizens to make their old clothes do double duty.

Police Get a Habit.

It was no particular sagacity that took detectives to the dry goods store of John and Martha Sovetsky, 6234 South Western avenue. It was a habit proved good in bygone days and good this time. They found more than they sought.

On Sovetsky's shelves the detectives said they found the load of dry goods taken by three bandits on June 2 from Frank Post, driver for the Marx Express and Teaming company. Also there were 950 pairs of shoes stolen from the Florsheim Shoe company, and the loot of the store of G. B. Forsythe, 1413 East Fifty-fifth street.

The police habit of hunting stolen goods in Sovetsky's place was formed following the Green Bay clothing famine of 1925. Eight of that community's stores were emptied overnight and the contents speedily trucked to Chicago. The burglars eventually were caught and are still in prison. Part of the merchandise was found in Sovetsky's garage.

Admit Sovetsky Is Chief.

The prisoners made confessions. They said they worked for Sovetsky and he sent them here, there and everywhere in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin to rob and bring the booty to him. The Wisconsin officials procured Sovetsky's indictment.

But Gov. Small didn't believe in violating Sovetsky's constitutional rights. Sovetsky had never been in Wisconsin, hence he couldn't have fled from that state, the governor's agent argued, and Gov. Small ruled that Sovetsky could do as he pleased about going to Green Bay. Sovetsky didn't go.

Then he was tried in Chicago on the complaint of merchants who found their stolen wares in Sovetsky's keeping. There was $100,000 worth of stolen property found under his care when Sergt. Al Booth arrested a half dozen men who were carrying stolen cigarets valued at $35,000 into Sovetsky's garage. Then it was that he became known as the millionaire fence.

A jury found him guilty and he was sentenced to the penitentiary, but the state Supreme court upset the verdict.

GOVERNOR TELLS KENOSHA TO HALT OWN STRIKE RIOT

Madison, Wis., June 22.—[Special.]—Officials of Kenosha city and county must use every resource at their command to keep order before the National Guard will be sent in by Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman to protect against strike riots, a delegation of officers from Kenosha was informed by the governor this afternoon.

The delegation consisted of L. W. Powell, district attorney; T. W. Logan, chief of police; John Wattles, sheriff; C. M. Osborne, city manager, and C. E. Barden, president of the council.

The visitors presented their petition and the governor asked what Kenosha county and city had done so far to take care of their own problem. Sheriff Wattles admitted he had not put on extra men, but explained that no authorization for the increasing of his force had been granted until a meeting of the county board this morning.

F. Brett Young Awarded British Literary Prize

By Frank Swinnerton.

FRANCIS BRETT YOUNG.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—This year's award of the James Tait Black prize is to Mr. Francis Brett Young for "The Portrait of Clare" (called in America "Love Is Enough.") Mr. Brett Young thus follows Miss Radclyffe Hall, Mr. D. H. Lawrence, Mr. Liam O'Flaherty, Mr. E. M. Forster, and Mr. Hugh Walpole, all of whom have been awarded the prize in earlier years.

Mr. Crosby Gaige is in London, full, as usual, of interesting information; and besides revealing to me that there is still one authentic unpublished play by the late Oscar Wilde, he has announced what will prove to be a unique publication. Indeed, when we parted he was upon his way to participate in the preparation of this work, and only the fact that I had another urgent engagement kept me from the party.

It appears that Mr. James Stephens knows a hitherto unknown Irish song of great beauty. He knows the words, and he knows the tune to which the words have been sung for many generations; and on the other afternoon he was going to sing the song to Mr. Gaige and a celebrated composer, whose name I am not allowed to mention at the moment. The composer was to take down the notes of the song as Stephens sang, and once that was done, something immortal would be committed to paper.

The next step will be to reproduce words and music in print, and Mr. George Russell (A. E.) is to provide special drawings to illustrate the song. Finally, Mr. Gaige is to publish the little work in his own style, and the fortunate possessors of the publication will enjoy a rarity which is also a gem.

We have been having in London some pleasant examples of literary discovery. The prime minister, as I mentioned months ago in one of these letters, one day read Mrs. Mary Webb's "Precious Bane," and was so moved by the book that he wrote to the author expressing his delight. Now that Mrs. Webb is dead, he has taken the opportunity of praising her books to those present at a public dinner, with the result that there has been a "run" at the libraries upon Mrs. Webb's work.

Mr. Arnold Bennett, while suspicious of the taste of prime ministers in all matters connected with art, has followed Mr. Baldwin's example, and has drawn public attention to the work of another author, unknown to the majority, who has long been the admired of the discerning. This author is Mr. G. F. Bradby, and the book chosen for praise by Mr. Bennett (who seems to be unfamiliar with Mr. Bradby's more recent stories) is "The Lanchester Tradition."

Now this book is a study of life at an English public school (the public school in England, I may add, is not at all public, but is the preserve of the upper and middle classes), and it is said to compare with Mr. Hugh Walpole's "The Gods and Mr. Perrin." That may or may not be so, but at any rate it should be added that for years Mr. Walpole has been commending the books of Mr. Bradby, a number of which have dealt slightly and charmingly with matters other than the life of school masters and school boys.

As Mr. Bradby has long been a master at Rugby (one of the leading dozen schools in the country), he should know what he is talking about when he treats of school life, and he has lately given his time to some very excellent little books, intended for students, about Shakespeare. His novels number about a dozen, and at least one other, "The Chronicles of Dawnhope," deals with school life.

New Series

A new series of small books from England is called "The Beginning of Things Series" [which describes it perfectly]. Thus far four books have appeared, "The Golden Age," the story of human nature, by H. J. Massingbam; "New Year's Day," the story of the calendar, by S. H. Hooke; "Corn from Egypt," the story of the beginning of agriculture, by M. Gompertz, and "Ancient Mariners," the story of ships and sea routes, by C. Daryll Forde.

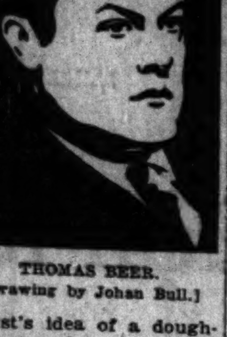
Praise Is Unstinted for Thomas Beer's "Road to Heaven"

By Fanny Butcher.

"The Road to Heaven," by Thomas Beer. (Knopf.)

It may not be cricket to do what we are going to do about "The Road to Heaven." It has long been one of the tricks of the reviewer's trade to praise with such faintness that damning may be had by the reader if he so wishes, or to stand up all of the virtues of a volume and shoot them so full of holes that they look like the pessimist's idea of a doughnut. You are supposed to keep them guessing—a little—and to straddle, if you can, the business of saying what you really think about a book.



THOMAS BEER.
[Drawing by Johan Bull.]

I let you into the secret of these tricks because they have always seemed especially bothersome to me. I never could see why it isn't simpler to come right out and say this is a grand book and here's why (and how). But if it does make a review a little fruitier to dodge around a little before committing one's self flatly, this time we aren't going to dodge. We're going to take all of the suspense out of this piece about "The Road to Heaven" and say that we think it's the best book we've read for a long time.

After Thomas Beer's "The Mauve Decade," which we alone, perhaps, of all the critics thought was a little too smarty to be as brilliant as every one else did, it was only natural to expect in his promised novel, which we knew was about "sophisticated" New York, another piece of work a trifle overmauvish. But not at all. "The Road to Heaven" has a certain lustiness about it that purely intelligentsia creations never have. It is about ultra-sophisticate New York, but it is also about a boy just out of the war who is what the world has come to call a he-man, who fits into the life of his delicately tense uncle—who is a bookseller and a patron of the artists about town—as well as he fits into the life of the gaudy ex-vaudeville headliner who falls for him thorough and complete. That boy is a real character—as is every one else in the book, even the cat.

Something has happened to Mr. Beer. He is no longer the slightly sneering gentleman sitting in a very red plush seat in the exclusive club deigning to listen while the band outside plays "The Stars and Stripes Forever!" and the latest local hero marches down the avenue and commenting to the world at large, but in very elegant language, that Mr. Shakespeare was right about the business of mortals being fools. Now he is right down on the sidewalk, getting jostled by the crowd, joining in the ballyhooing and getting a great kick out of it all.

The people in "The Road to Heaven" are all as quick as most of the characters in modern fiction are dead. They lead exotic lives, but you know that they are leading them actually and not just in the author's mind. So vivid are they that a lot of people have begun digging in the ruins of New York's best known stories of the last few years for originals for the characters.

Mr. Beer does exactly what he set out to do—he writes a story about New York that might have happened anywhere where men and women wear clothes and have an account with the grocer, but which is at the same time intimately a story of just that one special group and no other.

"The Road to Heaven" makes you feel that way—like coming right out and saying what you think about it, without any skillful juggling of opinions.

About Soviet Russia.

The latest volumes to be published by the Vanguard Press about soviet Russia are "Women in Soviet Russia," by Jessica Smith; "Health Work in Soviet Russia," by Anna J. Haines; "Soviet Trade Unions," by Robert W. Dunn, and "New Schools in New Russia," by Lucy L. W. Wilson. While there is no official announcement that the books of the Vanguard Press speak for the official soviet, its books contain material which would be impossible to gather without the sympathetic aid of the present Russian government.

Oil Best Seller.

Upton Sinclair's "Oil" is reported as the best selling novel in Germany for the past six months.

Beautiful Volume

Now and again some book appears, immediately becomes a collector's item, and its value leaps into figures which make its original price seem a pittance. The latest volume to skyrocket in value like that is the edition of "Candide" which Rockwell Kent has illustrated and which is the first volume to be printed in America with the imprint of the Random press. It is a superb piece of bookmaking in every way. The paper, the type and its arrangement on the page, the binding, and the exquisite drawings by Rockwell Kent make it a book as beautiful as has ever come from the most spectacular private presses. It has already brought extravagant words of praise from abroad, as it should. Our advice to collectors is to buy it, even at the premium which it now has upon it, for it is certain to become one of the most popular of the collectors' items.

"In the Beginning," by Norman Douglas, Is Disappointing

For almost ten years the world has been sitting up on its hind legs begging for another novel from Norman Douglas. "South Wind" was pure joy and "They Went" was gay whimsy. Both of them planted seeds of eagerness in the minds of readers who really have very little of that particular kind of zest in their reading—the zest of something just enough fantastic to be amusing, just enough cynical to be uncloying, and just enough brilliant to tingle their minds.

The novel has arrived, and fond as we are of Norman Douglas, and always have been as a writer—we know nothing of him as a person except his sturdy fight with D. H. Lawrence about Maurice Magnus and tales that have come from Italy of his voluntary isolation—devoted as we are, as we said, to Norman Douglas, the author of "South Wind," we can say nothing about "In the Beginning" but that we think it a pretty poor piece of work. It is an imitation James Branch Cabell, about assorted gods invented by the author, but, unlike most of Cabell's gods, not being masters of brilliant thought.

The book is supposed to be a satire, somewhat after the manner of Anatole France, but Mr. Douglas simply doesn't bring it off. It is a dullish tale of "good and evil" (so horribly many books are just that) with very little added to the already toppling piles of words which have been written to prove that the standards of life are wrong, and that little not done with Mr. Douglas' usual wit and whimsy. It is to our mind—which was as eager as any readers', and mayhap a good deal more so than most, for we have always plugged for "South Wind"—an unsuccessful attempt.

There are those who find its naughtinesses intriguing. We find them provokers of yawns. There are those who think the manufactured gods of the tale wholly alluring. We find them very tinny. But what we most miss is the rare beauty of style and language which has been Mr. Douglas' chief blessing. He writes adequately, but not with the felicity of phrase and the loveliness of sound that has been his gift. As you may suspect, "In the Beginning" was something of a disappointment to this department.

These are companion volumes published by the American Scandinavian foundation as introductions to modern Scandinavian fiction. Among the Swedish writers Americans know whose work is represented are Selma Lagerlof, August Strindberg, Verner Von Heidenstam, Hjalmar Soderberg, and Sidfrid Siwertz, and among the Norwegian, Bjorstjerne Bjorson, Jonas Lie, Knut Hamsun, and Sigrid Undset.

Havelock Ellis' Life Story Penned by an Admirer

"Havelock Ellis," by Houston Peterson. (Houghton Mifflin.)

This lengthy and detailed biography of Havelock Ellis called "the most civilized living Englishman" is, like most books of its particular type, a labor of love. Houston Peterson, a professor at Columbia university, is an ardent admirer and disciple of Havelock Ellis, but he writes with a quiet, almost judicial pen, and never waxes eulogistic or sentimental. Neither does he ever deeply stir the reader's interest. The work is simply a calm, dispassionate account of the life of a man who is himself calm, serene, and retiring.

HAVELOCK ELLIS.

It is, perhaps, paradoxical that Havelock Ellis, who has stood in the front ranks of scientific investigators in the realm of sex, who has been called ultra-radical, and many of whose books have not been allowed to be printed in England, has, himself, lived a most conservative and conventional life. The man who has "a sort of innate conviction that healthy and well born people do not need restraint" has proved this to be true in his own case. He has, from his boyhood, been industrious, steady, dependable, always taking the middle course in everything. He has never made a public lecture or address, even. He never sees more than one or two people at a time. To the average reader his personality is the opposite of what one would be led to expect.

Mr. Peterson draws a picture of a tall, sensitive, questioning boy who makes a vow at 16 to "explore the dangerous ocean of sex and perhaps find for humanity an earthly paradise," and of a man who studies and writes all his life to fulfill that vow. "The New Spirit" set forth his program and "The Dance of Life" rounded it out. "Studies in the Psychology of Sex," published in six volumes, is really Havelock Ellis' life work. Yet few readers of "The Dance of Life" have ever read it, as it is technical, scientific, and is not easy to procure.

Ellis has always written in his essays to a large and friendly audience in this country and to it, especially, this biography will be of great interest.

This Volume Tells All There Is About Newspaper Making

It isn't a vast and bulky volume, but it contains every scrap of information that any one might wish about the great modern newspaper. It is called "Pictured Encyclopædia of the World's Greatest Newspaper," and the facts in it are gathered from one newspaper only, but they are fundamentals of all great modern newspapers, and it can be verily called "Pictured Encyclopædia of the World's Greatest Newspapers."

There once was a time when every profession and every business snuggled its secrets within its own vests, when there was a great mystery about each separate factor's performances, and only those in the business or profession were "in the know." Now the public is "in the know" about everything. There are no "tricks" of the trade any more, there are only trade practices. There is no more romantic business in the public's eyes than the newspaper business [and the public is right].

Any newspaper man or woman will tell you that no matter where he or she goes outside the home grounds, questions are put at us like the activities of a French seventy-five at Vimy Ridge. Everyone wants to know how we get our stories, how they know how many pages the paper is going to have, how the type and pictures always fit the page, whether pictures sent by telephone and radio really are and—you know all of the questions you've stored up to ask the first newspaper man you meet. They are all answered in this engaging volume. I hate to confess it, being one of the oldest living inhabitants of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, but I found hundreds of things in the encyclopædia that I hadn't known about or that I had always wondered about.

Author Wants Help

De Lancey Ferguson, professor of English at Ohio Wesleyan university, is preparing a complete text edition of the letters of Robert Burns, re-edited from the original manuscripts. He already has more than two hundred letters from private and public collections in this country, but he feels sure that he has failed to trace many others which are now in private hands. He asks, therefore, for the help of owners of Robert Burns letters, and says that if they will write to him at the university, Delaware, O., or in care of the Oxford University Press, 35 West 32d street, New York, he will much appreciate it, and will arrange to visit the collections.

Hospital Denies Girl Was Held for Unpaid Debt

The Jackson Park hospital yesterday filed a pleading in the Superior court denying that Catherine McCann, 8 years old, had been restrained from leaving the hospital because her father, George A. McCann, 7406 Cottage Grove avenue, a disabled veteran of the world war, was unable to pay her bill for services. The document also set up that the girl was discharged from the institution Thursday before hospital authorities were notified of the habeas corpus writ that McCann had obtained earlier in the day. Since the girl was back home, the writ was dismissed yesterday.

TEN INDICTED BY FRAUD JURY; ONE POLICEMAN

ued at $806,000 was put up for bail for four of the men under indictment. The investigators learned that $2,000,000 in property has been made available to the defendants named by the special grand jury and needing bail.

The first meeting of the newly formed Citizens' Crime committee, formed by the Chicago Crime commission, will be held next Wednesday noon at the Hotel La Salle, it was announced yesterday by Mr. Loesch. Plans for a permanent organization and purposes will be discussed.

Hughes Swats at Loesch.

Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes yesterday showed anger at the statements of Mr. Loesch at a public meeting Thursday when he said Chicago's policemen were untrained and illiterate.

"Chicago's police force will measure up to the best in the world," Hughes said. He stated he did not believe that Samuel Epstein, messenger for the special grand jury, had been slugged at all, as was reported, and he branded as propaganda also the reports that five armed gangsters sought to kidnap James Huff, chief witness of the state against the murderers of Granady.

Warden Fogarty's Jail Work Praised After an Inspection

Warden Edward J. Fogarty of the county jail was congratulated yesterday by a subcommittee of the citizens committee, which two years ago selected him for the position by a competitive examination. The praise was given for the efficient manner in which he is at present dealing with the difficult condition due to overcrowding.

The committee headed by Judge John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court toured the jail yesterday and found that Warden Fogarty has approximately 1,400 prisoners in a jail originally built to house a maximum of 350 inmates. Judge McGoorty appointed the original citizens committee to select a jailer at a time of jail scandals.

New Jail Ready in November.

The committee was prompted to make its visit by the announcement at the judges meeting earlier in the day that the new, modern jail, now under construction, would be ready for occupancy not later than Nov. 1.

The committee talked with the warden about plans for installing machinery to make bedding, toweling, and similar articles for other county institutions as well as the jail.

The committee was informed that not a prisoner has escaped since Fogarty took charge in September, 1926.

Despite unusually heavy increase in population he has operated the institution without an increase in personnel or an increase in food costs. The only variation from his budget was one of about $6,000 for the present year for necessary repairs.

Fogarty Reduces Costs.

The average daily prison population when Fogarty took charge in 1926 was 881 prisoners a day and in 1927 this increased to an average of 1,007, and for this year will be much more. Fogarty pointed out that he has reduced the maintenance cost of a prisoner per year from $337.84 in 1926 to $280.63 in 1927.

"The administration of Edward J. Fogarty as superintendent of the Cook county jail, has been most efficient and admirable," Judge McGoorty said. "He has instituted rules and a system of discipline that is in accord with his high reputation as one of the leading penologists of the United States.

"Even despite the crowded condition, the jail is a model of cleanliness and order. Mr. Fogarty is a strict displinarian, but humane. He has the respect and confidence of the prisoners."

Baker breaks all records!

Mobiloil-lubricated car crosses continent twice in 157 hrs. and 23 mins.

Los Angeles, June 16—When Cannon Ball Baker arrived here today in his Franklin Airman, he had broken all records for twice crossing the continent by 10 hours and 36 minutes. His total mileage was 6,692—from Los Angeles to New York, and return. Total elapsed time, 157 hours and 23 minutes. It was the fastest transcontinental trip that any automobile has ever made.

His engine, which functioned perfectly throughout the trip and was in perfect shape at the finish, was lubricated with regular stock Mobiloil "BB" as recommended for the Franklin car by the Mobiloil Chart.

Mobiloil "BB" is endorsed by the Franklin manufacturers for use on their cars. Try it on your Franklin.

For Mobiloil it has been another eventful week.

On Monday, Miss Amelia Earhart flew across the Atlantic, using Mobiloil "B"—the same oil that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh used in his flight to Paris.

Also a cable came from Gerry Bouwer, complimenting the Mobiloil he used in a most phenomenal run in a Chrysler "72" from Cape Town, South Africa, through Cairo, Egypt, and on to London, England.

Three Generations

By WARWICK DEEPING

SYNOPSIS.

Old John Pybus, formerly a bookseller in London and later in Winterbourn, is serving [illegible] in an inn at Castle Craven when his son Conrad sees him there. He's been estranged from both his sons since the beginning of the war and they have lost track of him. Conrad hastens to tell his brother, Probyn, that he has seen his father. Probyn's son, Lance Pybus, had believed his grandfather dead, but he looks him up at the Saracen's Head without telling his parents of the meeting. When Lance finishes at Cambridge he takes a room in London, and after gaining his father's reluctant consent and a small allowance he devotes himself to writing. In London Lance meets and is attracted to [illegible], a manikin.

Mary Merris, a friend of old Pybus, takes care of a blind brother.

INSTALLMENT LXI.

A BATTLE.

Mary perplexed Lance. So quickly had their intimacy ripened that he felt he could say anything to her—and she to him—but the saying of things was like throwing a stone into still water. She was still water. She tantalized his increasing tenderness, all that strove for her—and with her.

He would try to fasten her to a promise.

"Look here, if we can't get Gil back to the piano, and way from that other thing, will you agree?"

But she would not agree to anything. She would look both frightened and obstinate. She was being assailed on three sides, and she had her moods of bewilderment. The whole emotional scheme was a little blurred. She had endured for so long that any movement of revolt seemed difficult.

Obviously the first and urgent move was his, but when he hinted at it and its inevitability, she seemed to flinch.

"No, not that way. I'd prefer——"

And he would prevaricate.

"O, all right. But that is what ought to be done. You are too gentle, Mary."

"You'd like to call me cowardly."

"Heavens, no. I'm not such a crude beast. But I have my view."

So, for a week or more the affair fluctuated, though Lance's efforts to break down the brother's blind hostility, and to push, lead, or flatter him back to his piano, had little result. It was as though Merris resented Lance's freedom, his power to see, the very patronage of his coming and going. Shut up in his perpetual darkness Merris' psychic perceptions were unpleasantly acute. He felt in Lance a rival, a male personality impinging upon his own orbit; he was jealous of him, furiously and sullenly jealous. Of course the fellow came to see Mary; he wanted Mary, and all this pretense about pianos and persuasion was humbug, and offensive humbug.

Mary might keep the doors locked and the windows fastened after dusk, but that good friend, that fellow with a sly yet robust sense of humor, was not to be discouraged.

"Gil, old lad."

"That you, Bob?"

"Have a drink, you blackguard."

She closed her eyes and dropped the blind.

A piece of string was let down from an upper window, and incredible though it may seem, that was how it happened.

. . . .

Lance, from the hollow of the Marion's lane, saw the great red winter sun hanging in the black branches of the Woolshot beeches. It was like the flare of a beacon, and the branches of the trees were trails of smoke, and behind him Castle Craven—faintly blue upon its white hill—glimmered its windows at the sunset. He was conscious of a great stillness.

He went through the orchard toward the cottage, and at the window looking toward the orchard he saw her face, a white oval behind the glass. She was standing there watching him, with glints of firelight in the room behind her. He raised that stick of his.

"Mary."

Her lips moved. She disappeared. She had gone to meet him, to unlock the door and let him in. He stood in the porch kicking the snow from his boots.

"Anything happened?"

"No."

"I'll come in. May I?"

"Gil's upstairs."

"Still?"

"Yes."

She seemed to shrink and draw back into the dark passage as though dreading the instant issue. His masterful, young passion was so much less subtle than her reaction to it and its possibilities.

"I'm sorry about Gil. It's damnable."

She made a movement with her hands.

"Yes. Go in. I'll see to the fire."

He gave her a quick and searching look as he turned to the door.

She was agonized with hesitations. She let him go into the sitting room, and while pretending to be busy in the kitchen, she stood motionless by the fire, staring at it. She had a horror of violence. She had so schooled herself to surrender and to the patient suffering of things that she trembled a little when this young, dramatic chivalry of his came striding and clanging. But how absurd, these tremors and tendernesses and vacillations, these primitive qualms! She would go in and tell him, reason with him.

The kettle was steaming, and the tray ready, and she had no excuses for further loiterings. She picked up the tray and carried it out into the passage. The door of the sitting room was half closed, and she pushed it open with her foot, to see Lance at the orchard window. His figure had a dark and poised stillness; it looked very black against the afterglow and the snow.

He turned sharply, and with a jerk of his arm pulled down the blind, but not before she had seen something moving in the distance between the trunks of the fruit trees.

The tea cups jiggled on the tray as she placed it on the table. She was aware of Lance moving toward the door.

She saw his eyes as he closed the door.

"Stay there, Mary. Don't look."

She heard him go quickly down the passage and out into the snow.

She heard voices, voices that had the sharp crack of branches snapping under the weight of snow. She could not hear what was said, which was well, for such words were like fierce blows, and not for her.

"Keep off, you young sod."

"You swine."

There were other sounds, like a stirring of nature, a vague movement as of wind and chafing branches, and she stood with her hands to her bosom, horribly attentive, trembling. She knew—she could imagine. She was conscious of a kind of age old primeval fear, the fear of the woman shut up, crouching, hidden, while men tore at each other. And she—she the civilized, the thinking woman—was involved in it, and so furiously involved that she felt her fingers curving to clutch. Her lover was fighting; he was being hurt. How would things go? That great beast of a man! O, horrible, the horror of humiliation, of his being thrashed, of his coming back to her beaten, ashamed, her young rider on the white horse. She could not bear to think of his being smashed and mauled. She must look.

Stooping she raised a corner of the blind. She sky was a suffused redness, and against it the fruit trees were sharp and black; the snow appeared tinged with the sky's redness. She saw two figures half way up one of the orchard aisles, knotted together, striking, twisting, jerking from side to side. She closed her eyes and dropped the blind.

But a moment later she had to look again, and it seemed to her that in the passing of those few seconds the sky had grown pale, and that the orchard was full of the dusk. The two figures had broken apart, one lying prone on the snow, the other standing, and with a little catching of the breath she realized that the standing figure was Lance's. O, thank God! The figure on the snow moved; it rose on its hands and knees; it made an effort to crawl toward Lance——

Again she dropped the blind. She became aware of her heart beating, and its contractions were so strong and rapid that she felt shaken by them; she seemed to quiver like a piano when powerful chords were struck. She sat down on a chair behind the door. She felt strangely stifled, but strangely exultant. O, romance, violence, the old rage of chivalry, the beast trampled upon, the white knight triumphant! So, things sometimes did happen that way. But how dark it was! The room was growing dim. She must have lights for him, not the lamp, but candles, firelight. There were candles on the mantelpiece, and she hurried to light them, only to find her hand so shaky that the match flame and the wick seemed to be playing hide and seek. She had to steady that right hand, holding the wrist with her left hand. But how absurd, how dearly and splendidly absurd! She felt herself swept by a gust of tenderness. The candle flames seemed to waver. She knelt down and stirred the fire to a blaze.

Hyde Park High Plans Greeting to Girl Flyer

Mother Wires That Miss Earhart Will Visit City.

Tentative plans for Chicago's reception to its own trans-Atlantic flyer, Amelia Earhart, received impetus yesterday when a message was received from her mother, Mrs. Earhart, in Boston, assuring the committee that her daughter would be glad to come to Chicago on her return to this country.

On the strength of this assurance an informal meeting was held last night at the Shoreland hotel during the annual dance of the Hyde Park High School Alumni association. There Jesse S. Smith, president of the alumni; Leonard J. Grossman, alderman from the Fifth ward, and William Gemmill, chairman of the committee of the class of 1915, conferred regarding the suggested program.

A civic welcoming committee, appointed by the mayor, will go to New York to meet the boat on which Miss Earhart returns to America, and extend to her an invitation to spend two days in Chicago. The committee probably will include one or more representatives of Hyde Park High school.

It is expected that the "Lady Lindy" will arrive in Chicago by airplane about 10 or 11 o'clock. She will be met at the landing field by the Hyde Park High school band, her former schoolmates, and the general public. She will then be escorted to the City hall to be officially welcomed by Mayor Thompson, after which there there will a luncheon at some hotel.

The afternoon's program probably will include a visit to Hull House, the aviatrix being a settlement worker and interested in social service work, and a stop at the Hyde Park High school for a meeting with her old teachers and a ramble through the rooms where she once conned her books.

Alumni of the high school and especially her own class of '15 will be in charge of a dinner in the evening at some south side hotel, to be followed by a reception in her honor.

Plans are already under way for the presentation to Miss Earhart of a gift from the class, which it is expected will take the form of a small bust of herself, a larger copy of which will later be presented either to the high school or to the city.

No plans for the second day have been made, pending information as to how long her arrangements will allow her to remain in this city.

'Lady Lindy' Cheered by Children on Visit to Slums of London

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 22.—Carrying out a cherished desire to see London social work in operation, Miss Amelia Earhart, former Chicagoan, and first girl to fly across the Atlantic, this morning visited Toynbee hall, a famous settlement house in East London, where she was received by a shouting crowd of children anxious to see "Lady Lindy."

While admiring the English methods Miss Earhart made criticisms with regard to the preponderance of the religious element in English social centers.

"In America the majority of settlements have no religious background at all," she said. "We are careful not to interfere with any one's religious beliefs. That is the greatest difference between English and American welfare centers."

The visit to Toynbee hall was preceded by a simple ceremony at the Cenotaph, where Miss Earhart, accompanied by Lou Gordon and Wilmer Stultz, laid wreaths of roses on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Later she visited Ascot and enjoyed the final day of the famous race meeting.

Will Return July 6.

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Miss Amelia Earhart and her two trans-Atlantic flight companions, Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, will reach New York July 6 instead of July 4, as announced previously, George Palmer Putnam, American manager of the Friendship's venture, said today. Engagements with Lady Astor and others make it impossible for them to leave before June 28, he said.

At the invitation of David A. Burke, general manager of the United States lines, the three flyers will return on the President Roosevelt.

Final Graduations Held in City Schools

Commencement exercises for the last of the 1928 graduates were held last night in two Chicago high schools, the Schurz and the Austin. Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction, delivered the address at the Austin high school, where 425 graduates received diplomas. At the Schurz high school 393 students were graduated. The Rev. Lewis A. Convis was the commencement speaker.

William J. Bogan, acting superintendent of schools, yesterday announced that registration for students in the 33 summer schools will be opened Monday morning. Sessions will be held for eight weeks in eleven senior high schools, seven junior high schools, 14 elementary schools, and in the Chicago Normal college.

All public schools were closed yesterday and 500,000 children were dismissed for the summer vacation.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Ben Stafford, 800 Monroe street, Gary, Ind., was awarded $5.

The Question.

Should the Democrats adopt a liberal plank on prohibition?

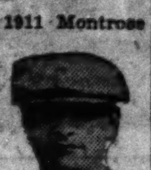
The Answers.

Robert Thompson, St. Paul, Minn., newspaper reporter.—Yes. I come from the city where Andy Volstead is now legal advisor for the prohibition department, and I am thoroughly out of sympathy with him, his works, and our laws on prohibition. Prohibition is not popular, and is not in harmony with American traditions.

Mrs. Nate Shaeffer, Davis hotel, housewife.—Yes, absolutely. We should have light wines and beer, but no saloons. I think it would change the men's dispositions for one thing, and help business. Give a man something to drink and can you make him listen to reason.

Harry Rosenberg, 4614 North Sacramento avenue, musician.—I would say no. If liquor got a start it would go right straight back to the old saloon days. And with the people who will drink and abuse their families, regardless of whether there are saloons or not, the evil would return just as it was before prohibition.

Miss Agnes Slanee, 2820 Wilson avenue, stenographer.—I believe the prohibition resolves itself into a question of what is best for the poorer working class and their families. The middle class can afford to to drink, but before prohibition the working man spent all his money in the saloon.



F. J. Van Buskirk, 1911 Montrose avenue, manager.—Positively. A lot of people would feel better for one thing. There is hard feeling against both political parties since prohibition. Wine and beer do not hurt anybody. If the people don't get it they drink something worse.

Adele Rowland Returns After a Long Absence

A late booking for next week in the Palace theater is Adele Rowland, for years a familiar performer on the Chicago stage, but in virtual retirement since her marriage to Conway Tearle of the films. She was an admired soubrette of the La Salle in the Singer and, later, the Askin régime of the famous little theater in Madison street; and she took part in other houses in the respective runs of "A Modern Eve," "The Tick-Tock Man of Oz," and "The Mayor of Tokio." Among her individual successes was the rôle of the shabby little salesgirl in J. M. Patterson's vivid one-act piece called "By-Products" when it was given in the Majestic under the name of "The Sell-Out."

Mason Expected to Head Rockefeller Foundation

New York, June 22.—(AP)—The New York American tomorrow will say that Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, is to retire from that post on Oct. 1, 1929, and that the present expectancy is that he will be succeeded by Dr. Max Mason, former president of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Mason has resigned from the university to become chief of the new department of natural sciences of the Rockefeller Foundation on Oct. 1 next.

Spokesmen for the foundation declined to confirm for the American reports that Dr. Mason would succeed Dr. Vincent, asserting that it was too early for any announcements.

JANE PULLMAN.

It is time to bury winter coats in moth balls and hang spring wraps in the furthermost corner of the clothes closet. Summer is here and there is no getting around it. THE TRIBUNE's ice wagons, infallible barometers of the summer's approach, start their rounds on Monday.

Sweeter than music to many a mother of the city's tenements, will be their rattle up street and down alley. For the clatter will bring the news that all summer long precious ice will be delivered at her door, insuring the health, and perhaps the life of her baby.

And there will be several hundred such mothers who will receive aid from THE TRIBUNE's ice fund, which is administered by the United Charities through its district offices, and cooperating agencies including the Central Charity bureau of the Association of Catholic Charities, the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, the Jewish Social Service bureau and the Juvenile court.

In the meantime, friends of both the ice fund and Camp Algonquin, are not forgetting the summer needs of the city's poor. The first benefit put on this season by a group of children was held on Tuesday night when "Ski-High," a dancing and musical entertainment was given by eleven Kenwood girls. The hard work of the cast was rewarded by gate receipts of $46, which is to be divided between THE TRIBUNE charity funds.

The program was fostered and presented by Jane Pullman, assisted by Pauline Whipple, Helen Daniels, Gladys Carson, Mary Davis, June Hodge, Eleanor Tobin, Jean McDougal, Jean Elenberger, Margaret Gethroe and Patsy Bankard.

Through an error of $20 in Algonquin's total in the issue of June 18, the fund was given as $271, it should have been $251. This, plus June 19 contributions, totals $311. THE TRIBUNE acknowledges the following gifts for the two funds, including the "Ski-High" benefit.

CAMP ALGONQUIN FUND.

$25—Mrs. F. A. Crego.
$10—C. L. J.
$5—Ada M. Clark, Mary B. Schuyler; "Who Said It" contest.
$3—Mrs. C. E. Barber.
Previously acknowledged—$311.

TRIBUNE ICE FUND.

$5—Ada M. Clark, Mary B. Schuyler.
Previously acknowledged—$318.20.
Grand total—$381.20.

Mary Pickford Lets Chicago in on Great Secret

Famous Star Has Her Famous Curls Bobbed.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

The films will continue to flicker; the government at Washington still lives; the smoke will go up the chimney; but the bobber shop has claimed the most famous curls in Christendom, and the thing now is—what will America do when it finds out what America's sweetheart has gone and done?

Arriving in Chicago yesterday with her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, and a party enroute to Hollywood after a vacation in Europe and a delay in New York while her trunks full of clothes were cleared through the customs, Mary was bursting to tell the news.

She popped off the train into the midst of a bevy of reporters and photographers, held up her finger to command attention, waited a moment for the impressive nature of this announcement to convey itself, and tossed the bombshell.

"I've cut my hair!"

Gasps and groans from the press. Then a concerted struggle to get close enough to verify the awful truth, through the medium of the actually abbreviated ringlets depending from under her chic brown chapeau. Lest a lingering doubt remain, Mary reached under, plucked out a lock of yellow hair, and demonstrated its present length, which just covers the nape of her neck.

"Yesterday—in New York—I slipped out and had Charles do it—nobody there noticed because I had my hat on when I left—feels fine—I think long hair is messy and bothersome—"

Mary's nimble tongue seemed capable of keeping up with the barrage of questions fired at her about this latest development, which left Doug pretty much in the shade and with nothing to do but look pleasant. Bent on making a hurried exit to reach the golf matches at Olympia Fields, he lingered only long enough to pose for a few pictures before rushing off to the Hotel Sherman, depositing his wife and baggage and speeding away south.

Once established in the bungalow on the roof of the Sherman, Mary peeled off her brown hat and shook out "the ducktails," as she calls the clipped tresses, to demonstrate that she really didn't look so different.

And then she revealed that she had not given Charles, the New York bobber, enough time to put quite the finish on the bob that she wanted, and tripped down to the hotel bobber shop and into the bobber chair of George Graydon, who put those feminine finishing touches on.

While she was in the chair some of the long golden locks that had been shorn from her dainty head in New York were somehow fastened on again and some hundreds of feet of film were taken to show how she had looked with and how she will look without.

"I won't need 'em in my next picture," she said of the departed, "for it's going to be a modern picture of a modern girl—a love story with a touch of tragedy, but a happy ending. And I'm having the curls made into a wig that I can wear if I must.

"My dresses? Well, I brought only three trunks—not twelve, as some one said. And I don't think that's so extravagant, for they'll last me for two years. I wear twenty-five at a time, then put those away and wear twenty-five more, you see. I have an arrangement with two Paris designers who give me prices on my clothes, but of course at the customs they value them differently. There wasn't really any trouble."

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

A little country girl, who had been away in the city for several years, finally returned to her country home. She had, of course, forgotten much of the country lore that had been known to her, but the family did not realize it.

She was obliged one day to pass behind a team of horses, and the man in charge of the horses told her to "speak to them" before going behind them, so they would not kick her. She hesitated, and looked embarrassed.

He told her again, "Speak to the horses, so they will not kick you, before passing behind them." Still she hesitated and he told her a third time.

Then, giving a shy look to the horses, and apparently very much embarrassed, she said "How d' do," and slipped on past. M. R.

"Well, you see, dear, she is the biggest."

"Yes and she always will be if you keep on giving her the most to eat," replied little Paul. S. Y.

Little Dorothy, whose mother was a nurse, lived with her grandmother. She had often heard it told how much her mother received for her services.

One day Dorothy became ill and started to cry. When grandmother asked her what the trouble was, she said: "I'd like to have mother take care of me, but I guess we can't afford that. J. E. K."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Old Edition of Pitman Needed.

"I wonder if any one has a copy of Pitman's shorthand book to give away? I would like the old edition which was current about ten years ago. I want to renew my shorthand and the newer books are of no help to me. D. F."

Have you the book this young woman needs? She'll be most grateful for it, I know.

Generous Offer of Books.

"We have on hand about 300 children's books which we are desirous of giving to charity. Can you send us the names of some children and children's institutions where some use could be made of these? F. M."

Here's a store of good reading for the tiny Cornerites who are bookworms! We'll be glad to hear from hospitals, homes, institutions, or from the children themselves, who'd like to have a share of this generous gift. Write us; please do not telephone.

Chicago Friends to Give Hick Party for Chatfield-Taylors

BY THALIA

This is to be another of the two-day sessions of events referred to by worried and hurried folk as "those week-ends." Most of the gayest young crowd goes to the "hick" party the Charles G. Cushings, the Russell Forgans, and the Edward A. Cudahys Jr. are giving this evening at Shoreacres for the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors. Dinner parties are to be given beforehand by the John Bordens, the Seymour Wheelers, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps, and Mr. and Mrs. John H. [illegible]. Everybody is to wear something farmerish, the idea being to present a sort of gentle satire on how the Chatfield-Taylors might regard their old acquaintances after a year's stay in Paree.

The opening of the Ravinia opera season with Verdi's "The Masked Ball" will, no doubt, be the festive occasion that it always is. The mosquito menace, which was such a great problem for a long time, has been abated somewhat by dint of technical and scientific research and remedy methods, so the music lovers who choose to betake themselves to woodsy Ravinia tonight need look forward to pleasure only.

Tomorrow the Wheaton Junior Hunt club's third annual polo farm horse show takes place from 1:30 o'clock to 5 at the estate of William J. Sutherland, with the proceeds going to the American Legion. The drum and bugle corps of the West Chicago post of the Legion in uniforms of scarlet and blue is to escort the massed colors and standards of the three American Legion posts into the arena to open the show. Then will appear the members of the Hunt club, led by William J. Sutherland, and Marion J. Pittsford, mayor of Wheaton. A formation and grand ensemble conclude this impressive pageant. There are a hundred boxes, and the exhibitors include Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Strom, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Miss Arline Martell, Mrs. Ralph R. Richardson, Miss Katherine Hamill, Thomas Ballard, Mrs. James Knowlson, and Mrs. Elizabeth Matthews. Mrs. Chauncey McCormick is to give a luncheon at her Wheaton place before the show.

The engagement of Miss Daisianna Smith, daughter of the Franklin P. Smiths of Lake Forest, to John T. Pirie Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie, also of Lake Forest, is to be announced today. Miss Smith made her debut several years ago, and has been a popular star in the Service club's annual musical comedies. Mr. Pirie and his brother, Robert Pirie, are now in Africa on a hunting expedition. Mrs. Smith and Miss Smith are planning to go abroad in a week or so to join the Smiths' son, Durand Smith, who has been in England for the last year. The wedding is expected to take place in October.

Miss Romayne Warren's marriage in Detroit this afternoon to John P. Wilson Jr. is to take place at Christ Episcopal church, and will be followed by a reception in the gardens of the Benjamin S. Warren residence in fashionable Grosse Pointe, if the weather is fair, otherwise in the house. There will be a large group of fashionables of Detroit, Chicago, and elsewhere present. Miss Elizabeth Warren is to be maid of honor for her sister, and Albert Keep is to be best man for his half-brother. Miss Isabel Scott, who is to be married to Mr. Keep next Saturday, is to be one of the bridesmaids. Chicago men among the ushers include Solomon B. Smith and John M. Blair. Mr. Wilson and his bride are to go abroad for their honeymoon, but not until July 4, because they're going to attend the Scott-Keep nuptials. When they return from Europe they will go to Cambridge, Mass., to reside, where Mr. Wilson is to pursue the study of law for the next three years.

The Lake Forest gardens that are to be open to the public today under the auspices of the Lake Forest Garden club include Mrs. Clyde M. Carr's, Alfred T. Carton's, the William H. Mitchells', and Edward H. Bennett's.

The Associate Alumnæ of Northwestern university and the Evanston League of Women Voters are to sponsor jointly two concerts to be given by the famous John Philip Sousa and his band on Saturday, Sept. 22, at the Patten gymnasium. One concert is to be in the afternoon with a program selected to appeal to children, and the other is to be in the evening. The alumnae will contribute its share of the profits to the proposed women's building for Northwestern. Mrs. W. T. Hall, president of the Associate alumnae, and Mrs. Martin Kent Northam, president of the league, are in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Robert E. Wood, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. W. C. Rafferty, Mrs. R. R. McCormick, and Martin J. Insull have bought boxes for the fourth annual Fort Sheridan horse show on July 13 and 14, and parking space has been reserved by Mrs. Wood, Mrs. J. Andrews King, and Mrs. John F. Jelke Jr. Proceeds of the show will go to the Army Relief society and the fund for public school education of the children of the military personnel at the post. Mrs. Paul B. Malone is in charge of a luncheon to be served in a tent on the parade grounds. The wives of the officers will assist.

Mrs. M. W. Martin and her daughter, Miss Lucy Martin, of the Ambassador East, sail next Tuesday for Italy, to be gone until Oct. 1. Their trip will include stops of a day each at Lisbon, Palermo, Naples, Greece, Ragusa, Dalmatia, and finally Trieste. Then they plan to go to Budapest, Vienna, Salzburg, St. Moritz, the Italian lakes, and Paris. The boat trip is the same one from which Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank has just returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Foster of 8 West Walton place have gone to their summer place at Derby, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller Callahan of Evanston have taken a house at Barrington for the summer.

Fancy being a "chairman of dates"! That is Miss Alice Gerstenberg's newest job for the Romany club. The club is to have open house every afternoon with some member as hostess. Next week's are Miss Elizabeth Browning, Mrs. Archibald Freer, Madam Sturkow-Ryder, Miss Nettie Bauman, Mrs. Emerson Hough, and Miss Georgia Kober.

NEW YORK SOCIETY.

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—Delancey Nicoli will depart tomorrow for Saranac Lake, where he has taken a camp for the summer.

Mrs. Ector O. Munn of 17 East 90th street is sailing for Europe at midnight tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas Lee of 750 Park avenue have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Janet Norton Lee, to John Vernon Bouvier III., on July 7 in the Church of St. Philomena, East Hampton, L. I.

[Drake Studio Photo.]

The announcement of Miss Daisianna Smith's engagement to John T. Pirie Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie of Lake Forest, is being made today by Miss Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Smith of Lake Forest, Chicago, and Palm Beach, Fla.

Fraternity Smoker.

The University of Illinois chapter of Omicron Alpha Tau fraternity will have a smoker tomorrow night in the English Walnut room of the Congress hotel.

WEDDINGS

Miss Carolyn Case, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Case of Hubbard Woods, is to be married to Lawrence Norem this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Case residence, with the Rev. James Austin Richards officiating. Miss Mary Louise von Hofsten is to be maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Anne Leslie Nichol of Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Franklin C. Ellis of Rochester, N. Y.; Miss Dorothy Putnam Garland and Miss Priscilla Page of Boston, Miss Mary Barry of Evanston, Miss Frances von Hofsten, Mrs. Ansel McBryde Kinney, Miss Mary Adelaide Harding, and Miss Margaret Quan. PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

CHILD'S DRESS.

Here is a dear little play dress with bloomers, and the dress box plaits its straight front and back from shoulders to hem, attached to shoulder pieces to form a yoke, with an attached Peter Pan collar. Select fabrics with tub fast qualities that will give twice the service, and in that way prove economical. Ginghams, chambrays, or the mercerized cotton broadcloths are favorite materials.

The pattern, 3329, comes in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 2¼ yards of 40 inch material.

Experience Proves Office Isn't Habitat for Any Delilahs

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Having been around offices for a number of years and being a fairly observant person, there are a couple of reasons why I hesitate about being a militant party in an assault on "the office danger." I have to use that word because there isn't coined yet a better one for the type of female employé I'm heartily urged to "pan." Coquette won't do because it's too mild a word, and, besides, most girls are coquettes, whether they're in business or not. And isn't it every young woman's business to be—well, just a bit of a one?

The word flirt is out for the same reason. Vampire is strong enough, but the trouble is that the girl who plays her sex game too brazenly around an office is usually a most ineffectual vamp. I've seen them blow in, bowl over a few hardy perennials of the male suasion for a brief interlude, and out they blow—or, more truthfully, out they're blown.

But the reason I'm not enthusiastic about assaulting or battering the lady verbally is that if she's that kind of a person she's going to turn a deaf ear to any and all admonishments.

Another reason is that I can't seem to work up a great case of sympathy for the poor married employer whose home, wife, children, letters, orders, and conferences are in danger of neglect. The communication before me urging me to do something about the "office danger" urges me because the employer whose peace of mind is threatened "is innocent of wrong intentions, but is placed in an awkward position. Changing his help abruptly isn't desirable. Breaking in a new employé takes effort and time. The man is human and very courteous to every one, but is not the kind of married man who tries to vamp his employés."

Perhaps I'm sore because none of them (employers, I mean) ever succumbed to any of my many charms but my ability to work. But isn't it too silly to sob over a strong, able bodied male who lets the girl "hang over his desk, make eyes at him, and maneuver to be ridden home in his car at the end of the day's work"? I like the old style martyr best—the kind that let real lions gobble him up!

Sane Shoes Will Prevent Common Foot Ailments

by Antoinette Donnelly

A shoe maker, who is by way of information gained from many years' experience somewhat of a pediatrist and orthopedist, says that the common misunderstanding about the meaning of "broken arch" leads to much pain and bad treatment by the layman.

The term "broken arch" is a misnomer. Nothing breaks. What happens is a relaxing of the leg muscles which allow the longitudinal arch in the foot to become less arched. The strain results in tiredness and often stinging pain in the limb.

When some people become conscious of arch trouble they buy an arch support which is totally unnecessary and often harmful in its effect. These shoe appliances should be bought only at the suggestion of some one who has examined the foot and recommended them.

Some people, whose foot troubles have nothing to do with the arch, are led into purchasing arch supports because of the comparative flatness of their arches alongside a foot to whom a high arch is a natural possession. It is no more normal for every one to have a high arched foot than it is normal for every one to have blue eyes. The fact that feet are flat does not necessarily mean that they are weak. Some people have perfectly strong normal feet that are very low arched.

Where the longitudinal arch is affected and a flat foot condition is actually present, rest, massage, and proper exercises are the measures recommended for correction.

Another piece of foot information gleaned is in connection with an ingrown toenail. It is not an ingrowing of the nail. It is an overgrowth of the tissue over the nail and is due to the wearing of narrow toed shoes. The name of the painful trouble is sufficient to warrant the understanding that the nail grows down into the flesh. But it is the flesh at the edge of the nail pressed up against the nail that makes the trouble. This causes an inflammation of the flesh which makes it grow and the nail in this way cuts down into the inflamed flesh. Anyway, it is too painful a foot condition to court. It comes not only from too narrow shoes, but from too short ones. If the shoe is short and the heel high, the toes are crowded together and the flesh is forced against the nail.

Meant It Kindly.

The other day I got on a street car and it had been raining and, of course, everybody had umbrellas. Right across from me sat a woman with an umbrella standing alongside of her. She got up to go out, leaving the umbrella.

Thinking it was hers, I picked it up and took it to the front platform of the car and I said, "Is this your umbrella, lady?"

She said, "No."

A man came up behind me and said, "I beg your pardon, but that's my umbrella."

Hurried exit. F. P.

Letting the Cat Out of the Bag.

One day while I was at school our next door neighbor gave my mother some loganberries. On coming home that evening I saw the berries and as none of us liked them I, without waiting to find out from where they came, ran out to our friend and said, "Will you have these? Some one gave them to mother and you know we simply detest them!"

Imagine how I felt when she answered icily, "O, yes, thank you! I will not intrude with my gifts again."

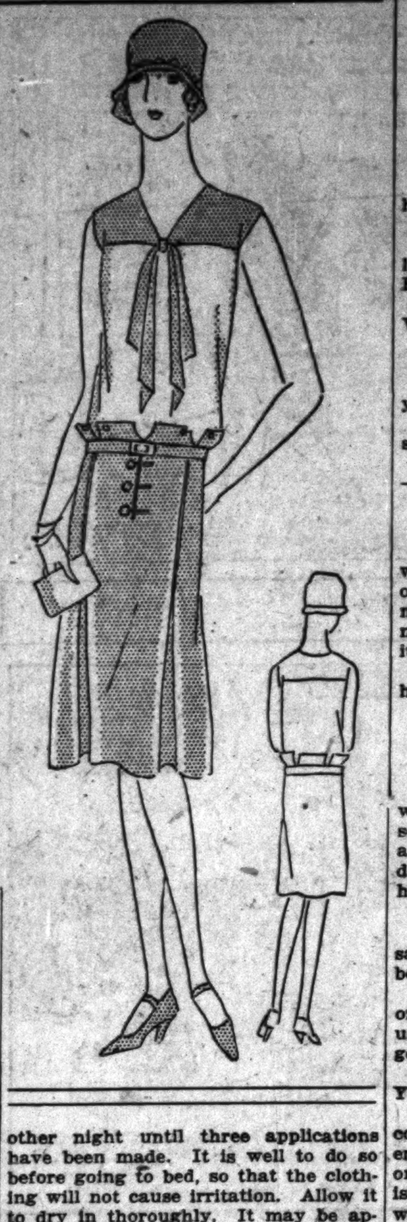
A New Silhouette in Our Sports World

by Corinne Lowe



NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—We might call this skirt one of the runners up in the sporting event. Like so many other of its fashionable associates, this model does run up, in fact, above the waistline, and in doing so brings a brand new silhouette to refresh our jaded vision.

As originally designed by Martial et Armand, this is a boating costume and as such it may be developed in either flannel or some type of lightweight cloth. The skirt is of navy blue and the waist of white, in self material, is finished by a yoke of the blue. This latter is set off by ties run through slits in the material.

Unlike many of those skirts that extend like a calyx up above the waist line, this one is cut into points and at the sides these points fasten to the bodice with the aid of white pearl buttons. The same buttons are repeated at the front of the skirt underneath a narrow belt of self material fastening with a white pearl buckle. A design of a ship may be embroidered in blue and white at the side of the corsage.

One does not need, of course, to dedicate this charming idea to a maritime life. Omitting the embroidered ship on the corsage, such a flannel costume as this may find a wide range of land duties. Also be it remarked that the frock may be carried out in white and navy linen and in this latter form would serve admirably on the tennis courts.

H. R.: DECOMPOSED MATERIAL collects at the root of the tongue and unless proper means are used to eliminate it by carefully cleansing the tongue with a tooth brush, foul breath will result. In using the tooth brush be careful not to touch the roof of the mouth with the brush. You avoid gagging.

G. B. S.: THE PERSPIRATION remedy is a twenty-five per cent solution of aluminum chloride in distilled water. Apply it under the arms every other night until three applications have been made. It is well to do so before going to bed, so that the clothing will not cause irritation. Allow it to dry in thoroughly. It may be applied once a week to prevent recurrence. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for my leaflet on excessive perspiration.

Some Teachers Still Believe in Brute Force

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

Scene—The living room in Bob's house.

Bob—Do you have home work? We don't.

Bill—Sure we do.

Bob—Do you have much?

Bob, O, do they hit you in your school?

Bill—Yeah—they're not supposed to—but they do.

Bob—What do they hit you for?

Bill—For not doing your home work, for one thing—and for lots of other things. There's one boy there, no matter how hard they hit him, he never cries. He puts iodine on it so it won't hurt.

Bob—Gee, I'd hit 'em back if they hit me.

Bill—A bamboo stick. It hurts, too.

Bob—Did you ever get hit?

Bill—Yeah, three times. And I always do my home work, too. But some of the teachers just hit you, anyhow. There's our teacher—he does that. I suppose they just get the habit of hitting.

Bob—It's a pretty bum habit, I'll say. Does it make the fellows be any better—or get their home work?

Bill—Naw—and lots of 'em just go on doing things for spite—they get used to being hit—or some of 'em get mad.

I am leaving the remaining space to convey a message to two of my readers who have written me more than once on the subject of corporal punishment. I was greatly interested in what they had to say and in the special cases cited, but I could not possibly publish their letters or their views as they desire because I do not subscribe to their opinions.

Connally Halts Tribe Rally in Ninth.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 22.—Behind some flinging by Ted Blankenship that was splendid until he wilted in the ninth, the White Sox produced a bone crushing attack this afternoon to spank the Indians in the series final by 7 to 4 and pull themselves a bit closer to seventh place in the American league campaign.

The outstanding feature of the Chicagoans' unusual attack was a total of sixteen hits, eleven of which were coined during the workout of George Uhle, the ace of the Tribe staff. Uhle survived for only five innings and was taken from the scene when a three run rally in the fifth made it apparent that the visitors would not take him seriously.

Blankenship's pitching was so effective that for eight innings the Indians were able to muss him with only eight hits, two of which were put together for a run after the Schalkmen were well out in front. Then the big Texan lost his bearings completely in the ninth and after a full house had been cleaned up by a long hit he was relieved from further responsibility and Sergt. Connally, the rubber arm man, came on the run from the bull pen to put a rapid finish to the belated outburst.

Yank Uhle in Fifth.

The first notice served on Uhle that all would not go well with him if he remained on the job came in the second inning when the Sox picked up their initial run. With one out Reynolds pulled a screecher down the left field line for two bases. He rode to the plate on a single off Cissell's bat. More bad news reached Uhle in the third. Mostil was hit by a pitched ball and lost no time burglarizing his way to second. Kamm followed with a long single to left and Mostil scooted home.

The exact cause of Uhle's departure in the fifth, when three scored, was a total of five hits. Clancy set the rally amoving by beating out a bunt, after which Mostil sacrificed. Barrett let fly a two bagger down the third base line, Clancy scoring. Kamm singled to right and put Barrett across the counter. Reynolds flied to left, but Cissell beat out a slow roller along the third base line. Then Crouse singled to send Kamm over the plate.

A lad named Harder came out to pitch in the sixth, but didn't look so good, so wasn't asked to tarry any longer than an inning. He gave a pass to Hunnefield, the leadoff batter, and Clancy sacrificed. Mostil singled to right and Hunnefield scored. Barrett gave the ball a long ride to deep left field fence and Jamieson speared it. Mostil figured it was going safe, so passed second and in retracing his steps neglected to touch the middle bag. The ball was tossed to Fonseca and Mostil was called out.

Sox Fielding Smothers Tribe.

After having various scoring chances smothered by snappy fielding or Blankenship's tight pitching in the pinches, the Indians finally broke into the game officially by scoring a run in the home sixth. The chapter started with Joe Sewell singing through short. Fonseca doubled to left and Joe pulled up at third. After Langford had expired on one of those painful popups, Summa grounded to Hunnefield, and while the out was being made Joe ran home.

The Sox let "Lefty" Bayne enjoy himself in the seventh and eighth, but in the ninth jarred him for a run to compete their day's work. Barrett started the tally on its way by caroming a two bagger off the right field concrete. Kamm scored him with a single. Then Blankenship proceeded to get himself into trouble and cut of the game in the Indians' final half. Summa singled, as did Burns, who batted for Bayne, and Jamieson walked. These three fellows scored when Lind doubled, so Connally dashed to the hill and the Tribe surrendered.

A SECOND ED WALSH

Rain Stops Cub Game but Not Soon Enough; Cards Win, 4-1

JIM BOTTOMLEY.

That cloudburst which broke loose yesterday in the seventh inning of the fourth game between the Cubs and Cards was tough on 'ladies' day' finery, but it was much tougher on Sunny Jim Bottomley, the double jointed propeller of home runs. As for the Cubs, all the interest they had in the deluge was the hope it would be good for the farmers.

The actual score at the time the storm broke with one out in the seventh was Cards, 6; Cubs, 1. Bottomley had just followed Frankie Frisch's double with his sixteenth homer. Then the game was called off, the score reverted to the sixth and last complete inning, and Frankie and Jimmie were shorn of their seventh inning assets in so far as the record books are concerned. The official score was Cardinals, 4; Cubs, 1.

Heydler Fines Wilson $100.

It is difficult to recall anything pleasing that the Cubs did before the storm. So let's turn to the case of Mr. Lewis Robert Hack Wilson, a center fielder by employment. It will be recalled that Hack entered a box during the ninth inning of Thursday's second game and slapped down Edward Young for calling him a fat so-and-so. Recalling there is a National league rule which says players shall not slap down cash customers, regardless of provocation, fandom had feared Mr. Wilson would not be with us at the resumption of activities yesterday. However, Hack was not suspended by President Heydler of the National league. The league prexy decided to reduce the Wilson estate by an even $100. Hack paid the fine and continued his labors.

While Hack was getting word of the century setback Mr. Young was in Judge Francis B. Allegretti's court answering for his part in the young riot. The judge fined him $1.

"You are not a sportsman," the judge said to Young. "When a man makes a good play, encourage him, and when he makes a bad play encourage him to make a good one the next time."

Cards Score Two in First.

The Cards made enough runs in the first inning to win yesterday's bobtailed ball game. Douthit was thrown out but High singled to right and Frisch walked. Bottomley was hit by a pitched ball and the bases were full. Hafey bounced a single off the left field wall, scoring High and Frisch. Pat Malone then steadied and struck out Roettger and forced Jim Wilson to pop a foul to Beck.

The Cubs made their only run in the first inning. English beat out a bunt with one down. Cuyler popped to Maranville and Wilson walked. Stephenson doubled to left, scoring English and putting Wilson on third. Grimm then flied out.

After High had been retired in the fifth, Frisch singled. Bottomley flied to Stephenson. Then Hafey again hit the left field wall. This time Chick's effort was good for a triple which scored Frisch. Roettger drove in Hafey with a single.

Twice in the game—in the second and sixth—the Cubs made two hits in succession, but each time faded away most pitiably. McMillan opened the second with a single and Gonzales followed suit. And there they stood on second and first while Malone struck out, Beck flied to center and English popped to second. Stephenson and Grimm connected for their second hits with one out in the sixth, but McMillan was an easy out and Gonzales forced Grimm.

Cub Attack Negligible.

When the Cubs returned to their home lot the other day they were promising dire things to all visitors. Since that return they have played four games and their grand total of runs for the series is six. They won one, because Fred Blake pitched a two hit game.

One of the factors in the shrinkage of Cubs' hopes is the relapse of Kiki Cuyler, who in the closing days of the eastern trip showed evidence of having regained his power. In the last game on the road Ki got two homers, a double, and a single. In his last four games on the road he made 7 hits in 14 times at bat. In the last four games at Wrigley field Ki has been at bat 14 times and has failed to produce anything that had remote resemblance to a safety.

Harvard Nine Beats Yale; Play Deciding Game Today

Cambridge, Mass., June 22.—(AP)—A rally in the last half of the ninth today enabled Harvard to defeat Yale in the second game of their annual baseball series, 5 to 4. The deciding game will be played tomorrow.

MULLEN DECIDES CHICAGO DOESN'T WANT BIG FIGHTS

Loses $15,000; Says He's Stepping Out.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

There will be no more championship fights staged in Chicago under the direction of Promoter James C. Mullen.

Failure of Chicagoans to support his show at Comiskey park last Thursday night caused the local promoter to make this announcement yesterday. Mullen is discouraged. It would not surprise his friends to see him drop the fight promotion game altogether.

"Chicago is not a fight city," Mullen mourned yesterday. "If the fans would not turn out for the Walker-Hudkins fight there is no use trying to arrange any more attractive shows. I had to bid against New York and Los Angeles promoters to land the Walker-Hudkins fight. It looked like a natural drawing card and every one predicted it would be the fight of the year. In view of these facts I worked hard to make the show a success. What was the result? I finished about $15,000 in the red.

"In the future I will confine myself to small shows at the Mills stadium. In a year or so I may step out of the game entirely."

Check-Up Is Not Complete.

Mr. Mullen has not completed a check-up on the show. He estimates that the attendance was about 23,000 and the receipts $130,000. The state tax is 10 per cent of the total. Walker was given $75,000 of the remainder and Hudkins $25,000.

The decision awarded Walker was the cause of argument yesterday. It was the general opinion that Hudkins was entitled to at least a draw. It was admitted that Hudkins was the aggressor, and should have been given serious consideration for carrying the fight to the champion.

Walker blocked some of the punches which Hudkins shot at the champion's midrift, but many found a mark. Walker's failure to fight back when forced against the ropes or into the corners did not help his cause any.

Ed Purdy, the referee, gave Hudkins six rounds. Walker, three, and one was called even. One of the judges gave five rounds to the titleholder and as many to the challenger. The other judge gave Hudkins two rounds, six to Walker, and called two even.

Managers Say a Few Words.

Clyde Hudkins, manager of his brother, said yesterday Ace was robbed and called it "another of those peculiar Chicago decisions." The band of Hudkins rooters who came from Omaha, Lincoln, and Alliance, Neb., denounced the decision.

Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, said there never was any question as to the result. Jack claimed Mickey blocked ninety per cent of the Ace's blows.

1929 Open Golf Tournament to Be Held at Mamaroneck

Announcement that the 1929 national open golf championship would be held at the Winged Foot club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., was made yesterday by Prescott S. Bush, secretary of the United States Golf association.

Out of yesterday's golf came a score of blasted hopes or minor tragedies, depending entirely on the point of view. One was Chick Evans, who for the first time in twenty-five years scored exactly 90. Evans was helpless on the greens and 43 putts is one answer to the gasps at the "ninety."

Archie Compston was another. With one victory over Hagen by the widest of the margins—what was it, 18 and 17? or some such impossible score—Compston started the day a shot behind Hagen and by the turn he was four shots in front. He was out in 35. But coming home the Manchester giant went to pieces and took 46 shots.

And another was Rial Rolfe of Ridgemoor. Rolfe took 37 shots on the first eight holes, which is six shots more than par. Whereupon he turned around and played the remaining ten holes in exactly the same number of shots, three under par.

MacDonald Smith played one of the best golf rounds of the day. Considered as golf alone and not by scoring, it was better than Hagen or Jones. On five successive holes he was putting for birdies from twelve feet or less and not a putt dropped. His pitch on the short sixth, dead to the pin for a two, was his only birdie.

Leo Diegel, with a 79 for the day, could lay four of them to the fifteenth hole, where he hooked two tee shots out of bounds. Playing five from the tee his third drive barely stayed in and he finished the hole with a gorgeous nine.

A bald headed man in a lavender shirt standing by the fifth tee yesterday morning can charge up one straw hat to the expenses of golf. He was holding the hat in his hand when Emmett French's wild approach shot crashed into it and ruined it. "I'm glad it was not on my head," was his comment.

One of the losers in cutting the field to the low 65 was Rufus Stewart, professional champion of Australia. Rufus has "color." He's older than most of the competitors, with a genial red face and a rotund stomach, and plays every shot, drives to putts, off the toe of his right foot [than which nothing could make a Scot more rabid].

Bill Leach, who is tied for second place with 146, shooting 74 yesterday, was driving beautifully, but missed three five foot putts.

R. R. Burton, the only British amateur in the tournament, withdrew after nine holes. He had sprained a wrist a few weeks ago and wasn't doing so well.

Six Chicagoans remain of the 65 who qualified to continue play today. They are Al Espinosa, Illinois, 148; Harry Hampton, Beverly, 153; Rudy Knepper, Onwentsia, 155; Rial Rolfe, Ridgemoor, 156; Jock Hutchison, Glenview, 157, and Eddie Loos, Lake Shore, 157. Knepper and Rolfe are amateurs.

J. Munro Hunter of Washington, paired with Frank Walsh, pitched out of the rough near the upper corner of the fourteenth green to hole out for a three. Then Frank sank his fifteen-footer.

JOHNNY FARRELL.

Quite right and proper were the proceedings in the open golf championship at Olympia Fields yesterday for Robert Tyre Jones from Georgia moved out in front of the pack by two shots and two inches of rain. Jones sank his putt for 71 as a sudden deluge began. That 71 gave him 144 shots for 36 holes and made him an even bet to take the championship for a third time at the end of the final 36 holes today.

Just as Jones sighted that last putt on the eighteenth, Walter Hagen was setting himself for his drive on the tenth tee and as dynamic a charge as any in the annals of golf. Hagen, two shots behind Jones at the end of the first round had finished the first nine in forty and lost six more shots to the flying Georgian.

Hagen Starts Drive.

He had taken 115 blows at the end of the 27 holes while Jones had taken 107. The rain was pouring down as he started his drive to catch up. Because he has one of the greatest competitive hearts ever seen in sports, Hagen has built up the reputation for coming through in a pinch. And he did yesterday.

With four birdies, and five pars, two of which missed being birdies by the thickness of his inspired putter, the British open champion came home in 32. His total for the day, 40—32—72, added to his 75 of yesterday, gave him 147, three strokes behind Jones, and made him the most dangerous competitor of the boss of the amateurs.

Meanwhile two others had moved up into second place, George von Elm, victor over Bobby in that bitter fight in the final of the amateur championship at Baltusrol two years ago, and Bill Leach, Pennsylvania professional. Von Elm, with a 74 to work on, banged around in 37—35—72 and 146 and Bill Leach had a card of 38—36—74 with his 72 for another 146.

The threats to Jones rest in Von Elm and the group three and four shots behind him. Hagen, of course, led the list with the midget Henry Ciuci, Italian ex-caddy, who refused to crumple as did most the early leaders, and Willie MacFarlane, the open champion of three years ago, who had to beat Jones in a double round playoff to win. All had 147.

Al Espinosa's Score Is 148.

Another shot or two back were two or three others capable of coming through under fire: Al Espinosa with a pair of 74's for 148, Frank Walsh, who learned his golf as a caddy on the course on which he's now fighting for the championship of all golfers; F. Densmore Shute, who has recently turned pro, and Waldo Crowder.

Behind them were Craig Wood, with the lowest round of the day, 70, to make a total of 148, and Freddy McLeod, the open champion of twenty years ago, with 73—76—149. McLeod made that 76 despite three putts from eight feet on the eighth and four putts on the ninth.

The first five holes of Hagen's final nine was played through a biblical downpour which drove every one of the several thousand in his gallery to shelter. Hagen finished the first nine by three, putting for a six on the seventh and nearly falling into the water filled ditch across the ninth fairway in getting the other six. His drive was in the rough and he hooked a brassie out into the ditch. With an awkward stance that threw him off balance as he played the shot, he nearly spoiled his nice white knickers, as he pitched out. He was on in four and down in six.

The tenth he was on in two and down in two, but on the next he sank a chip shot for his birdie. A fifteen foot putt went down for another birdie on the twelfth, and a twelve-footer for a deuce on the thirteenth. His thirty-foot putt for a birdie on the fourteenth barely missed, but a twenty-five foot one dropped for a birdie on the fifteenth. The rain was letting up and Hagen was over the edge of the green with his tee shot on the short sixteenth, but missed the cup with his chip shot and got a par 3. On the seventeenth he sent his putt for a birdie fifteen inches past the hole and barely off line and needed a par for 32.

But Hagen wanted a birdie and 31. He was driving along with eager energy, rushing on to his ball to hit another as soon as it had left his club. His drive was a beauty but his second he hit "too soon" and pushed it far over on the tenth fairway behind the tall trees at the right of the home green. And then came a shot which soared over the trees like a sky rocket, hit the back of the green and stopped dead. He hit the putt firmly but it wouldn't drop and all he got was a mere par 5.

Starting the home nine eight shots behind Jones, he had made up five of them in nine holes.

Other Leaders Fall.

The leaders at the end of the first 18 holes had fallen, except for Cuici, Frank Ball, professional at Bob Jones' home club, added 81 to his 70 of yesterday and was seven shots back, with little chance to make it up on the flying Georgian. L. M. Schmutte with 71, the first day, had 81 blows yesterday for 152, and Johnny Jones, Seattle professional who was tied with Bobby at 73 on the first day, had 79 yesterday for 152 on a par with Schmutte. Among the others too far back to count very much in the determining of the champion are Al Watrous with 152, Jim Barnes, 153, and Gene Sarazen, one of the pre-tournament favorites, 154.

The British threat was pretty well squelched when Boomer needed two more than his 75 of the first round and finished with 152, and Archie Compston went worse with 76—81—157, which let the big fellow into the final rounds by a margin of a single shot.

Jones Sets Fast Pace.

On his dash to the front, Jones was just plain poison on his first nine after he got that wild first hole out of his bag. He played it nearly as bad as yesterday, was in the rough twice and laid his third up to five feet for a birdie four. He was in the deep rough at the left with his drive on the third, put his second within forty feet of the pin and barely missed the putt. A pitch to five feet of the cup gave him a birdie on the next and on the sixth he almost nicked a deuce. He was in traps on the eighth and ninth, escaping punishment on the first by chipping out dead, but he was short with his out on the ninth and down in 5, his first hole over par.

Coming home it was different. He three putted the tenth, was in the rough with his drive on the eleventh but got his par and added five more pars without incident, except on the famed fourteenth where he laid a full spoon shot ten feet from the pin and rimmed the cup, getting a 4. His second on the seventeenth was just over the back edge of the green, but he was down in four and on the eighteenth he put his drive into the rough at the right. Trying to get home in two for another birdie, he used a brassie from the heavy rough and barely got over the ditch which crosses the fairway. His third was on and he took two putts for par.

Gunn defeated Lanham Connor, young Dallas golfer, today in a match that went an extra hole, while Carlton downed Louis Jacoby of Dallas on the final green.

STORM LASHES 2 CHOICES HOME IN DAY OF UPSETS

Patuxant and Fannie J. Save Form Players.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Players of favorites were fighting a losing battle at Arlington Park yesterday until a thunderstorm came just before the fourth race and drove most of those in the ladies' day crowd of 11,000 to cover. Then while the storm raged in all its fury and the sharp bolts of lightning made more than one railbird blink his eyes, two favorites proceeded to splash their way to victory.

L. PICHON.

Patuxtant, owned by H. L. Crain of Chicago, was the first of these favorites to take the severe storm to heart and rush on to victory. Guided by Jockey F. Maguire, he had to put all the speed he had in the struggle to get the decision from H. G. Bedwell's fast finishing Chairman. But Patuxtant was in the lead or thereabouts all the way, and when a real drive came in the stretch, Patuxtant came on wit ha rush and got the decision by a good long neck.

Gen. Diskin Trails Fannie J.

In the day's feature, Fannie J., a noted mud runner from Kentucky, stepped out in the teeth of a storm, and after she had whipped weak hearted Minervus in the first half mile, proceeded to step on home and win by nearly a length from the fast finishing Gen. Diskin. Old Flagstaff, who, in his day, could beat this kind by a country block in any kind of going, and, who was supported by the Way Back Whenners, wound up third.

Jockey L. Pichon was in the saddle on Fannie J., and when Minervus, also one of those great horses of a few years back, hopped into a two lengths' lead before they had gone a furlong, it didn't look so good for Fannie J., Pichon or the favorite players. Jockey C. Meyer was riding Minervus, but the 5 year old son of Argus soon refused to listen to the boy's urging and quit running just as suddenly as he had started.

Except in these two instances it was a day of upsets. Machette, paying $23.50 and ridden by H. Elston, got home in the 2 year old race, which opened the program.

Little Guinea Pays Hatful.

Next came the acrobatic Little Guinea to put on a winning march. He paid $49.40, when the cashiers got ready to redeem the tickets. Little Guinea only wins a couple or three races a year, but when he does the job, he does it well.

Hailstorm was the favorite in the third race. He was beaten by Cuddle, a post time tip, which failed to muster enough support to replace Hailstorm as the favorite in the last minute betting. Cuddle had to run a great race to be the winner over the Maryland three year old, but with the help of Jockey Chiavetta, managed to outstay him after racing into the lead at the head of the stretch.

In the sixth race, Magic Wand, another 10 to 1 shot, was the winner. Jockey P. Halbert gave him a rousing ride down the stretch, and he just managed to outfinish old Gibbons, with Music Shop not far back and in third place.

Why Clown Cigarettes are Made by Organized Labor

Sharks Teeth

Organized Labor denounces the loan shark and fights him with every fair weapon, even though its well paid members are not the victims of these social leeches. Underpaid, non-union toilers are his victims. Organized Labor seeks the betterment of all of those who toil. The buying of wages should not be tolerated. Organization and high wages will stamp out the loan shark. We believe in this principle. This is another reason why Clown Cigarettes are made by Organized Labor.

CLOWN CIGARETTES
There's proof enough in every Puff!

A cigarette has to be a real smoke-pal to your tongue. If these two don't get along, there's trouble. CLOWNS, because of their mellowed Turkish and Domestic blend, make dependable companions. One package cements the ties of taste!

TILDEN STARTLES FRENCH ACES IN LONDON TENNIS

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Copyright: 1928: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, June 22.—Bill Tilden erased a few more doubts today about his ability when, teamed with Francis T. Hunter, he gave Henri Cochet and Rene Lacoste, French tennis aces, a sound trimming in the quarter finals of the men's doubles at the Queen's club championships. The score was 6-1, 6-4.

HENRI COCHET.

Earlier in the afternoon he went after his youthful protégé, Junior Coen, without mercy, lacing him 6-2, 6-2, at a pace which, in the opinion of most observers, would have battered down any one else in the world.

Hunter Defeats Hopman.

The former American champion will meet Hunter in the all-American finals tomorrow. Hunter defeated Hopman, the Australian youth, today by 6-4, 7-5, after a hard tussle.

Cochet and Lacoste, both of whom sent Tilden down last year, frankly were surprised today by the Philadelphian's form. The studious little Lacoste tonight is peering deep into his many notebooks he keeps on all his important matches of the past, figuring out what is ahead of him in the semi-finals at Wimbledon, when the two probably will meet.

ITALY, BRITAIN DIVIDE.

FELIXSTOWE, Eng., June 22.—(AP)—The English Davis cup team salvaged one match out of the five played in the European zone semi-final against Italy by breaking even in the two final singles matches today. Italy already had clinched the victory by winning the first three encounters.

YANKS WIN AT EASTBOURNE.

EASTBOURNE, Eng., June 22.—(AP)—While their three teammates were holding the center of the stage at London, today, George Lott and Johnny Hennessey, American Davis cup players, put the United States into the lead in the international team matches against England here by winning a hard fought doubles encounter from L. A. Godfree and I. G. Collins, 8-10, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5, 7-5.

58 Yachts in Race Today to Michigan City

At 9:30 o'clock this morning Chicago yachtsmen start the local open racing season with the thirty-seventh annual edition of the Columbia Yacht club's Chicago to Michigan City race. Fifty-eight representatives of the three local yacht clubs will participate in the race of thirty-two and one-half nautical miles from the gap in the breakwater at Van Buren street to the end of the breakwater at Michigan City over a course reading east-south-east by three-quarters east.

Before their bigger sister yachts get under way at 9:30 the smaller members of the local racing fleet, the "pups" and "star" class boats will stage a race of their own to Michigan City, starting from the Van Buren street gap at 7 a. m.

Eagles First to Start.

The first set of racers, ten in number, to cross the line at the 9:30 gun are the members of the 20 and 25 foot Seawanhaka sloop class and the Eagle class boats of Universal design. Five minutes later twenty-one members of the yawl and schooner classes will head for Michigan City. Of this number fifteen are yawls and six are schooners. Herbert's Shalamar, a yawl, which was the winner of the cruising race to Mackinac Island last year, and W. G. D. Orr's Universal design schooner, Fortune, will be the most watched in this delegation.

Seven 30 foot Seawanhaka sloops and five members of the Chicago Yacht club's "R" class fleet will follow five minutes later.

Planes to Patrol Course.

The 35-foot Seawanhaka sloops, five in all, four members of the "Q" class, and Joyant, Howard Baxter's "P" class sloop, will hit the trail at 9:45.

Three navy seaplanes from the Great Lakes Naval Training station's naval aviation unit will patrol the course, while the U. S. sub-chaser 432, and the U. S. S. training ship Wilmette will follow the racers.

Lane and Lindblom Nines Meet Today for Prep Title

Lane Tech and Lindblom will battle for the baseball championship of the City Public High School league this afternoon at White Sox park. A large crowd, including alumni and students of both schools, is expected to be in the stands when the game is started at 3 o'clock.

Both teams went through their schedules without a defeat, and from their records they appear evenly matched. Each team boasts a hurling star. Lindblom will depend on Jacobs and the Techs will pin their hopes on the arm of Sommerfield.

GAMBLER DENIES BROKERS LOST WAGERS TO HIM

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—Supreme Court Justice Gibbs reserved decision today until fall in the suit against Arnold Rothstein, brought by George C. Sprague, receiver in bankruptcy for Edward J. Fuller and William F. McGee, former stock brokers, to recover $366,768, allegedly paid for gambling losses. Rothstein denied canceled checks offered as evidence represented gambling debts, asserting he had cashed them for the two men as a favor at various times.

Mr. Rothstein was the final witness in his own defense. He testified the only time he made a bet on a horse race with Fuller the latter won $25,000 from him on a Kentucky Derby. He denied the statement of an earlier witness that he would "bet on anything." Football is one thing he never bets on, he declared, and he rarely courts fortune over prize fights. He never goes to Sunday baseball games and only bets on championship series.

ONWENTSIA POLO TEAM TO BATTLE GRASMERE TODAY

Polo teams of Onwentsia and Grasmere officially will open their season this afternoon at Onwentsia field, Lake Forest. The game will start at 4 o'clock, and like all the Saturday matches it will be open to the public.

A recent victory over the combined Detroit-Toledo four at the Kansas City tournament stamps the Onwentsians as a strong, well balanced quartet. The addition of two army stars, Lieutenants John A. Smith and Harry Cullins, has strengthened Grasmere, and its followers are relying on them for a victory.

William Mitchell Blair will lead Onwentsia. Eugene Byfield is captain of the Grasmere four. Capt. Blair plans to use three teams during the match. Their starting line-ups follow:

ONWENTSIA.		GRASMERE.
R. Hines	No. 1	E. Byfield
K. Fitzpatrick	No. 2	Lieut. J. Smith

BOY SCOUTS PUSH OFF ON TRIBUNE CRUISE MONDAY

Arrangements for Trip Are Completed.

BY BOB BECKER.

Final instructions to the Boy Scouts and Sea Scouts who will be members of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE canoe cruise, telling each boy what equipment he should bring along in his duffel bag were mailed yesterday to the lucky youngsters selected for this cruise. The name, address, and rank of each lad who has passed the requirements for the Rock river trip sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and as a result chosen for the venture will be published tomorrow.

That the cruise, the first of its kind which the local Boy Scouts organizations have ever participated in, will move down the Rock river toward Rock Island next Monday as well organized and directed as a "fresh water navy" became certain yesterday. A final check-up showed that every detail from camp sites to menus has been anticipated and prepared for. Even the meals on the trip have been outlined, and judging from the knife and fork schedule prepared the chow line ought to be a popular one as soon as the expedition shoves off from Rockford next Monday.

There will be no hardtack and bully beef snacks on the trip. Inasmuch as the expedition passes by several towns and many farms in the fertile Rock river valley an abundance of fresh milk, cream, eggs, fresh meats, and green vegetables can be secured to feed the hungry paddlers when they stop to camp. James McDonald, 7138 Eberhart avenue, an Eagle Scout [21 merit badges] and a sea scout, has been chosen quartermaster for the trip. His job will be quantity buying to keep the commissary full of good things to eat.

Rockford is ready to give the cruise a big sendoff, Dixon is waiting to entertain the party at a big campfire dinner and meeting Tuesday night, and Scout Camp at Lyndon, Ill. [below Dixon], is expecting the Chicago boy canoeists to stop for a get-acquainted party, so the cruise downstream will provide plenty of excitement and fun for the youngsters.

COOLIDGE PLAYS HOOKY AGAIN TO GO FISHING

Town and Office Wait in Vain to Glimpse Him.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Superior, Wis., June 22.—[Special.]—President Coolidge may emerge from his seclusion on his birthday, July 4, as the guest at a big celebration being planned by Superior. And if Secretary Herbert Hoover decides to stop over at the summer White House on his way to California about that time, he, too, will be joyfully received.

On his last birthday party, the President was extremely expansive, holding a reception, eating a piece out of a big cake, and donning cowboy chaps. This year he is to add a new fishing rod, a tackle box, a hunting knife, and a birch bark canoe to his collection of gifts.

The President has been in the woods a week today. Just let him alone, is the only plea he has.

Hies Himself Up the River.

He has remained away from school on the excuse of bad roads, rain or something day after day. This morning the sky was blue and the roads fine, but he disappeared up the river with his Indian guide, John La Roque, and town and office knew him not.

John has solved the mystery of the President's fishing technique and lure in a diplomatic manner.

"The President is a good fisherman," he says.

What does he use? Why, both bait and flies. This should be enough to satisfy the democratic worm fisherman of the Wabash and the aristocratic dry fly casters of these northern waters. The President likes to get fish when he goes fishing. So he uses what is necessary.

"He catch plenty fish," says John.

Hoover May Drop In.

No definite information has been given out here as to prospective visits by Secretary Hoover or Secretary Work. It is customary, however, for cabinet officers to call on the President during the summer if they are passing anywhere near.

Mr. Work might wish to discuss the budget problem in the department which he is soon to give up to run the Hoover campaign. A visit from him would hardly be considered necessary, however, certainly not from a political standpoint. The President has adjourned politics. He seems bent on complete retirement from the scene. All political visits have been discouraged, for the present at least.

State leaders who had hoped to find in his presence here a strengthening of the opposition to the radical control of the party, will have to take his mere presence for what it is worth politically, and let it go at that. Even former Senator Lenroot, who has a home on the Brule, and who was in Superior waiting to see the President early in the week, has not seen him. The old forest has swallowed Calvin Coolidge.

SIXTEEN KILLED IN WRECK OF SWEDISH TRAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, June 22. — Sixteen were killed and thirty-four seriously injured, near Bollnas early today, when the Stockholm-Ostersund express crashed into a local locomotive from Bollnas. The express was traveling 55 miles an hour. Three front coaches were smashed and the others derailed, catching fire. Both engines were demolished.

Among the dead is the leader of the Swedish peasant party in parliament, Johan Johnsson, from Kalkebo. The engineer of the express and both firemen were killed instantly. The engineer of the local locomotive died later.

Fifty passengers received medical treatment. Twenty of them now are in the hospital, in critical condition. There were 226 passengers on the express. The right of way was badly torn up, making it impossible to restore traffic today. The cause of the accident was a mistaken signal.

ELECTROCUTE 3 MEN FOR KILLING OF POLICEMAN

Washington, D. C., June 22.—(AP)—Nicholas Lee Eagles, 32; Samuel Moreno, 20, and John Proctor, 19, were electrocuted today at the District of Columbia jail for the killing of Policeman Leo W. K. Busch in a pistol battle here in September, 1926.

The execution of the three men took place after a long fight to save them during which the case went to the Supreme court of the United States and before President Coolidge. It was the second use of the electric chair in the district, the first being the electrocution of a Negro several weeks ago. The district only recently substituted the electric chair for the gallows.

Eagles went to the chair first, singing "Eli, Eli," ancient Hebrew chant of woe. Proctor became unconscious early in the morning and had to be carried to his death.

German Singers Thrill Elmer Via the Radio

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The curtain on radio's festivities last evening opened with a revival of "The Stubborn Cinderella," by the Harry Spingold company, W-G-N, 8 to 9. Just as pretty as could need be in its light and airy way, and as good a medium as need be for the recreation of color and atmosphere of the better class of Chicago's musical shows of bygone years. May these revivals continue.

Next we were transported to the Medinah temple for a magnificent concert of the German Singers' Festival convention, WCFL, 8:15 to 10:05. In addition to the soloists and large chorus on the stage, the Chicago Symphony orchestra was in the pit. Rather unusual in this concert, the entire ensemble was only heard in the closing selection. Both the men's and the women's groups sang selections a capella and with orchestral accompaniment; and from this distant gallery seat the selections sung a capella were the most beautiful to hear.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra was a treat not alone for the music it played, but for the comparison afforded with other radio orchestras playing the same pieces. The selections were all radio favorites. The beauty of tone from this orchestra was wonderful, but the greatest point of difference was in the far greater contrast in shading in the building up masses of tonal volume of which radio has no parallel. Particularly was this noticebale in Dvorak's "Humoresque," which the audience applauded with great enthusiasm.

It was noticed with keen delight that two of the soloists are known to radio, Miss Harriet Mason, pianist, and Miss Lillian Rehberg, cellist. Miss Mason played in a delightfully dainty style the first movement of Grieg's A minor concerto, and Miss Rehberg played Volkmann's familiar "Variations Symphonique," both winning great applause from the audience.

Then we were transported to a radio stage where Gounod's "Faust" was presented in tabloid form, through WMAQ, 9 to 10.

SEEK WRIT SO STEPHENSON CAN BLOW OFF LID

Laporte, Ind., June 22.—[Special.]—Another attempt by Robert H. Moore, Gary attorney, to gain a private conference with D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana klan dragon and political leader, now serving a life term for murder, was begun here today.

Moore filed by mail a petition in Laporte Circuit court asking Judge John C. Richter to issue a mandatory order to Walter H. Daly, warden, to admit Moore to a private conference with Stephenson, which prison officials would not attend. If he gets to see Stephenson privately, Moore asserted, Stephenson will reveal a new series of political exposes "which will blow the lid off Indiana's political pot."

Moore's petition recites that Gov. Ed Jackson's recent conspiracy trial is responsible for prison officials refusing a private conference.

Moore further asserts that the governor's trial was the immediate result of Stephenson's disclosures before Indianapolis grand juries. The petition asserts, because Stephenson cannot consult freely with attorneys, he has lost and is in a position to lose large sums of money as the result of suits now pending in state and federal court.

RUSSIAN FAILURE TO KEEP PLEDGES AROUSES LATVIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, June 22.—The Latvian cabinet decided today to send a strong note of protest to Moscow because of the failure of the soviet government to keep promises contained in the Latvian-Russian trade treaty and give orders totaling $1,000,000 to Latvian industry.

The orders of the local soviet trade legation, thus far tendered to local factories, specify goods which cannot be produced in Latvia. The orders also involve long credits which the Latvian State bank is unwilling to guarantee.

The Lettish railroad guards conducting trains to Moscow and Leningrad have decided hereafter only to travel as far as the Latvian border because of the endless arrests by the Cheka (state political police of Russia) which accuses them of smuggling soviet currency into the country. The soviet government recently forbade the entry of Russian soviet currency purchased abroad, where the chervonets, normally worth $5, can be purchased for $2.30.

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—Three former Bronx officials of the street cleaning department were sentenced to Sing Sing today by Bronx County Judge Albert Cohn for their part in pay roll grafting in the department, while Commissioner of Accounts Higgins resumed his city-wide investigation to determine whether more employés should be suspended or prosecuted.

William J. Oswald was sentenced to from three to ten years; William J. Lougheed from one and a half to three years, and Benjamin Stoeber one to two years.

Four Others Indicted.

The extraordinary grand jury which has been investigating the Queensborough sewer scandal handed up two indictments this afternoon, naming former Borough President Maurice E. Connolly, John M. Phillips, Frederick B. Seeley, and Clifford B. Moore.

Ten Bankers Indicted.

Columbus, O., June 22.—[Special.]—A former secretary of state of Ohio and a United States commissioner were among ten persons indicted here today as directors of the defunct Cities Services Mortgage company, for embezzlement.

Three indictments were returned, charging embezzlement and payment of illegal dividends.

Directors named are: Harvey C. Smith, former Ohio secretary of state and president of the defunct company; Joseph W. Horner, United States commissioner and attorney for the concern; A. E. Querinjean, vice president; Ray H. Patterson, C. V. Trott, H. S. Campbell, C. G. Johnson, B. S. Carter, E. O. Bowman, and C. A. Walker.

THIRD OF MARINE CORPS TO POLICE NICARAGUA VOTE

[Copyright: 1928: By New York Times.]

BALBOA, June 22.—When reinforcements recently requested for use in connection with supervision of elections arrive, there will be 5,000 marines in Nicaragua, according to a statement of Gen. Logan Feland, commanding the forces there, who is here en route to Puerta Cabezas on an inspection tour of the Atlantic coast.

Gen. Feland explained that the nature of the country and the size of the territory makes this large force necessary. The marines on duty in Nicaragua, when the reinforcements arrive, will comprise almost one-third of the total force of the corps.

Gen. Feland leaves here Monday on the flagship Rochester with Admiral David F. Sellers. The U. S. S. Texas transited the canal this week and left a contingent of marines in Nicaragua. Others are expected from the Idaho, New Mexico, and Pennsylvania. Two hundred go to the Atlantic coast, which will increase the forces there to seven hundred.

ILLINOIS BANKERS TO HELP SOLVE FARM PROBLEM

Omar H. Wright Is Chosen as President.

Rock Island, Ill., June 22.—[Special.]—Continuation of its present policy of coöperating with the Illinois Agricultural association to give farming its rightful place along with industry, commerce, transportation, and finance was promised today by the Illinois Bankers' association in resolutions adopted at the closing session of its thirty-eighth annual convention.

Omar H. Wright, Belvidere, was elected president. Other officers named are Byron Karr, Winona, vice president, and William P. Dorris, O'Fallon, treasurer. The secretary will be named later. Chicago, Joliet, Aurora, East St. Louis, and Springfield bid for the 1929 convention. Decision will be made by the executive council.

The agricultural problem, which, according to Eugene M. Stevens of Chicago, one of the speakers, is recognized by finance and industry as the most serious one confronting the nation today, is a question of the practicability of its various solutions.

State and federal taxes are an ever increasing factor in the expense accounts of Illinois banking institutions, while there is a continued reduction of federal taxes, a resolution of the bankers' association declares.

Justice Floyd E. Thompson, candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket, spoke at the banquet which closed the convention. He gave equal praise to both Hoover and Gov. Al Smith, characterizing them as self-made men and comparing them in that respect to Lincoln.

WAVE OF SELLING WIPES OUT EARLY GAINS IN WHEAT

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat had a bulge of 1@1¼c at the start as the result of a sharp and unexpected upturn in Liverpool, but the market developed a heavy undertone later on selling by houses with eastern connections and local professionals. This filled up buyers and toward the last many of the pit longs sold out and the finish was at the bottom with net losses of ½@⅝c. Winnipeg was unsettled, and closed ⅜c higher to ½c lower, with July showing the strength, reflecting the removal of hedges against export sales.

Coarse grains were affected to some extent by the action of wheat, but like that grain eased toward the last. Corn closed unchanged to ⅝c higher, the latter on July, while oats were ½c higher to ⅛c lower and rye 1¼@1½c lower.

Foreigners After Wheat.

Reports that stocks of wheat on the continent are relatively small were regarded as partially confirmed by the more active export demand of the last week, with sales in all positions estimated at 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bu for the day, making 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 bu reported taken in the last five days. The bulk of the grain has been Canadian, although including some durum.

There was some buying of futures here early on further reports of heavy rain and hail storms in Kansas and Oklahoma, but the forecast was for generally fair in Kansas, and a little wheat was reported as being cut in Kansas, while Wichita, Kas., received 12 cars of new wheat, presumably from Oklahoma. Crop comments from the Canadian northwest remain very favorable. Crop Observer Donovan again reported black rust was in evidence in part of South Dakota, but Kinyon wired that the stand was so thin that rust would hardly be a factor. Outside speculative trade was not large and the market easily influenced. Liverpool closed 1¼@[illegible] higher.

July Corn Acts Tight.

Short covering was in evidence in July and the July was inclined to act a little tight at times, and went to around 3½c over September at one time, the widest difference so far, and gained ½c on the deferred future for the day. The trade had an impression that a leading local bull was on the buying side of futures. Cash demand was somewhat less active and the sample basis was steady to ½c lower. Weather conditions over the belt were favorable for the new crop.

July oats showed fair strength and closed within a fraction of the top on scattered buying, which found offerings light. Cash lots sold as high as 22c over old July for No. 2 white and 150,000 bu No. 3 white sold in store at 61c, or about 5c over the future. Outside rye markets were weak and had a depressing effect here. Trade was light. Export sales were estimated at 100,000 bu at the seaboard.

LARD RANGE NARROW

Most of the trading in lard was in changing from July to distant deliveries. There was also some hedging sales of lard by packers and a little scattered trade on both sides, shorts being the best buyers. At the close prices were unchanged on all deliveries except December, which was 2½c lower. Liverpool was 3d to 6d lower. Exports were 337,025 lbs.

Short ribs were unchanged to 2½c lower and bellies unchanged to 2½c higher, with a light trade. Cash demand for green and pickled meats was fair, and for lard [illegible]. Hogs were in moderate supply and prices [illegible] higher. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders are timid about selling on breaks owing to the wet weather in the northwest where harvesting is being layed and quality damaged, while there are also reports of loss in quantity from scattered hail storms. The short interest was said to have been reduced early, and selling on expectations of better weather in the northwest eased values at the last. It is a weather market for the time, with harvesting and marketing in the southwest delayed. A big break or bulge is not expected by the trade unless conditions become pronounced in either direction.

The pit element in July corn is bearish and takes advantage of strong spots to sell it. Longs bid prices up occasionally and force a covering movement. Cash interests who have held off in changing over their hedges from July to September are in a quandary as to whether to cover their hedges and stand long the cash corn or to [illegible] the cash grain on July sales next month and run the risk of getting it back at lower prices, or put their hedges into September at around 3c difference. They report a good demand for cash corn right along and decreasing stocks, yet are afraid of a decline in cash grain.

Houses that were among the largest sellers of wheat during the day were good buyers of July in the late trading. Traders in the pit appeared to favor the bids at the [illegible].

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Foreigners were after cash wheat at the seaboard and sales of 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bu Manitobas and durums were reported in all positions, with the continent the best buyer. Rye sales were placed at 100,000 bu and there was a fairly good business in barley.

Chicago handlers sold 3,000 bu wheat, 106,000 bu corn, and 39,000 bu oats to the domestic trade, with 150,000 bu No. 3 white oats sold in store at 61c. It is understood around 700,000 bu oats have been sold in store in the last week.

Basis on cash wheat showed little change in the leading markets. No. 2 red on track here was nominally 25@30c over, No. 2 hard 3½@4½c over, and No. 1 northern July to 1½c over.

Offerings of cash corn were small, but the demand less active and the basis was steady to ½c lower. No. 2 mixed ¾@1½c over; yellow @3¼c over, white 3@3½c over. No. 3 mixed July price to ½c over, yellow 1@1½c over; and white 1½@2c over July. Spot prices in outside markets were unchanged to 1c higher.

EGG VALUES EASIER

Eggs for June delivery were offered more freely and closed ⅛c lower at 30¾c, while November refrigerators were unchanged at 32⅝c at the close. Sales were 104 cars, and arrivals 19,693 cases.

Butter was handled sparingly with 13 cars sold at 44⅝c. Arrivals were 16,923 tubs.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quieter today with prices a shade higher on print cloths. Sales for the week ran well over 100,000 pieces for the first time in weeks. Cotton yarns were quiet. Burlap traders are organizing opposition to the establishment of a burlap exchange and will hold a protest meeting on Monday. Burlaps were steady. Silk fabrics of a styled character, chiefly printed lines, are being sold steadily in small lots. Wool goods were quiet.

Cement Consolidation Negotiations Called Off

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Directors of the Pennsylvania Dixie Cement corporation decided at a meeting today that as an insufficient number of North American Cement corporation series "A" 6½ per cent sinking fund gold debentures has been deposited under the agreement of consolidation, the proposed merger of Penn Dixie and North American Cement would not be carried out. Early in July John A. Miller, now president of Penn Dixie Cement, will become chairman of the board, and Blaine Smith, vice president of Universal Portland Cement, will be made president.

COTTON NEWS BULLISH

News regarding the cotton crop is bullish. There are weevil and lice in sections and especially in Texas. There has been too much rain in parts of the belt. These factors and others are having a good effect on trade sentiment, and a better class of buying is developing.

Lower cables than expected led to a decline at the start yesterday from which there was a good advance, only to meet selling for profit. The close while at fair recessions from the top, was at net gains of 4 to 10 points in Chicago, and 7 to 17 points in other markets. Spots were up 15 points to 21.80c in New York, 21.45c in New Orleans, 21.45c in Houston and 21.35c in Galveston. Liverpool closed 1 point lower to 1 point higher with spot sales 4,000 bales.

A crop report issued by the Dallas News was fairly favorable. Weather conditions in the main were rather better. Prices follow:

There was a scramble for better grades of hogs from the start yesterday at 5@15c higher prices, advancing the top to $10.90, which was also refused at the close in hopes of pushing the top up to $11.00 on today's trade. General average price advanced 10c further at $10.45, against an average of $9.75 the previous Friday and $8.65 a year ago. Larger houses led the way all day, with some smaller interests left with unfilled orders at the close. Only 6,000 hogs were left, mostly fair quality packing sows which closed 15@25c under the high point Thursday.

Best cattle sold strong, while others continued weak, grassy cows and heifers showing further uneven losses. The latter are selling as much as $1.00@2.00 under the high time early last week. Fancy baby beef heifers averaging 703 lbs, topped the market at $14.75, no prime steers being available. Calves are closing on par with a week ago and stockers and feeders 15@25c lower.

Lamb Market Strong.

Lambs held firm at the recent advance, late sales showing mostly 50c gain since the close of last week, with culls 50c to $1.00 higher for the week. Idahos reached $17.00, with top natives at $16.50 and old ewes at $7.00. The week's receipts at Chicago will total about 40,000, the smallest since May, 1924, barring one holiday week.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 40,000 to 50,000. F. M. Sherwood marked 40,000, J. M. Waters 41,000, H. C. Carlson, 42,000, W. C. White, 43,000, S. Lund and C. Southwick, 45,000, J. T. Brown, 47,000, W. T. Reneker and F. Gehrmann, 48,000, C. Daley, 49,000, and R. Ellis, 50,000.

LEECH EXPLAINS STABILIZATION OF FRENCH FRANC

BY HARPER LEECH.

This column has been asked: "Can you explain simply and briefly the purpose and effect of the stabilization of the French franc?"

The purpose of the stabilization of the French franc is to give legal recognition to the actual exchange ratio of gold and French money. By thus "writing down the par" France, in effect, does for her national economic system what the bankers and receivers of a corporation do when they reduce an inflated capitalization to the actualities and earning power of the business.

The effect of the stabilization of the franc restores France to the gold standard, which means that French business will hereafter be transacted in the same kind of basic money used by the leading nations of the world with which France trades—and thus trade will be relieved of the disturbing and restrictive effect of sudden changes in the value of money—as under the gold standard all prices are in terms of one commodity.

Under a paper standard prices may vary two ways. They vary as under the gold standard according to the law of supply and demand. Under a paper standard they also vary with the value of the paper unit of value. The effect of that is to "abolish trade by converting it into betting," as was said of France's experiments with paper currency during her first great revolution.

The inflation of the French currency and debt was an inevitable consequence of war and human nature.

Whenever a nation arrives at that period when the financial consequences of a war must be met, opposing interests come into play.

Those saving people who, before the war, exchanged their gold, their labor or goods for obligations payable in francs or any other unit of money, at that time exchangeable with gold at the pre-war par ratio, naturally hope and strive for a stabilization as near to the pre-war par as possible.

Those who speculated in securities or the currency hope for the same thing.

Those who must exchange their labor for commodities naturally resist such a transfer of much of the contemporary national income to investors and speculators.

The result is that the stateman who stabilizes the money, cannot hope to remain popular thereafter with either those who wanted a higher par or those who wanted a lower par [with greater confiscation of savings]. That is why the correspondents predict that Poincare's reward for his feat of stabilization will be political retirement.

War time inflation and post-war deflation occur in all countries, but in different forms. We met the war cost here mostly by borrowing. So we have one faction which wants higher taxes and rapid retirement of the national debt and another faction which wants lower taxes and slower retirement of the debt. They correspond to the high and low par divisions of French politics.

DELIVERY OF LOW GRADE COTTON IN N. Y. IS ENJOINED

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Charging that the New York cotton market has been demoralized through unethical practices, Louis N. Osmond, New York cotton trader, obtained a temporary injunction in the State Supreme court today restraining the New York Cotton exchange and its members from delivering low grade cotton in violation of the exchange's contract.

The injunction was obtained from Justice Lydon as part of Osmond's $500,000 damage suit against the exchange and the cotton houses of Anderson, Clayton & Co. and George M. McFadden & Bros. Osmond states in his complaint that the two houses concentrated in New York a large quantity of low grade cotton, below the legal seven-eighths of an inch standard, and delivered it and redelivered it back and forth among themselves and their agents for the purpose of demoralizing contract holders and breaking down the price structure of the market.

Through these practices, which he states were carried on with the full knowledge of the exchange and its managers, Osmond claims to have suffered damages for which he is suing, and declares that farmers, traders, merchants, and mills have been mulcted of hundreds of millions and the port of New York has been discredited as a cotton market.

STEEL.

TRADE IN CHICAGO STOCKS IS DULL AND SALES ARE SMALL

Chicago stocks continued dull yesterday, sales in few issues exceeding 1,000 shares. A feature of the day was a big movement in Indian Refining. This is a New York stock and not listed in Chicago but pool activity in recent weeks finally spread to the Chicago board where both the common and certificates jumped 6 points each on sales of around 6,650 and 6,550 shares each.

Keystone Steel was an erratic performer, skimming along evenly through most of the day when it dropped from 49 to 45½ in one sale at which it closed, off 2½ net. Super Maid eased ½. Net earnings of Super Maid for the first five months of this year totaled $539,133, equal to $3.59 a share on the 150,000 shares of no par common stock outstanding. This compares with $209,329 or $1.39 a share in the corresponding period of last year.

On small sales, Great Lakes Dredge recovered 1¾ to 274¾. Waukesha Motors jumped 15½ to 147½. Public Service was up 4 points and Hart, Schaffner & Marx gained 2 points. Chickasha Oil and A. M. Castle advanced a point. Campbell, Wyant & Cannon Foundry, Standard Dredging, National Standard and Bendix "B" were off from one to two points.

$14,000,000 More Gold Goes to Europe Today

New York, June 22.—(AP)—The flow of gold to Europe will be accelerated tonight with shipments of $2,000,000 to Italy by the Guaranty Trust company and $12,000,000 or more to France.

The French shipment, which will be another withdrawal from the ear marked stocks in the Federal Reserve vaults, has been reported as likely to be as high as $13,000,000. This would be the largest single consignment to leave New York. About $40,000,000 has been transferred to France in the last two weeks. The gold movement from New York to Paris is expected to stop when the French stabilization plan is announced tomorrow.

Finds Germany Leads in Economic Recovery

Germany is coming back faster than any country in Europe, in the opinion of Ward C. Castle, executive vice president of the National Bank of the Republic, who has just returned from an eight weeks' trip to England, France and Germany.

"Conditions in England," Mr. Castle said, "are improving slowly and it is the opinion of most bankers in London that it will be many years before the British isles recover their pre-war prosperity. France has done much rebuilding but still has a long way to go before it can hope to recover the losses caused by the war.

"Germany, on the other hand, is coming on with surprising speed and the German people are working hard to regain their lost prestige and trade. There is great activity everywhere."

SEARS-ROEBUCK MELON REPORTED TO BE IN OFFING

BY O. A. MATHER.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., the big Chicago mail order house, again is to cut a "melon" for the benefit of its stockholders, according to reports in La Salle street last night.

The directors will meet next Tuesday and vote to submit a proposal to the stockholders to increase the authorized capital stock from 4,200,000 to [illegible] shares. Although the present stock has no par value, it is carried on the books at $105,000,000, or $25 a share. At the end of 1927, the company had a surplus of $55,390,082, which is expected to be considerably increased by this year's excellent earnings. On the present basis, the addition of 800,000 shares would capitalize $20,000,000 of surplus.

Stock Dividend Expected.

The reports last night were that the company would declare a stock dividend of [illegible] or 15 per cent, payable probably around the end of the year. Such a distribution would be justified by sales and earnings, which thus far this year are estimated to be setting new high records. Net income last year was $25,022,-[illegible], which was equivalent to $5.95 a share on the stock. This was more than double dividend requirements, as the stock now is on an annual dividend basis of $2.50 a share.

While the company does not issue earnings statements except at the end of the year, record earnings are indicated by its monthly sales reports. Sales for the five months ended May 31 totaled $[illegible], an increase of $10,044,030, or [illegible] per cent, over the same period in 1927. The company has no funded debt and no preferred stock.

Step in Rail Merger Seen.

New possibilities for eastern rail consolidations were raised yesterday. Granting of permission by the interstate commerce commission to the Pittsburgh and West Virginia to build a 38 mile extension in western Pennsylvania was followed by a sharp advance in the stock market in the stock of that road and also in Western Maryland shares.

The new line will afford a connection between the two roads and open up a new route through the Pittsburgh district. But, beyond this, Wall and La Salle streets saw in the extension another move by F. E. Taplin, chairman of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, in his plan to create a lakes to tidewater system by joining that road with the Western Maryland and the Wheeling and Lake Erie.

Roads Wanted by Taplin.

It is no secret that the Taplin interests have wanted the Western Maryland and the Wheeling and Lake Erie for some time, but were blocked by open market buying of the stocks of these roads by the New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, and Nickel Plate interests, which, with the Pennsylvania railroad, has been working on a plan to consolidate the eastern roads into four great trunk systems.

But the interstate commerce commission has cited the three roads to explain their stock purchasing, and the case will come up next Monday. If the commission should force the roads to dispose of their holdings the Taplin interests are regarded as having a good chance for succeeding with their plan. Directors of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia will decide next Tuesday when to start work on the new extension, which will cost nearly $12,000,000.

Packard Earnings Soar.

The Packard Motor Car company in the nine months ended March 31 earned nearly twice as much as in the corresponding period in 1926-1927. Net income was $17,862,394, equivalent to $5.92 a share on the 3,004,264 shares of stock outstanding, compared with $9,023,225, or $3 a share, in the previous period. Net income for the quarter ended March 31 was $7,661,769, or $2.55 a share.

Earnings of the Nash Motor company for the second quarter of its fiscal year ended May 31 were poor, according to President C. W. Nash, chiefly because manufacturing was stopped six weeks before announcing new models in order to protect dealers. In addition, most of the costs attendant on the new models were charged against earnings. Third quarter earnings are expected to be good.

Corn Products Dividend.

An extra dividend of 50 cents a share was declared by the Corn Products Refining company yesterday. This compares with an extra disbursement of 75 cents a share paid last January. Devoe & Raynolds, Inc., authorized the payment of 20 cents a share extra on the new [illegible] par A and B common stocks. [illegible] Leather company directors placed the common stock of the company on a $2 basis, with the declaration of an initial dividend of 50 cents quarterly. Extra dividends also declared during the day are: City Investing, $2.50; [illegible] company, 12½ cents; Standard Underground Cable Company of Canada, Ltd., 10 per cent; Independence State bank, 1 per cent. The Ohio Leather company reduced accumulations on the first preferred stock to $3 a share with a payment of $3 a share on arrears.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 22.—[Special.]—Trading in stocks was almost at a standstill today with prices following an irregular course in a turnover of less than 1,400,000 shares, the smallest for any full day for many months. The most important feature of the stock market was the obvious indication that distress selling had been completed.

Apparently the drop in brokers' loans of more than $158,000,000 had been well discounted, for it failed to cause even a momentary rally at the opening, and the fact that time money rates were firmer also attracted almost no attention. The call money market was as dull as the stock market, demand and supply being well balanced at the official rate of 6½ per cent.

Radio Star Performer.

Radio was the star actor of the day from a standpoint of activity. After rising to 177⅞ from a low for the day of 171½, heavy offerings forced the price back to 174 for a net advance of 4½ points.

Of the groups the rails and the coppers made the best showing. Texas and Pacific, New York Central, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, St. Louis Southwestern, Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago and Alton, St. Paul, Chicago and Northwestern, Kansas City Southern, Lehigh, St. Louis Southwestern, Peoria and Western, Western Maryland, Western Pacific, and Erie scored net gains ranging from fractions to 6⅞ points, the maximum advance being in Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

Copper Shares Advance.

Greene Cananea, Chile, Granby, Calumet and Arizona, and Howe Sound featured trading in the copper group, all registering substantial net gains. Curtiss and Wright airplane stocks were weak. Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck improved slightly in active trading.

The steels moved narrowly in quiet trading. Most of the oils lost ground in a small way and tobaccos were easier. La Clede Gas was 13 points lower on a sale of 100 shares.

In the motor group trading was mixed, gains ranging from fractions to 5⅛ points being scored by Pierce Arrow common and preferred, Chrysler, Dodge, Packard, and Studebaker, while most of the others finished in the minus column. General Motors moved over a small range and closed a net loser of almost a point. Willys Overland, the most active member of the group, lost 1⅜ points.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

In putting into type a story concerning the affairs of the Chicago Joint Stock Land bank, a cipher was dropped out of the cash on hand figures, making that item read $33,984. The figures should have been $330,984.

Chrysler-Dodge Amalgamation.

R. D. S.—Subject to the approval of stockholders, Dodge Brothers, Inc., will be acquired by the Chrysler corporation. This will bring under Chrysler management the two companies, each of which, however, will retain its own identity and will continue to produce and market its own product.

The plan contemplatese the exchange of Dodge Brothers stock for that of Chrysler on the following basis:

The exchange offer in regard to Dodge Brothers class A common stock seems to us to be fair enough.

The question as to wether or not holders of the preference stock will fare better by making the proposed exchange deserves some consideration.

The proposed transaction involves the transfer of all the assets of Dodge Brothers, Inc., to the Chrysler corporation under an agreement to be approved by each class of Dodge Brothers stockholders, whereby these stockholders receive Chrysler stock as stated above.

After such transfer there would remain no assets from which to redeem Dodge preference stock or to continue dividend payments.

Upon the plan becoming operative nondepositing preference stockholders will, therefore, receive the Chrysler stock provided for them by the plan or they may demand payment in cash for their Dodge stock.

In case they demand cash they are entitled under the laws of Maryland [under which Dodge is organized] to the "fair value" of their stock unaffected by the transfer to the Chrysler corporation.

Such value may be governed by the approximate price at which the stock was selling shortly before the merger, which in recent months has been around 70.

After a nondepositing stockholder has been awarded cash he losses his right to take Chrysler stock and must take the cash awarded him.

The determination of the "fair value" would be fixed by three commissioners appointed by a Maryland court and both the company and the dissenting stockholders have the right to appeal from the findings of these commissioners.

In view of the nature of the proposed transaction it appears that there are two logical alternatives open to holders of Dodge preference stock.

One is to support the plan and deposit the stock immediately and the other is to sell the stock in the open market.

Of course, Dodge preference stockholders exchanging their stock must give up their preference rights and exchange a stock paying $7 for one paying $3, but it is a fact that dividend payments on the Dodge preference stock must be considered as far from assured.

June 25, 1928, has been fixed as the last day for making deposits under the plan.

TRADE IS LIGHT, CHANGES SMALL IN BOND MARKET

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Trading was light and price changes small in the bond market today. Volume of sales again was less than $10,000,000.

Copper company obligations, particularly Andes 7s, attracted some buying and moved up a point in today's quiet market. Announcement that negotiations for a merger of Studebaker and Pierce Arrow are nearing completion created a demand for Pierce Arrow 6s, which advanced more than a point to a new year's high at 101½.

Rock Island 4s and Pennsylvania gold 5s, each with a gain of a point or more, were prominent among rails to seek higher levels. Third Avenue 5s improved on buying influenced by announcement that the company would seek a seven cent fare. Decision of directors to defer interest payments on Seaboard Air Line 5s caused a break of around 5 points in that issue, although it recovered about half the gain before the close, moving back from a new year's low at 44¼ to close at 46½, off 3½ points net. The convertible 6s closed with a 2 point net loss. Public service of New Jersey 4½s and other utilities were soft.

The foreign list was steady, with gains as great as a point registered by Italian and some Latin American issues.

Receiver Is Appointed for McFarlan Motor Co.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 22.—(AP)—Raymond S. Springer of Connersville has been appointed temporary receiver for the McFarlan Motor corporation of Connersville. Hyatt Frost, an attorney for the company, said the failure was due to the absence of Harry McFarlan, president, who has been ill for the last four years, and to the recent death of Burt Barrows, vice president. They were the principal owners.

What's Wrong with This Picture?

Why will people pay $75,000 for a 100 ft. corner or a city home with their future behind them when, 1 hour removed, on the corner of two important concrete highways, in the prettiest part of the beautiful southwest portion of Chicago, 75 acres with a magnificent view in all directions, facing a golf club and near a dozen others, in the heart of the forest preserve and country estate section can be had for the same amount and no one can estimate its future value.

It will be a pleasure to send you details of or to show you personally this unusual combination country place and investment.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

On Tuesday of this week the Chicago Morris Plan Bank will have loaned its 50,000,000th dollar. Like the $49,999,999 preceding dollars, it will be used for some family running need.

It was only a little over ten years ago that The Chicago Morris Plan Bank introduced into this community a plan whereby credit was made available to the man of moderate circumstances at a reasonable cost and upon terms which met with his purse. Little did the community realize that the facilities offered were so greatly needed and that the amount of money loaned would ever approach the amount of money which has already been loaned.

A little over two years ago this same institution was instrumental in providing facilities for another phase of the family running business. We were almost shocked at the high rates which were charged for second mortgage loans on homes, and we were equally shocked at other conditions which were accepted as a part of the second mortgage business. A very large fund was made available to see if the home owners could not be spared the exorbitant charges and the other unsatisfactory conditions.

While we have not as yet loaned $50,000,000 on second mortgages, we have already loaned several million dollars in the short period in which we have been engaged in this field. We are hopeful that as time goes on the record established by The Chicago Morris Plan Bank as agent in second mortgage development will be quite as notable as the record which has been established in the making of industrial loans.

We will be glad to meet home owners in Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties. We will make loans to you for a period up to three years on houses and homes and up to three flat buildings. The appraisals will be made promptly and payments will be made to fit the home owner's income, and the rates charged will not be out of sight. At the present time we charge 6% interest plus a commission which works out as follows:

90.00 per $1,000 for 3 years.

OF CHICAGO.

Values for Everybody

In addition to the following used cars shown at our Used Car Stores: 2235-2237 Michigan-av., we are offering a large number of lower priced cars from $100 up.

PACKARD 8, 2-43 TOURING. A real road car, with distinctive appearance and rare performance, refinished in 2-tone lacquer, rebuilt, guaranteed by us, and equipped with tonneau windshield, 2 spotlights, etc. This car, at the price, represents by far the greatest automobile buy in this type we have offered this season. $1,675.

PACKARD 6, 3-26 4-PASS. COUPE. Had not seen a great deal of service when turned in to us. It is rebuilt in accordance with our policy, entirely refinished, guaranteed, and should give you new-car appearance, performance and satisfaction. Has cowl band and lights, disc wheels, and good tires. Get acquainted with Packard ownership—it is easy to own one. Price, $1,575.

MARMON 1926 7 PASS. SEDAN. The 6-cylinder model. This one has 4 whl. brakes. Appearance is practically as good as new, interior shows no signs of use, and puts up a snappy appearance with its wire wheels and special color. We ask you to inspect—then judge for yourself. $1,275.

PIERCE-ARROW 1927 SEDAN 5 PASS. Received in such elegant condition it would be a waste of money for us to touch it. Everything as you would expect to find in your ideal used car buy. Completely equipped. We believe this car will stand comparison with any available anywhere. $1,975.

PACKARD 8, 1-43 SEDAN 7 PASS. Packard straight 8 smoothness is different and real—you sense it only by a demonstration. Imagine, this car is refinished from stem to stern, has new tires, a new spare, too, full equipment and is priced way below what you would think you might have to pay for a rebuilt and guaranteed Packard, such as this. $1,650.

PIERCE-ARROW 1925 COUPE. Model 80, snappy 4-passenger, with 6 good tires, first class finish and low mileage. We urge you not to overlook the genuine opportunity available in this value at our price of $1,100.
